

Saunterings

PESSIMS.

The endurance of friendship depends upon the power to give. Stop giving or ask return and your friend has vanished.

Occasional moments of hope are of value only as they increase the ability of mankind to endure the endless miseries of life.

We yield to physical pleasures because of the unrealized and hopeless joys of the spirit.

Mrs. Winslow Mallery.

Life is a joy to those only mentally incapable of realizing the unvarying miseries of existence.

Marvelous are the compensations of nature. The girl knock-kneed in one leg is always bow-legged in the other. R. W. S.

Cards were received here during the week from Mr. Guy D. Welton, announcing the marriage of his sister, Grace, to Mr. Winslow Mallery of New York.

Mrs. Mallery during the years she spent in this city, was by far the most popular woman in the smart set, her great beauty, charm and brilliancy giving her a place in society seldom attained by anyone. Mr. and Mrs. Mallery will make their home in New York, where Mr. Mallery is a prominent member of the artistic, musical and literary colony. During the week the mails and wires have been laden with many messages of felicitation from their very large circle of friends in this city.

A letter received from Major Charles A. Stanton, from the Philippines, specifically Zambango, Mindanao, contained several kodaks, one or two of which are reproduced in this issue. The friends of Major and Mrs. Stanton will no doubt be interested in the views, and come to the conclusion that Charlie's a stingy old thing for not inviting them all to a house party under the coconut palms. The letter brings the further information that the Stantons will arrive in New York before so very long, and it is the hope of several of the major's cronies that they may reach the metropolis at about the same time, as army officers arriving from the Philippines receive four months' pay the day they land. It ought to be a great reunion, and it is to be hoped that the quiet little Broadway will be in shape to stand the gaff.

There has not been a great deal to chronicle in society during the week, most of those who are in the swim or the near-swim, having escaped to Tahoe, the Snake river, Glenwood, the Yellowstone, Brighton, and the other usual resorts. A large number have also gone to Seattle, where in the "Pay Streak" a Salt Laker or two may be met every few feet. For those who are still in town, there have been the usual number of luncheons and dinners, bridge fights, and motor parties, and from a social viewpoint the coming week does not hold forth great promise except in the theatre parties arranged for "The Merry Widow."

The Savage production comes with the endorsement of all who know in the cities where it has been and besides the entertainment afforded, it may prove instructive to any number of merry widows now in our midst, though some are blase enough to have nothing to learn.

A pretty home wedding of the week was that of Miss Elizabeth W. Weitz and Sylvan B. Leon. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Charles J. Freund at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weitz, and was followed by an elaborate supper, after which Mr. and Mrs. Leon left for a trip of the northwest. The bride was attended by Mrs. Emil Lehman as matron of honor and Miss Madeline Weitz was the bridesmaid. The best man was Julius Leon, a brother of the groom.

Miss Gertrude McGrath entertained a dozen of her friends at a dinner at her home on Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. O. J. Salisbury.

Miss Minette Baer entertained at the first of a series of bridge teas on Friday for her guests, Miss Marguerite Boehmer and Miss Ruth Boehmer, of Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Kriebel gave a supper at the Country club on Sunday night.

In honor of Mrs. O. J. Salisbury, the Misses Bancroft entertained twenty of their friends at a luncheon at their home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer B. Jones have returned from Japan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quigley gave a circus party on Monday evening, followed by a party at the Louvre. The affair was in honor of Miss Quigley.

Mrs. Rifenberick of Cincinnati, Ohio, is the guest of Captain and Mrs. R. P. Rifenberick, Jr., at Fort Douglas.

Major Charles A. Stanton and Mrs. Stanton.

The market in Salt Lake is already responding to the impetus given it a short time ago in the announcement of the formation of the Rookledge-Gilmer company to handle the rangy American

It's Apparent

To all users of our laundry products that it reflects the results of expert knowledge of proper methods. Then Softened Water gives it the clear, clean appearance.

TROY LAUNDRY

Both Phones 192

The Laundry of Quality

166 Main Street

With the Bathing Season at Its Height

We offer to the women of Salt Lake some exceptional values in bathing caps. They are of a variety of color and style, and range in price from 50c up

SCHRAMM'S

WHERE THE CARS STOP

Cap Shopp