and our trade with China is falling off because of the fall in the price of silver.

Hill, of course, is a big man, but he is also classed as a conservative—conservative enough at least in his financial views to be accounted free from "financial heresy," from "fifty-cent dollar lunacy." In brief, although he wears a soft hat and does not often indulge in the luxury of a hair-cut, he is sufficiently wealthy so that there is not one of the frock-coated, silk-hatted, tribe along Wall or Broad street that would be afraid to march beneath his banner.

It is a good thing that a man like Hill has taken up the cause of the down-trodden metal. One may from now on repeat the word "silver" in the financial centers of the east without being arrested on suspicion of being a lunatic.

ago, is very busy arranging for the horse show and races to be held at the coming fair.

When seen regarding the plans for that part of the exhibit which he has charge of, Mr. Carstensen said that he was bending every energy to make this feature more attractive than ever, and that no sure-thing games or grafts of any kind would be allowed during the meeting.

The work is a new experiment for Mr. Carstensen, but his friends are sure that he will handle the task efficiently.

TWENTY DOZEN SOFT SHELL CRABS.

At five o'clock the other evening, we received twenty dozen soft shelled crabs. At midnight they were gone, and they did not walk away unaided. Just one example of the way Salt Lake connoisseurs are taking to the delicacies which we are providing for them.

Not a day arrives but we have something new and tempting to offer bon vivants, and as a result, the lunches, dinners, and after-theatre suppers at the Louvre are constantly crowded.

All year 'round we serve the very finest of steaks, chops, shell fish, game and every delicacy to be had in the local market and from the eastern and western coasts, together with a variety of the finest wines and liquors to be found in the inter-mountain country and mixed drinks unsurpassed in any cafe from San Francisco to New York.

Besides our excellent a la carte service, we serve a regular table d'hote lunch and dinner and are always pleased to assist those who propose to entertain in the arrangement of their menus.
