city, to follow is quite an innovation. Just why the Herald and the News should begin the fight, after the beautiful notices that were given in advance and during the early part of the meet, is scarcely clear, and there are interested citizens who would like to know.

It's a funny thing that as soon as any signs of life appear above the surface here, some faction or paper begins something which ends in knocking the town. But the Herald and the News aren't half the joke that L. D. Martin is.

It is too much to expect that the plans for drawing all of the sporting places on the west side could be given to one clever architect. That would be a monopoly, indeed.

Joseph Wessman, the GOODWIN'S WEEKLY entry in the Lagoon road race, won in a walk, bowing and smiling and looking back at twenty-five others who were on the road to glory, but hesitated a little. Wessman made one of the finest rides ever seen over the bumpy Lagoon course, and the fact that he got away from Fred R. McCarthy, the Canadian champion who rode from scratch, added another feather to the cap of the young amateur. There were seventy riders in all, and a great crowd witnessed the event.

THE MASTER STROKE.

By John Ludlaw.

Cheered for his agile feat and nimble stunt
The bronzed ball player swells with honest pride;
The long and accurate throw, the wily bunt.
The daring steal, the perilous heading slide.

Each in the homage of the gladsome eye
Close to the public heart an hour has sat;
Plucked from the blinding sun the incredible fly,
Or fiery liner smoking from the bat.

Fall off the timely and prodigious whack
The multitude has jubilantly thrilled—
The great, aerial, fence distaining crack
And home run wallop when the bags were filled.

Lo, where the catcher like a granite rock,
Kinsman to courage and unknown to fear,
With dauntless front repels the iron shock
And awful volleys of the cannoneer.

And unforgot the pitcher's mighty hour,
Whose fusillade immortalized his name,
Held the dread sluggers helpless in his power,
And broke their proud hearts with a hitless game.

With feats like these our plaudits they evoke,
On the green diamond in a game of ball;
These, and the incomparable master stroke
And flash of genius that outshines them all:

Such as of old had made Olympus ring,
And vitalized the beautiful Phidian clay,
And given to Homer's harp another string,
The glorious unassisted triple play!

Argus was lamenting his hundred eyes.

"Think of the number of keyholes I see when I come home late!" he exclaimed.—New York Sun.
