CURE FOR LOVE.

"I remember once," says Professor Grange, "hearing two very ordinary men, a bricklayer and a plumber, discuss love in a smoking car."

"I hold," said the bricklayer, "that if you are terribly in love, the way to cure yourself is to runaway."

"The plumber shook his head and sneered."

"That will cure you," he said, "provided you run away with the girl."

THE ADVANTAGE.

John Bright used to tell how a barber who was cutting his hair once said to him, "You 'ave a large 'ead, sir; it's a good thing to 'ave a large 'ead, for a large 'ead means a large brain, and a large brain is the most useful thing a man can 'ave, as it nourishes the roots of the 'air.'"—Sacred Heart Review.

OUR LEISURE CLASS.

"But," says the Grand Duke, who is dining incog. with Daniel Vorhees Pike, in Booth Tarkington's new play, "The Man From Home"—"but you have no leisure class in America."

"No leisure class!" draws out Pike, thoughtfully. "Huh You ought to see our colored population!"—Current Literature.

Little Davey Sloan is forever asking questions.

"You'd better keep still or something will happen to you," his tired mother finally told him one night "Curiosity once killed a cat, you know."

Davey was so impressed with this that he kept silent for three minutes. Then: "Say, mother, what was it the cat wanted to know—Everybody's."

O'Brien—Oh, but me daughter's the smart girl. She set two min fightin' for her hand.

Landers—And she married the winner?

O'Brien—Begorry, no! She married the one she could lick aiseat.—Boston Transcript.

"How old is your baby brother?" asked little Tommy of his playmate.

"One year old," replied Johnny.

"Huh!" exclaimed Tommy. "I've got a dog a year old, and he can walk twice as well as that kid can."

"Well, he ought to," replied Johnny; "he's got twice as many legs."

A sick peasant motions feebly to his wife to approach his bedside, and whispers, painfully: "I think, my dear, I could fancy a little broth." "My dear, what do you want of broth? Hasn't the doctor just given you up?"
