AND IT CLICKED.

Click, little meter, for the range is lit,
 Much gas is burning, so keep track
 of it;
 Though each click is but a trifle,
 Little things make life—
 It's a button for the collar
 Of the gas man's wife.

Click, little meter for your work's begun.
 You'll get a layoff with the rising sun;
 Set the hands in steady motion,
 For you should take note,
 That a cog space means a button
 For the gas
 man's coat

Click, little meter, it is up to you.
 Big oaks from acorns, so they've told us, grew.
 Take down every stray heat unit,
 For you know they are Just so many vap'rous chuggings.
 For the
 gas
 man's car.

—Charles R. Barne, in New York Sun.

CUT UP.

There was a man in our town,
 And wondrous wise was he,
 And with an axe and many whacks
 He once cut down a tree.
 And when he saw the tree was down,
 With all his might and main
 He straightway took another axe
 And cut it up again.
 —Indianapolis Journal.

There is a story going the rounds that is good enough to be true, says
 the Brooklyn Eagle:
 "Are you to be literally understood when saying that your administration will be an exact duplicate of Mr.
 Roosevelt on the trusts?" asked a Washington friend of Mr. Taft.
 "I'll answer that question by telling you a story you once told me," said
 Mr. Taft.
 "What was that story?" inquired
 the friend.
 "It was this," said the president-elect: "A French lady was asked by an American woman, 'Is or is it not a fact that the ladies of Paris are less circumspect in their conduct than those of America?' 'Oh, they are quite as circumspect, but they are not so addicted to making a proclamation of their virtue.'"

"I ain't insultin' of yer—I tell yer I'm simply callin' of yer a liar an'
 yer ARE one!"—Punch.

THE ARMY RIDING TEST.

I have stormed the height when a rain of lead
 Beat men to the sodden ground;
 I've piled up cords of my gory dead
 While bearing a grizzly wound;
 I've faced the foe with the starry
 flag
 Draped over my stricken breast;—
 But I draw the line at a sway-backed nag,
 And a four days' riding test!

I've walked with ghosts in the dismal camps
 And slept at a dead man's side;
 I've breathed the air of the noisome
 swamps,
 Where the fevers of doom abide;
 I've faced the fates with a hero's
 smiles,
 And laughed at the balls that flew;—
 But I will not travel a thousand miles
 On a livery kangaroo.

I lost one arm on the Shiloh plain,
 And a leg on another field;
 The sword of a Southron clove my brain
 And the wound is scarcely healed.
 I bear my scars as I bear my jug,
 Nor sigh of the pains that rack;—
 But I will not ride on a knock-kneed plug
 To Kalamazoo and back!
 —Walt Mason, in Puck.
