

see an attendance of 63 persons, plus people—hopeful-of-a-bite-of-pie. After this Armory party is pulled off, there will be merely the work of the legislature to figure on, with its state capitol, juvenile court, good roads, anti-saloon, Sunday closing, and questions of similar ability to push their way to a hearing in spite of orders to lie down under the machine and go to sleep.

With the nation Utah seems pretty well healed. The state stands with Taft. Barring death, Taft will probably serve a second term, which solves the question of getting in with the winner for another eight years. Smoot will be returned on the first ballot by the legislature, which will make him senator for six of these eight years. As a heady administration servant it will not be his fault if any of that sweet harmony at present existing loses in the quality of its sweetness.

The Democratic party's clock therefore seems run down, with no issue looming ahead on which to wind it up, and it's one great national leader without a following. In Utah it is so dead that even its best known leaders are planning to hold a banquet only partly in Jefferson's honor, and the other part in honor of Lincoln, standard bearer of the opposition party.

"Ah, I see, you are married," exclaimed the merchant.

"No, sir," replied the applicant for a position. "I got this scar in a railroad accident."—The Bohemian.

"Ah, Elsie, it is fine to be married to an officer—such a beautiful uniform and so many decorations!"

"Yes, and, besides that, he'll have a band at his funeral."—Wahre Jacob.

Mother—Johnnie, why are you beating little sister? Surely she has not been unkind to you? Johnnie—No, mamma; but she is so fearfully good. I simply can't stand her.—Fun.

Diggs—You believe that whisky is good for a cold, don't you? Swiggs—Yes, but how did you know? Diggs—Oh, I've noticed that you nearly always have a cold.—Chicago Daily News.

"How is young Chunkett getting on in college?" "Splendidly. He would have made the scrub team his first year if he hadn't been deficient in all of his studies."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
