COLUMBUS CON ACCOMPLISHMENTS

During the last two months of the year 1908 the Columbus Consolidated at Atla, Utah, began to reap the harvest for which it had given a year's toll, but the richest fruits of its labors remain to be gathered in 1909. The campaign, which has been waged under the able direction of President Tony Jacobson and his staff, took place on the 400-foot level. The enemy assumed various forms; water, bad ground and hard rock all had to be met and overcome. Finally when the west drift had been carried 1300 feet from the shaft the reward came. There appeared in the face of the drift a great mass of high-grade carbonate ore. The management had not expected anything at that particular point, least of all carbonate, for that part of the mine had previously furnished nothing but sulphides.

At the time this is written even the management of the Columbus is ignorant of the size of its carbonate shoot. The ore envelopes the drift for all of 100 feet and is of unknown height and depth. Immediately after passing through this windfall the drift ran slap into the sulphide at which it was originally aimed. The horizontal dimensions of the sulphide shoot have not yet been determined. It is definitely known, however, that it extends upward for 400 feet.

Other ore bodies will be developed in various parts of the Columbus' prolific estate, but the discoveries made by the west drift on the 400 level
