When the “artistic temperament” bug gets in its work on one of Italy's high brows and gets it in good, only a revelation, of the guaranteed not to wear, tear, rip or break sort, is about the only thing that can give you a line on what's going to happen.

The latest one is from Rome and concerns the new successful playwright, Gabriel D'annunzio, whose play, “The Ship,” has recently created quite a sensation in Rome.

The greatest achievement of this young man at present is carrying violet tinted and scented umbrellas to match his particular brand of complexion. He owns eight of the creations. He spends most of his spare time in his dressing rooms (2). He has six dozen day shirts. His underwear cost him $3,000 and is of silk. Four dozen street gloves made from models and two dozen evening gloves are a couple of more items of his wardrobe. Our information doesn't state what sort of a corset he wears, but it's a twenty to one shot he wears one. Maybe a new one every day. (Anna Held please note.)

Of course if a man really WANTS to sleep in the lake all night it goes with us. It isn't our lake.

One of the largest weddings of the week was that of Miss Freda Erickson to Fred D. Winegar, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents Tuesday evening, Reverend Chas. E. Perkins reading the service. The bride was attended by Miss Stella Erickson. A large reception followed the wedding.

The Post will soon boast of another handsome young lieutenant, word having been received that Midshipman Alvah Lee has transferred his services from the navy to the army and will, sometime this month, join his regiment at Ft. Douglas.

The rain Wednesday played havoc with the mid-week luncheon at the Country Club, though a number of small parties were entertained. Mrs. A. V. Callaghan entertained for her sister, Miss Van Wyck, who is a guest here for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Y. Wallace leave next week for a trip to Alaska. They sail from Seattle the latter part of the month.

Russell L. Tracy and son have started on a horseback trip through Yellowstone Park.

Judge and Mrs. Powers will probably make a motor trip in their Glide to the coast this summer. The Judge is evidently getting the habit.

Mrs. Waldemar Van Cott and daughter, Miss Pearl, and son Baire, will spend the summer in Los Angeles. They leave Salt Lake late this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Gordon left this week for Round Mountain, Nevada, where they will spend the summer.

Samuel Newhouse is in Denver for a few days. His nieces, the Misses Mary and Georgia Moore, are with him.

Miss Margaret Harris entertained Wednesday at a luncheon at the Harris home for Miss Leslie Woodruff, recently returned from the east.

“I pay as I go,” declared the pompous citizen. “Not while I'm running these apartments,” declared the janitor; “you'll pay as you move in.”—Washington Journal.
