SAUNTERINGS

The gayest party the Country club has seen this year was that given by Mrs. Charles A. Quigley on Tuesday evening, when twenty-eight friends were invited to enjoy themselves, the occasion being Mr. Quigley's birthday.

Earlier in the day Mr. Quigley had given a luncheon at the Alta club in honor of Frank Plaisted of New York, and it was some luncheon. There was no one invited who had any serious thoughts about what he would do the remainder of the afternoon. Mr. Quigley was assisted by Joel L. Priest of Boise, who poured, and the party was thoroughly organized by dinner time, when said Priest announced to Mr. Quigley that he was giving a little dinner at the Country club to some prominent lumbermen from the northwest and invited him to join. The invitation was accepted with alacrity.

When they arrived at the scene of festivities the surprise had been so carefully planned that the honored guest walked in on those who had been invited to join him without the slightest suspicion of what was about to happen. His amazement was followed by a personally conducted tour to the lockers where he and Mr. Priest found their dress clothes ready for occupancy, and a retinue of servants to assist them in putting them on. There were shirt men, shoe men, tie men and waiters, and everything in readiness for a quick change so there would be no delay. It suited Mr. Quigley exactly, and utterly spoiled Joel Priest, who remarked that he had always had an ambition to have a valet but never knew how necessary it was to have two working on you while the third man brought in a libation. Of course, this was not said in Boise, but Salt Lake.

The dinner was a most elaborate affair, with covers laid for thirty and one of the features of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful gift to the honored guest by Frank J. Gustin in a remarkable speech, which was feelingly responded to by Mr. Quigley.

Following the dinner the happy guests danced two or three miles and the whole affair was the first perfectly good party the Country club has seen since the opening.

Miss Becky Almond recently returned from New York, where she has been engaged in musical study. Henry Oberndorfer also arrived during the week, after a winter of hard work in the metropolis.

They have both studied with Alberto Jonas, and have had a most successful year, playing several concerts at Wanamaker's Auditorium, one of them before an audience of twenty-five hundred people. Both Mr. Oberndorfer and Miss Almond are exceptional artists and the announcement that they will give a concert at the Salt Lake

There is nothing quite like a glass of good, cold beer on a hot day. It's refreshing and satisfying and can be taken ice-cold without unpleasant results.

Fisher Beer

contains the extracts of the finest Utah barley. It is slightly stimulating (about 3 1/2% alcohol). This combination of nourishment and mild stimulation explains why beer can be safely taken ice-cold where so-called "soft drinks" and iced water can not.
