from $15 to $19.75 and honestly one could not buy the material and have all the trouble of making them oneself, for less than that. They are all made along girlish lines and there is only one of a kind. Some have ribbon girdles or ribbon runs off the light shades while others are all white.

To revert to auto things again, coats are being shown here for automobile wear which are not only serviceable but good looking. They are of Bolivia cloth, in purple, grey, blue, tan, rose, full flare coats, loose, priced at from $45 to $59.50. They are warm as can be but very light in weight.

Of separate skirts for summer wear there is a bewildering variety. Quantities of wash skirts are being sold the manager tells me. Peach bloom cloth is one of the favorites. It is much like the old-fashioned mohair. And by the way mohairs and alpacas are being received. The old-time novels which tells of a heroine who had nothing but one shiny alpaca dress to wear will have to blue pencile or be untrue to life. These come in stripes as do also an old-fashioned ducking in wide awning stripes of black and white, blue and white and green and white.

There are just a few models of a heavy linen, a beautiful fabric which was in this country before the war. The skirts are made up only in two colors, tan and the new blue. There are imported piques, striped cotton gabardines, cotton poplins trimmed in cotton golfine cloth. And a washable white serge which can be dumped right into a basin of water and which will come up smiling and in splendid shape is a practical and good looking skirt for summer wear with pretty blouses.

The sport skirts are made along narrow lines as over against the fancy suit skirts which are just as full as they can be made. There are plenty of the new blouses, too, to go with these, some of sheer material, plenty of the light weight silks. And speaking of silk calls to mind something in the underwear department of another of the shops. It is a union suit for women, the lower part of knitted material, the vest of silk. It is only $1.25 and an excellent undergarment for summer wear. And have you seen the stockings? Those made to look like socks, the part up to sock height of any color you like, the top of flesh color? They are something new.

A member of the diplomatic corps at Washington tells a story of a Persian who came to this country on a special mission.

Among those who entertained him was a wealthy American, who invited the oriental to his country house. The morning of the guest's arrival the American visited him in his apartment, and was astonished to see him hopping about the floor in the strangest way imaginable. The host ventured to ask the reason for this curious action. The Persian replied:

"You see, this carpet is green, with pink roses here and there. Green is a sacred color with us, so I am obliged to hop from rose to rose. It is good exercise, but rather fatiguing."
