nee Smith, don't say Sallie Smith. She wasn't born Sallie, but just Smith. And when you refer to Mr. and Mrs. Green, after Mrs. Green has grabbed Green, after becoming Black's widow, either grass or sod, don't say Mr. and Mrs. Green, nee Black. It is nice to have you do it, because it's always worth a little old laugh, but even if it is Greek to your city editor, that doesn't make it correct.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Power of St. Paul, will make this city their home. They will be a decided addition to the younger married set, for during the brief period which has elapsed since their arrival they have become very popular. Before their marriage, which took place only a few weeks ago, Mrs. Power, who is the daughter of George R. Thompson, editor of the St. Paul Dispatch, was one of the reigning belles of the Minnesota city.

St. Mary's alumni banquet will take place at the academy this evening. It will be followed by a musicale and will be largely attended by the graduates of that institution. The officers of the alumni are: President, Miss Frances Phillips; vice-president, Mrs. Fred Davidson; secretary and treasurer, Miss May Kane.

Mrs. Walter G. Tuttle has issued invitations for bridge teas to be given at her home on Tuesday and Wednesday next.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Potter entertained at dinner at their quarters at the Fort on Thursday night.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Dart are home again after several months' sojourn in the East.

The Bridge club was entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Eldredge Thomas. The meeting for next week will be held with Mrs. W. H. Child, on Wednesday.

After a month's absence in New York, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Spencer have returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Benner X. Smith are home again after spending the past six weeks in New York and Washington.

Miss Cosgriff, who has been visiting in the East for the past two months, is home again and is at the Knutsford.

Mrs. A. W. McCune and Miss Elizabeth McCune have returned and are at home at the Keldin Flats.

In honor of Miss Odell and Dr. Kirtley, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McBroom will entertain at bridge at their home this evening.

Mrs. Ellsworth Daggett, who has spent the summer abroad, has returned to the city. After the middle of the month, Mr. and Mrs. Daggett will be at home at the Bransford.

Mr. G. S. Holmes and his daughter, Charlotte, will return from New York next week.

Among those who have been away for some time and who will return for the holidays are Mrs. Frank Knox and daughter, and Mrs. J. H. Young and children.

What to do with one's hands

Carry a Walking Stick.
'Tis the season of all the year for walking. A good stick is company, like a pipe. Stylish, too. Swing it occasionally, if you feel energetic. For inclement weather an Umbrella.

We can suit you with both.
