

GOLF

(By A. W. C.)

The club championship is now down to the semi-finals. Today or tomorrow Frank McGurkin and Jack Taylor will hook up for an eighteen-hole match, and either Walker Salisbury or Wicks and the writer will also try conclusions through two rounds of the course. Salisbury and Wicks will have played off their match in the meantime and it should be worth watching.

That, at least, is the present program. But in the meantime the big Jackling cup has not arrived. It will not be here before the 15th probably, and a good many of the boys think it would be no more than fair to the donor of such a splendid trophy to postpone the finals until the cup is here.

If postponement is to come at all, then why not postpone the semi-finals for a week also, and start the play for the Directors' cup? It would be somewhat in the nature of an anti-climax to have the finals for the Directors' cup follow the club championship, and as there are four men who are decidedly desirous of annexing that Directors' cup for their very own as quickly as may be, it might be a good idea to settle that matter right now.

But about the championship play. Another big surprise was given the regulars by the defeat of Fred Hale by Frank Judge. This game, which Judge won by 2 up, was in some respects a repetition of the Wicks-Armstrong match. Judge fairly ran away from Hale at first, winning the first four holes before Hale awoke to the fact that he didn't have the game nailed down. Then Freddie proceeded to annex a few himself—but not fast enough. He laid Judge a perfect stymie on the eighth green in the first round, which resulted in his winning that exasperating hole, and the second nine holes' play was started with Hale only one down. Thereafter it was a see-saw match. Hale again stymied Judge on the eighth green, but this time Frank got around it, and was one up playing the eighteenth hole. Hale lost what chance he had of halving the match and playing an extra hole by driving short and also missing a putt of not more than a foot, and the match went to Judge.

This puts two of the best players of the club in the Solace cup competition, and Frank Judge, who is to give this trophy, promptly announced that a big stein would be its form, as being more appropriate for a Solace cup—and holding more.

In answer to a number of anxious and somewhat fervid inquiries, the greens committee would say—very softly—that the handicaps in the final play for the women's handicap will be changed. No, the greens committee does not know just what changes will be made. That is a matter for very prayerful consideration. It's a dangerous subject.

Just so soon as the October play for this cup is settled, then the unfortunate greens committee will put on its asbestos gloves and prepare the pairings and handicaps—and run.

ACCOMMODATION TO ALL CLASSES.

Many persons keep their money in our bank in order to have it within ready reach when needed for daily use. Some keep it here awaiting opportunity for investment. Others to avoid the risk and annoyance of loaning, keep their money here as a permanent investment.

It will thus be seen that we accommodate all classes.

We pay four per cent per annum interest on time deposits.

When Visitors
Come
To Town

- certain purchases are to be made
- visitors seek the store that they have heard about
- which brings them to Keith-O'Brien's
- the finest department store in the inter-mountain west
- the store that sells quality merchandise at fair prices
- whose enormous purchasing power enables it to sell on close margin
- to see how cheaply it can dispose of goods
- not how much profit it can make on an individual article
- depending rather on volume of business
- on treating customers right
- in making them feel at home when within the portals
- and satisfying them so well that they will return again
- ☐ Hundreds of stores do business
- ☐ Nearly all of them succeed
- ☐ But the store that succeeds is the store that caters to the masses
- ☐ Not for the dollar alone, but for that trade today which will bring
- ☐ Business tomorrow. Having done these things in the past
- ☐ Continue them through the present
- ☐ This store is getting a hold on the people
- ☐ Cementing a relationship between customers and store
- ☐ That augurs well for this institution.

The Larger
The Apartment

building, the more the owners can do for the tenants at less expense. They can furnish better janitor and nightwatchman service, better heating, lighting, and hot water service, telephones, etc.

The largest and most modern and closest in of the new apartment buildings is now being completed at Second East and Second South, just a half block south of the Methodist Church.

“THE WOODRUFF”

It is so large that the owning company, the Mutual Realty Company, can afford to employ a staff of the best attendants, so that every tenant will get the maximum of comfort and protection.

There will be a cafe in the building for the convenience of the tenants.

The company will be glad to finish any apartment to suit prospective tenant, if they will make their selections at once.
