

WILSON'S MESSAGE SATISFIES REBELS

Acting Head of the Constitutionals Issues Statement on the Situation as Mr. Wilson Outlines It Before Congress — Commends the Executive on His Fairness

SAYS HUERTA BLOCKS ALL PEACE MOVES

Non-Recognition of Mexico at Present Is Best Thing for Country Carranza Declares — Insurrectos Will Lay Down Arms When Huerta and Followers Leave the Country — Lind Will Remain at Vera Cruz for the Present — Americans Rushing to Leave Country — Refugees Report Indignities

Eagle Pass, Tex., Aug. 29.—General satisfaction with President Wilson's Mexican message was expressed today in a statement by General Jesus Carranza, acting head of the Constitutionals, at their provisional capital, Piedras Negras. He spoke in the absence of his brother, Governor Carranza, who is fighting at Torreon. Carranza said, appreciate the fairness of the message. He predicted, however, that war would continue, because Huerta would be unable to comply with American suggestions and that Huerta would have to be "driven from the country" before peace could be restored. "On the whole, the stand of the president is satisfactory to Constitutionals," Carranza declared, "but the principal point, the best thing for Mexico, is his continued refusal to recognize Huerta. Without such recognition by the United States Huerta has no credit and can raise no money with which to carry on his administration.

"With regard to holding the leaders on both sides responsible for damage to the persons and property of foreigners, we have from the beginning of the revolution tried to do this, and we shall continue to do so. If, by accident or the necessity of war, not voluntarily on our part, there should be a violation of the decrees of the first chief (Governor Carranza) with regard to this matter, we shall do everything in our power to punish those responsible and indemnify those suffering loss.

"While we think that if the doors were open to us and we were permitted to secure all the arms and ammunition we need to supply the thousands who are anxious to join our army we could bring peace to Mexico within a short time, we have no fault to find with the president's order enforcing the neutrality laws against both parties. We have felt bound to criticize the United States for permitting Huerta to import arms while denying us the same right, but now that the president has directed that all such shipments shall be suspended to both sides, we are satisfied. This order helps us by shutting out Huerta's supplies.

"We are winning constant successes with our arms and are adding new territory to our control, and we are satisfied that in a short time, if the country is left to itself, we can bring peace.

"It is not within the power of Huerta to cause an immediate cessation of hostilities, as asked by the president, for he has no means to enforce such an armistice.

"That is what he has really been trying to do for the past six months, but without success. Neither could an election be held so long as he or any one representing him remain in power. There cannot be a legal election until there is absolute peace both sides, and the result of this cannot be peace until Huerta and his adherents are driven completely from power and the country. Not until then will there be an election for a president. The Constitutionals have pledged themselves to abide by the results of such an election and they will keep that pledge."

Comment of Mexican Papers.

Mexico City, Aug. 29.—In the opinion of the leading Spanish newspapers here, President Wilson's attitude toward Huerta has greatly increased the chances of Huerta becoming the next president of Mexico.

El Diario, in an editorial article, says today:

If the election of Huerta in the coming campaign has been in doubt, the latest diplomatic developments and the unforeseen attitude of President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan have made it certain.

An eulogy of Huerta follows and the article continues:

"President Wilson has taken it on himself to crystallize the popularity of Huerta and the latter has become the incarnation of national dignity and sovereignty."

El Pais, publishes an editorial along similar lines, declaring that President Wilson has not only launched the candidacy of Huerta, but advanced it. Should Huerta be proposed, he could find no better argument in his favor than the odium of a Yankee president.

El Independiente, under the caption, "Our First Victory," says:

"Mexico scored through the lucid and dignified responses, the sound reasoning and the just grounds of Mexican diplomacy."

The impartial, citing the fact that negotiations have not terminated, the effect that they should advise all Americans in their territory to leave Mexico at once, going to the nearest seaport where ships would be in readiness to take them off.

Most of the Americans who called at the consulate are planning to register their property and obey Washington's injunctions. A few are availing themselves of the fund appropriated for the refugees a great many put the cost of transportation in a secondary place. The great majority of those who have been able to arrange their affairs have already departed from the capital and some from other places. Those who remain have for the most part have interests to leave behind which would mean the sacrifice of their only means of livelihood.

The warning has created something like consternation on the part of not a few Americans. It will undoubtedly, however, result in a new exodus and the general determination is to abandon everything they possess in the belief that their lives are endangered but in which way they are unable to find a reasonable answer.

Messages in Bomb Shells.

Los Angeles, Aug. 29.—After his arrest yesterday charged with violation of neutrality in having aided in the smuggling of the Mason aeroplane over the Mexican border several months ago, Captain Joaquin Alcaide, a Mexican constitutionalist soldier of Sonora, explained why numerous bombs dropped from the flying machine in its flights over Guaymas failed to do damage. The bombs, he said, were loaded, not with death dealing explosives, but with cordial invitations to the discontented federal soldiers under General Pedro Ojeda to desert and come over to the rebels.

"We did not want to slaughter these poor fellows," said Alcaide who claims to have been the man who always accompanied Mason, the French aviator, "so we wrote messages and enclosed them in bomb shaped receptacles. These messages told the federalists that a warm welcome awaited them in our ranks. We got a large number of recruits in that way."

Alcaide was indicted with Didier Mason, the aviator, and several other persons just after Mason's flying machine was sent over the border from Tucson.

American Disappears.

Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 29.—The disappearance of John G. George, an American mining man, following his release from a federal prison at Empalme, Sonora, last Sunday, has created anxiety among his friends in Arizona and Sonora. The federalists consider George friendly to the constitutionalists and it is feared he was re-arrested after gaining his liberty.

George is manager of the Mercantile department of the Richardson Construction company and is a business assistant of John Hays Hammond.

Comments U. S. Attitude.

Rome, Italy, Aug. 29.—The energetic but courteous attitude of the United States toward Mexico is favorably judged in Italy according to Giornale d'Italia in an article today commenting on the Mexican situation. It says:

"President Wilson has given proof of political and diplomatic power of the first order."

Americans Perplexed.

Mexico City, Aug. 29.—Americans resident in the capital are at a loss to know how to interpret the peremptory warning issued by President Wilson to leave the republic. Somewhat reassured by the declaration that armed intervention is not intended, they are now wondering whether there is a hidden meaning back of the latest warning.

The American Consulate general was crowded throughout the day by Americans of all classes, seeking detailed information. The consul general, Arnold Shanklin, was unable to give any advice other than that based upon instructions from the state department to send to all consuls in his district a message which is to

GOVERNORS' CONFERENCE ON PEACE

Dunne of Illinois Delivers Address on "Growth of Public Control of Utilities"—Advocates State Public Utilities Commission

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 29.—The feature of the session of the conference of governors today was an address by Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois, who spoke on the "Growth of Public Control of Utilities." His address was an extensive treatise on the development of the plan in the various states of the Union, more particularly since 1905 when the movement began to show itself in definite form.

"The question of modern times in the United States is plainly in the direction of the control of public utilities," he said. "The movement is advancing by leaps and bounds and I believe that within a few short years there will not be a state in the Union which has not a public utility commission, empowered by law to control the service and the rates of the corporations of the state."

In concluding he took up public ownership and operation of utilities as the only alternative in the case of the failure of public control.

"If the control shall fail, as I believe it will not," he said, "then the only alternative left is the public ownership and operation of utilities."

SURPRISES CAMINETTI

Father of Marsha Warrington Tells About the Visits to His Daughter of a Supposedly Honorable Suit—Defense Begins Attack on Girl's Character

San Francisco, Aug. 29.—The surprise of the Caminetti trial came this morning when Thomas H. Warrington of Sacramento, father of Marsha Warrington, took the stand in place of his daughter. White haired, clean shaven, kindly faced, he testified that F. Drew Caminetti, the defendant, charged with violating the Mann white slave traffic act, called frequently at his house for his daughter, under the name of Mr. Whitman. Mr. Warrington supposed "Whitman" was an honorable suitor for his daughter's hand and did not suspect him of being an emissary for Maury I. Diggs.

The government was permitted to interrupt the narrative of Marsha Warrington, begun yesterday, by introducing her father's testimony, in order that he might not be absent longer than necessary from his business.

There was a return, in the cross-examination of Marsha Warrington's father by Marshall Woodworth, to the earlier tactics of the Diggs trial. A disposition to attack the girl's character began to show.

M. J. Sullivan, probation officer of Sacramento county, testified that there had been no complaint made to him about either Lola Norris or Marsha Warrington, previous to their flight on March 10. On cross-examination, Marshall Woodworth began to bring out evidence directly damaging to the character of Caminetti. Complaints about both Diggs and Caminetti had been brought to Sullivan, about a week before the eloquent to Reno. Two young girls were involved and one of them was now in St. Catherine's home in this city. An attempt to draw out their names were rebuked by Judge Van Fleet.

Marsha Warrington concluded her direct testimony before the noon adjournment was taken, and the defense began its cross-examination. Her manner was more confident and her answers more incisive and prompt than at the Diggs trial.

The government did not take her into her story with so much minuteness as when first it was told. The strain on her was quite severe and there was every disposition to ease her ordeal.

Caminetti had first given Lolo Norris $20 to pay her passage to Reno, she testified said. It was his idea, that they ought to travel separately, but Diggs had decided otherwise. It was agreed that the party must have a leader, and when Diggs had nominated himself for the position, Caminetti acquiesced and Diggs ordered that they keep together.

The witness said she had been a pure girl until she met Diggs. Her fall had taken place in Diggs' suite of offices, after champagne had been served there. Caminetti and Miss Norris were in an adjoining room at the time.

STEFANSSON TOOK CREDIT

Three Canadian Trappers Allege That They Saw the Blonde Eskimo Before the Arrival of the Stefansson in the Arctic

Edmonton, Alberta, Aug. 29.—Three Fort Simpson trappers, G. L. Deschamps, and Joseph and William Hudson, who have just returned from a long journey to the far north, deny the claim of Vilhjalmar Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, that he is the discoverer of the tribe of blond Eskimo. They declare that in penetrating the wilds of the far north with an Eskimo guide, they heard stories of a tribe of blond Eskimo, and that, guided to the camp of the tribe, they found Eskimos whiter than the white men who have spent years in the cold and winds of the far north.

They claim that they spent three weeks with the strange tribe, which numbered 300, and secured many valuable skins. When Stefansson arrived, they declare, they already were there, and the members of the tribe traced their blood to larger tribes similar to themselves on the shores of the Arctic. The trappers claim to have pushed on northward for some distance, thus delaying their return to civilization, when they learned Stefansson had claimed the discovery of the tribe.

OIL SHIP IS IN FLAMES

Vessel With 600,000 Gallons Is Flaming Torch in New York Harbor — Emperor Sails Saturday Says Company

New York, Aug. 29.—The steamer Burgermeister Hackman, with 600,000 gallons of crude oil and benzine in her hold, was still a flaming torch in the Buttermilk channel toward noon, 14 hours after her cargo had been fired by a spark created by friction with two tin cans struck violently. The 9,000 ton vessel had listed fifteen feet to port at 9 o'clock and the water was then within a few inches of her deck. Thousands of persons lining the waterfront were swept back by the police reserves of three precincts, who believed they would be imperiled in case of an explosion.

The Buttermilk channel lies between the crowded South Brooklyn waterfront and Governor's island, the latter covered along the shore with army storehouses and barracks.

Emperor Sails Saturday.

New York, Aug. 29.—It was reiterated today by Hamburg-American line officials that the fire aboard the steamship Emperor yesterday had not rendered the vessel unseaworthy notwithstanding the fact that flames raged for more than five hours in the provision room of the after hold. Although it was an ugly fire and particularly deplorable because of the death of Second Officer Gobrecht, who was suffocated while fighting the flames, no vital part of the great vessel was injured and the vessel will sail on regular schedule time tomorrow.
