

Every house in this panoramic view of the north bench, showing Tenth Avenue and a section of C Street, was built by this Company. All that are completed have been sold and are now occupied as homes. Wednesday, July 14, the maximum temperature recorded at the office of the local weather bureau was 86 degrees. The maximum temperature on Tenth Avenue on that date was 82 degrees—a difference of four degrees in favor of Tenth Avenue.

In the crowded lower portions of the valley, owing to smoke and dust, the atmosphere is only 41 per cent. pure. On the north bench it is 98 per cent. pure.

The elevation at the corner of Tenth Avenue and C Street is 4,687 feet, which is a rise of 370 feet from the corner of Main and Second South Streets. The greater elevation and the cool canyon breezes account for the pure air and lower temperature.

The north bench affords a superior location for a home, and the houses built by this Company are of the best modern construction. They may be purchased for cash or on our monthly payment plan. Consult us before you buy or build.
