Beginning tomorrow night the Orpheum bill will consist of the first vaudeville appearance here of George Primrose and his dancing boys. This is the first time in several years Primrose has not had a minstrel troupe on the road, and his act is billed as the headliner for the week at the Orpheum. "Wireless" is the title of a dramatic playlet to be presented by Leander D. De Cordova and company, an act that should have an added interest for the week is that to be presented by Anita Laurence and Harry Linton. Miss Laurence is Adelaide Jeanette Kimball, a former Salt Lake girl. Happy Jack Gardner, the Sisters De Faye, Ida Russell and Grace Church in a comedy act entitled "From Society to the Bowery," and the Imperial Male Quartette, the latter composed of Salt Lake singers, completes the bill.

Fred E. Smith, Soloist Symphony Concert.

Manager Held, of the Grand, announces a week's engagement of Theodore Lorch, in his success of the present season, "The Lieutenant and the Cowboy," beginning tomorrow afternoon. Every arrangement has been made at the Grand for attracting a new clientele to the house in the future, as with the decision of Pelton & Smutzer to produce no more melodrama here, it is expected that the better class of theatre-goers will give the Grand a share of their time. Mr. Lorch has been seen here twice this season in his play, and it is undoubtedly one of the best and most interesting Western dramas of its class. There will be the usual matinees during the week.

Jewelry Quality and the Prices

Our first aim in selecting the new stock for this new store was to secure the highest qualities in all lines, in which we were more than successful.

Then by the choice of our location our expense of doing business is reduced to the minimum.

That is why our regular prices are actually lower, considering value than the cut sale prices in the higher priced locations.
