Lewis & Lake's Musical Comedy Company returns to the Bungalow tomorrow night for another week's engagement. The company will present a musical burlesque, "The Telephone Girl," said to be a pretty and tuneful play with lots of action. Matinee performances will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

All indications point to a most successful symphony recital Sunday for the closing one of the present season. The rehearsals have been successful and the advance sale gives promise of a fine audience. Those who have had occasion to hear the practices, have great things to say of the program and especially of the work of the Soloist Weihe.

Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott, in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," are announced as the opening attraction at Maxine Elliott's theatre next season.

Jaurice Maeterlinck has lost his case against the directors of the National Opera, Paris, from whom he demanded $2,000 for each performance of the operatic version of "Monna Vanna," on the ground that the production of the author was unauthorized.

David Belasco has purchased the English rights to "Die Thur ins Freie," recently seen at the Irving Place theater, and will produce the piece next season. The adaptation will be made by Leo Ditrichstein.

After several years of separation, Ezra Kendall and Liebler and company have decided to join forces once more. Beginning next fall, the popular American comedian will again appear under the direction of his old managers. His initial vehicle under the new contract will consist of an entirely new version of "The Vinegar Buyer," which was the work of Herbert Hall Winslow. With this play Mr. Kendall will start a tour that will take him across the continent to the Pacific coast and back again.
