"Little Johnny Jones," one of the early George M. Cohan successes, will open the week at the Theater, beginning Monday evening and continuing through Wednesday.

The show is one of the best musical plays Cohan has written and while it has been seen at the Theatre several times, it should prove a very good attraction.

The Orpheum bill for next week, beginning Sunday evening, will include Homer Lend and company in a musical playlet, "The Opera Singers;" and Dick Crollins in a race track skit entitled "Shorty." Mr. Crollins was the original "Bill" in "Peaches." John Hathway and Emma Selgel will present "The Soubrette and the Bellboy," and LaVine and Leonard will be seen in "An Auto-Comedy of Errors." Herbert and Warren will be seen in a piano playing and dancing act. Sue Smith, the American girl, as she is termed, and Leon Rogee in a novelty musical turn, will complete the bill.

"The Devil's Auction" returns to town next week at the Colonial. Charles H. Yale is producing the play this season and is said to have revived the musical piece on a large scale. A large chorus will be seen with the production. The presenting company next week is said to number several talented people.

The Grand theater closes its season of stock and road shows with the presentation of "Love in Livery," one night only, Sunday, December 20, by Willis Hall and company, who this week has been appearing at the Grand in "The Devil." On Thursday night, December 24, the Grand will open for a season of popular priced vaudeville. The acts will be those furnished for all the Considine vaudeville houses and will be seven in number at each performance. Prices will be ten and twenty cents.

Christmas week sees another Cort theater opened in Salt Lake. The new Lyceum on State street throws open its doors Sunday evening, December 20, offering a production of "The Flaming Arrow," one of the newest melodramas. The house has been leased by John Cort and his associates and the Stair-Havlin shows formerly seen at the Grand will be produced throughout the remainder of the season.

The new theater is attractively built and furnished and is thoroughly modern. Especial arrangements have been made in constructing the stage for the production of melodramas and facilities have been provided for strikingly realistic stage effects. The Lyceum is the sixth theater for this city outside the moving picture houses.

George Ade is planning to go on a trip around the world, starting on December 16, by sailing on the Lusitania for England.

Negotiations are under way between Annie Russell and J. C. Williamson for an Australian tour, to be made next spring by Miss Russell and her company in "The Stronger Sex."

Louis Mann, it is announced, will make his first appearance as Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice" at a special matinee in Philadelphia.

William Collier and his present company in "The Patriot" will go to London at the end of the season at the Garrick to play an engagement at the Comedy theatre.

The cover design of this issue, the plates of which are the work of the Inland-Walton company of Chicago, was drawn from a description sent to the Chicago artist, who has never visited Salt Lake.
