at a luncheon at the Country club Wednesday. Miss Stella Fabian entertained at a luncheon for her Thursday afternoon. Miss Mabel Burrows was also a guest of honor.

“And when,” said Mrs. Nuvoreesh, “those French pheasants came by singing the Mayonnaise, it was too deeply touching for words.”

Miss Jennette Luman and Miss Florence Haloran left this week for Mr. Luman's ranch in Wyoming, where they will spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Van Cott entertained a box party at the Orpheum Monday night in honor of Mrs. Elizabeth Hooper Dunbar and Miss Beth Dunbar. Miss Florence Kimball and Miss Pearl Van Cott were present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bamberger and daughter, Dorothy, left this week to attend the graduating exercises at Cornell, where Clarence Bamberger has been in school.

Julian Bamberger returned from Princeton this week to spend the summer with his parents.

One of the most charming recitals of the season was that given by George Rogers at the Salt Lake theatre Tuesday for Samuel Newhouse and a number of friends. Arthur Shephard accompanied Mr. Rogers.

So many of the officers at the post have been busy this week with target work, that the regular Friday night hop was postponed from last night until Friday evening, June 19th.

The Symphony concert Wednesday night brought the regulars out in crowds. A dozen parties could be seen scattered over the lower part of the house, aside from the stall parties. Many striking toilettes were in evidence. Samuel Newhouse and his niece, Miss Mary Moore, entertained the largest stall party. They were in stall “C” with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Judge, Count de La Borde and one or two others. Miss Maud May Babcock entertained a stall party in honor of Dr. Anderson who is here to take charge of the summer school at the University. Mrs. E. Bonnemort and Mrs. H. M. Dinwoodey entertained loge parties. Mrs. E. A. Wall and her daughters, who have recently returned from their eastern trip, were in the dress circle.

There is a chance for a new record for the first of the rapid set who digs up nerve enough for a speaking acquaintance with one of the new Directoire gowns.

To a certainty the spasm of moral fervor aroused over the first public display of the new gowns at Longchamps the other day will quickly die out and Parisian femininity will take to the new idea of wearing tights with petticoatless sheath dresses like a duck to water.

Worth says he made a Directoire forty years ago and the wearer was expelled from a reception for the Ministry of Marine. As soon as Chief Pitt can spare a little time for his cherished stockade scheme and the boys who have taken off everything but the high gears on their machines, he might dig around a little on the Directoire matter, for about one promenade up Main street by an apparition of local feminine loveliness gowned in a sheath dress that opens on one side at the knee and whose entire lingerie complement consists of a pair of black silk bust-to-ankle tights would start something that might end with the chief chasing little birds around in a circle up Dry Creek canyon, if it caught him unprepared.
