

says that from a hygienic standpoint it should never become more marked, and she thinks it never will again. The slight curve in the new corsets is called the military curve. A corset should be worn solely for the support it gives and should not confine the figure for any other reason. It should depend entirely on the individual how high the bust line, how long the hip. If we took pains to give more intelligent consideration to this foundation garment we would be better dressers and more healthy women, according to this specialist and it takes only a little common sense to know that she speaks the truth.

Space will not permit further discussion for the benefit of our season's crop of brides, and there is a heavy crop this year, but we will resume with what is left over next week.

A bit of shop news which is interesting in a different way is that of the hanging of the portrait painting of the Walker brothers in the ladies' waiting room of Walker's store. This is giving persons who knew and know the Walker family an opportunity to get a splendid view of the likeness of these men who were so closely identified with the life and progress of Salt Lake City and the West and is proving of much attraction to those who only know by reputation of these successful brothers and the fortune they amassed by their own industry and acumen. J. R. Walker had the picture hung with great care in order that it might be seen in the best possible light and many are daily making the trip up to the third floor for a view of it.

Mary—Love never did bring me any luck, mum. Mrs. Smith—Really, I fall to see how that can concern me, Mary. Mary—No, indeed, mum; only now I've broken the statue of Venus, mum.—Judge.
