

The insult offered the tabernacle choir during the recent trip to Seattle was cause enough for all the indignation that has been expressed by those in attendance at the Elsteddod at the A.-Y.-P. exposition. But if one of the returned choristers is to be believed the management of the choir is as much to blame as that of the Elsteddod, for according to his statement the members of the choir went to the fair singly or in pairs, stating to the gate keeper that they were members of the choir from Utah.

According to our information no provision was made by the management in advance, and if this is the case possibly the entire blame for the unfortunate affair does not rest with the Seattle people, for in a local contest of the kind if strangers came to the gate claiming to be members of any visiting organization with nothing but their word as proof it is possible that the same treatment would be accorded them. In quoting the member of the choir who has given us this information we are relying on his word entirely and do not wish to place anybody connected with the matter in a false light, but if what he says is true, the entire blame cannot be placed with the Seattle promoters.

Mr. Horace Dunbar, who for many years has edited the mining columns of the Tribune, has severed his connection with that paper to join the staff of James A. Pollock & Co. Mr. Dunbar is among the foremost mining writers of the west, and his daily contributions to the Tribune will be greatly missed. However, his friends will be glad to hear that his new position is in the nature of an advancement. Mr. Dunbar will have charge of the publicity department and the outside work for the firm.

For twenty-three years All Hallows' College, the boarding and day school for boys, has been one of the leading educational institutions in the Intermountain country, and begins its twenty-fourth year of progress with a course of instruction unexcelled by any sectarian college in the west. Among the courses of instruction are the Classical, Scientific, Commercial, Academic, Junior, and Primary courses, besides a Post-Graduate department for those who wish to perfect themselves along certain special lines. The college is under the direction of the Very Rev. Father Guinan, and associated with him is an excellent staff of instructors in every department.

The mass meeting at the Theatre Wednesday evening decided that a citizens ticket would be put in the field this fall, and for those who are working for the success of the American party of progress this is another splend'd indication of the victory that will attend their efforts, for there will also be a church-Republican ticket in the field, and we have it from the highest authority of the few surviving Democrats that they will also make an attempt to interest the weak-minded in such candidates as they may "feel to sustain" in the coming convention.

Now, gentlemen, step right up and take your choice. Everything is open and above board and we advise you to vote according to your own ideals, either for the disconsolate Democracy, the citizens' ticket, headed by those peerless leaders, L. E. Hall, George Lawrence and W. H. Lovsey, the Smoot-Hessian-Ull-Fussy-Kinkey-Curley-ten-per-cent-Combination, or the American Party, which has made it possible to pul pavements where the weeds were growing and give Utah a progressive modern city with such possibilities for advancement as were never dreamed of before that party came into power.

New taxicab companies have been organized at New Orleans, Memphis and Boston, with a combined capitalization of $555,000.
