LOPEZ CANNOT ESCAPE DEATH

Bandit Supposed to Have Succumbed to the Deadly Fumes.

Bingham, Dec. 2 (3 a. m.)—Ex-Sheriff M. M. Bush of Tooele county reported from the Minnie tunnel a few minutes ago that he had received a message from the Phoenix mine, a part of the Apex property, saying that Lopez could be heard pacing back and forth behind the bulkhead on the 700-foot level.

It is possible that if Lopez is there he is untouched by the smoke. There is said to be a stope there and as the draft draws the fumes upward rapidly they might pass the stope and leave the Mexican untouched.

In case the report is definitely verified it is probable that the Andy tunnel bulkhead will be opened in the morning and a force of men will go in and cave in the raise so as to hold the smoke back in the lower part of the mine, thus causing it to spread out and reach Lopez.

Ex-Sheriff T. A. DeVine of Weber county, Patrolman H. A. Olsen and Juvenile Officer George Robinson of Salt Lake just completed a round of the upper bulkheads. They report that the sulphur fumes are very nauseating everywhere except at the Andy bulkhead, which is 700 feet from the portal. There they said they felt no ill effects from the smoke, though there was plenty of it.

Before darkness settles over the hills tonight the body of Raphael Lopez, murderer, may be taken down the hill in the same sleigh that last night carried the bodies of his last two victims silently to town. If there is any indication that the poisonous fumes which have been filling the mine all day have done their work, the Andy tunnel bulkhead will be opened and a posse of volunteers will go in to bring out the derelict, abandoned by its fiendish spirit through the deadly work of the gases.

Yesterday morning Lopez uttered what is now believed to have been his last word. It was "Julius." Face to face at last with an enemy which his death-dealing rifle could not affect, the Mexican went into the Andy tunnel and made his way to the bulkhead. Twenty feet deep and of sturdy mountain timber, it presented an impassible barrier to the fired murderer. The fumes were thick around him. He groped blindly about him. His move could be heard by the guards on the other side.

Then came "Julius" in a voice that was full of despair—weak and very hoarse. He was calling his partner, the man whom he scorned a few days before when Julius Corrello begged him to allow the bodies of Hulsey and Handerlich to be removed. It was his appeal now.

Corrello was called into the tunnel to the bulkhead. He called in Spanish to Lopez. But there was no answer. Perhaps the fumes had caused him then to sink into a faint from which he will never awaken. That is the belief of those who were there before when Julius Corrello, A. G. Robinson and J. D. Cortelle, three of the most indomitable man hunters, and Julius Corrello.

The men could not try to see whether more sounds of life or another appeal would come later. The fumes that leaked through the small crevices in the bulkhead were too much for them. They had to seek the outer air. The density and deadliness of the smoke on the other side of the barrier could only be imagined. Life could not exist in it long, and for this reason the guards believe that the end has come to Lopez.

No sound of a shot was heard throughout the day by the guards. None of them believe that Lopez has committed suicide. They believe he died fighting. But his last enemy was an invulnerable one.

Sheriff Smith said last night that the bulkheads might be left in and the smoking continued for forty-eight hours. He is determined that no more chances will be taken. There is no chance of taking Lopez alive, so the sheriff has decided that the fumes must do their work before he will be seen by another man. However, it is believed that if there is no sign of life by tonight the smoking will be discontinued, as the mine will by that time be dense with the fumes. In that event the Andy tunnel bulkhead will probably be opened and a search made for the body in its vicinity. Schettler, Robinson and Cortello believe the body will be found very close to the bulkhead. They do not believe he got away after calling for Corrello.

PURSUIT OF LOPEZ IS PROVING COSTLY

Salt Lake, Dec. 2.—Attempts to capture the murderer of a Mexican laborer has thus far cost five lives and at least $6000 in treasure.

When Raphael Lopez killed his friend, Juan Valdez, at Bingham one week ago last Thursday at midnight, Chief of Police Grant and Sheriff Witbeck, Jensen and Sorenson looked upon the pursuit and capture of Lopez as only a part of their routine duties as officers. They expected to effect his capture in a few hours.

Sixteen hours later all of these officers, except Deputy Sheriff Sorenson, were dead, murdered by the Mexican assassin. Then began in earnest the great man hunt that is still in progress. During the next three days Salt Lake county spent $1000 per day in the effort to capture the bandit. Hundreds of men were made special deputy sheriffs and placed on the trail of the murderer. Automobiles were requisitioned, rifles and ammunition were purchased. Fire was brought from long distances to feed the men who were hunting down the murderer.

Once in those three days the pursuing posses were close to the murderer. Then in a natural fortress high up in the mountains, he held at bay all nightfall a handful of his pursuers, while his bullets flew close to the bodies. Under the protection of the night the bandit got away.

Frozen and footsore, the bandit stumbled back to Bingham, while the pursuers were chasing down a false alarm many miles away. After the Mexican was definitely located to Bingham, the expense to the county for money was lessened, but the effort to capture Lopez in the mine cost two more lives.

Since the officers have been guarding the mine at Bingham the cost per day has been about $300. This was distributed as salaries to the men, automobiles and horse hire, provisions for the men and fuel for the fire which were to suffocate the murderer or drive him from the mine. The total cost from the beginning of the manhunt, aside from the loss of lives, has been in the neighborhood of $6000.

This sum does not take into account the damage done to the mine by cave-ins made to restrict the territory of the hunted man, nor the loss of time to more than 200 miners who have not been at work for the last two days. The miners may not work for another day or two, and this expense may run into several thousand dollars. If it is assessed against the county, the expense in money to hunt down the Mexican may be doubled.

NEARING OIL FLOW

Brigham City, Dec. 1.—Information was received in this city today from the operators of the oil rigs one and one-half miles west of the city that the pipe, having now reached a depth of more than 1200 feet, is in close proximity to oil.

The pipe being used now is six-inch casing, but on account of striking water at this depth, it is anticipated by the promoters that an eight-inch casing will be necessary in place of the six.

When the 2000 foot mark had been reached a hard formation was encountered, and it was here that indications of oil were noticeable. The promoters think it very probable that a flow of oil will be encountered as soon as the pipe is driven through the hardpan.

DIES IN SAND HONOR

Provo, Dec. 1.—James O'Connor, a man about 45 years of age, died in the sand house at Thistle Sunday. The body was brought down by Deputy Sheriff C. H. Clark and taken to the undertaking parlors of Graham & Jones, and is being held pending a reply from the mine's union at Park City in which he carried a membership card. O'Connor had come from Price to Thistle.

FINN DEFEATS CHRIS JORDAN

Ketone Winner of Spectacular Wrestling Match—Greek Outclassed.

Salt Lake, Dec. 2.—Another contender for the middleweight wrestling honors of the world loomed into the spotlight last night in the person of Waino Ketone. Ketone threw Chris Jordan, who held the championship for a few months last summer, two straight falls in one of the most spectacular matches ever seen in Salt Lake. The time for the falls was one hour and twenty minutes and six minutes, respectively. The match was promoted by Harry Hegreud.

The bout was staged as the main event of a program of sports, the other event of which was a ten-round boxing contest. The Garrick theater, where the sports were held, was well filled, and the excitement of the crowd at times was tense. Ketone won the first fall by means of a combination hammer lock and quarter nelson. He obtained his second fall by a quarter nelson thrown into a partial hammer lock.

The wrestlers came on the mat at 9:35 o'clock. Neither seemed anxious to start things, and for a while it seemed as if a repetition of the recent Yokel-Jordan match would be given. For more than an hour the men did not get to the mat. Shortly thereafter, however, things livened, and after a few exchanges of holds the wrestlers went out of the ropes. When they were brought back Jordan immediately took the offensive and endeavored to pin his opponent by a toe hold. This failed, however, when Ketone turned the matter into a piece of work, managed to get a new hold on Jordan. The crowd arose in its excitement, for it seemed certain, with the change that affairs had taken, that Ketone would get a fall. Jordan managed to wriggle loose from a hammer lock hold. He again took his aggressor with renewed strength and each gained slight advantages over the other.

Second Fall Quick Work

Ketone again became the aggressor this time with a result. He got to Jordan for a combination hammer lock and, by a slow but steady process, pinned his opponent to the mat. The fall was clean and decisive. The hammer lock applied to Jordan was apparently so resistant that it temporarily weakened his arm. He was unable to get up from the mat for several minutes. He declared that he was not injured and that he would finish the match. Examination revealed that the arm had not been seriously injured.

When the men entered the ring again, Jordan seemed to have recovered his previous aggressiveness, and for a few minutes he successfully ward off the attempts of Ketone to get holds. Within five minutes, however, the men grappled, and it was seen that the Finnish champion would have little difficulty in getting one of his favorite holds. He brought Jordan to the mat, and with greater reason got him in such a position that, with the application of a partial hammer lock, the fall was accomplished.

Ketone demonstrated last night that he has much class as a middleweight. He displayed as much science of the mat game as did Jordan and the strength he exerted at times was remarkable. He has a splendid boxer's look and every reputation for a contender for the middleweight honors. He wrestled Jordan once before in Indianapolis. The match resulted in a draw and both men were anxious to meet each other again.

The first event of the double-header program was a ten-round feather-weight boxing contest between Lonny Tucker and Sling Hosan, a Chinese, both of Salt Lake. The fight was decidedly close, although the decision made by the referee did not meet with the approval of the crowd. For the reason that Tucker took the count of nine in the eighth round the majority of those present felt that he ought to have been awarded the fight for his one effective blow alone. It seemed that the Chinaman had so much the better of his opponent for the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth rounds that he had outclassed Tucker. But it must be taken into consideration, and the referee must be given credit for deliberation in the matter that Tucker was clearly the aggressor in the first three rounds of the fight. He made his blows count on the Chinaman and he led in a majority of the attacks.

Takes Count

After Tucker had taken the count of nine in the eighth round, he came back strong in the ninth and tenth and gave Hosan a stiff fight. He recovered entirely from his weakness of the eighth and had the Chinaman on the defensive for the most part in the final rounds.

The blow which brought Tucker to the mat in the eighth followed other blows which had effect and Tucker stayed on the mat until nine counts had been announced. As he arose to resume the battle, time for the end of the round was announced. The intermission allowed Tucker to recover from his blows. The fight was snappy throughout and furnished plenty of excitement for the audience.

Hardy Downing was referee for the boxing bout and Ben Harker of the Deseret gymnasium officiated for the wrestlers. J. A. A. Stanley announced the various contestants and introduced challengers for both wrestling and boxing. The Tribune last night received a telegram from the Globe Athletic club, Chicago, proposing a match between Mike Yokel and Ernest Kartzle for the first week in January in Chicago. The message has been forwarded to Yokel, who is on his ranch in the Jackson's Hole country, and an answer is expected from Mike as soon as the mail service to Lehi for whom he worked can fetch it.

The challengers introduced by Jim Stanley were Clarence McFarland of Kansas City and St. Louis, who wishes to take on anyone in a ten-round boxing contest at 122 pounds, and George McLeod of Salt Lake, who wishes to challenge any lightweight wrestler to a match. The weight for this class is 135 pounds.

LONE BANDIT KILLS PASSENGER AGENT

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—Boarding the Sunnee express train No. 9, on the Southern Pacific at Pomona, a lone and unmasked bandit tonight held up and robbed a number of passengers in the forward Pullman of $400 in money and valuables, shot and instantly killed Traveling Passenger Agent H. L. Montague, when he sought to interfere, jumped from the train at El Monte, escaped. Sheriff's posses were immediately organized, and a systematic man hunt was started, but at a late hour tonight no trace of the bandit had been found.

According to Pullman Conductor J. W. Compton, the bandit was evidently an amateur and very nervous. He entered the Pullman from the day coach and terrorized the passengers with a large automatic pistol, which he waved from side to side and threatened to shoot every one in sight unless they "shelled out." Many of the passengers quickly obeyed.

Traveling Passenger Agent Montague was standing in the aisle about the center of the car when he was shot. When the robber got to within a few feet of him he leveled his pistol at Montague's heart and told him to give up his money. Montague, instead, took a step forward and grabbed for the bandit's gun, and was shot through the heart.

Pullman Conductor Compton said the bandit was young, smooth shaven, about 5 feet 11 inches high, weighed about 185 pounds and wore a dark suit and black derby hat. Several suspects have been picked up at El Monte and Pasadena and are being held.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER SENT TO ASYLUM

Salt Lake, Dec. 1.—The damage suit of Miss Mathilde Demenge, a citizen of France and French teacher in Salt Lake high school, against the city of Salt Lake and Charles U. Heuser and Arthur B. Sim, contractors, which has been in the federal court for many months, was settled yesterday by stipulation, judgment being given to the plaintiff for $1000 damages without costs. This was agreed on outside of court by attorneys for the various parties.

Miss Demenge began suit against the city and the contracting firm following an accident which she suffered January 26, 1913, at Eleventh East and Sixth South streets. She received a broken limb and sprained ankles as the result of falling into an open sewer ditch being constructed for the city by the contractors. The complaint alleged that there was no danger light at the place, and that the defendants were negligent.

POWER SITE RESERVE NEAR LAS VEGAS, NEV.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—On the recommendation of Secretary Lane, President Wilson has issued an order creating a power site reserve in Boulder canyon on the Colorado river, about twenty miles east of Las Vegas, Nevada. This reserve is created in order to permit applicants before the department to complete their formal application for a right to develop water power under the water power laws.

The development proposed includes a dam at the mouth of a canyon that will raise the water level about 125 feet and create slack water for a distance of nearly twenty miles up stream. Such a construction will develop sufficient head for the production of about 40,000 horsepower with the minimum flow of the stream, which in this locality is about 5000 second feet.

The land involved in the reserve is practically all unsurveyed, and is in a rock canyon where it can have little use for any other purpose than power development. It appears probable that the necessary construction can be accomplished in such a manner as to provide very cheap power.

MRS. C. HOLST BURIED

Brigham City, Dec. 1.—Today at 1:20 p. m., funeral services were held in the state tabernacle over the remains of Mrs. C. Holst, who died Friday afternoon in the Dee hospital, Ogden, after having passed through a critical operation. Mrs. Holst had been confined to her home and bed for many months, during which time she suffered intensely.

Mrs. Holst was the wife of C. Holst, former mayor of Brigham City. She was one of the most prominent women of the city. The services were well attended by relatives and sympathizing friends, the speakers paying a high tribute to the life and character of the deceased. Mrs. Holst is survived by her husband, three sons and five daughters. Interment took place in the city cemetery.

Business houses closed their doors at 1 o'clock today, and all business was suspended while the services were in progress.

A board of alienists will examine him tomorrow when his identity, it is hoped, will be learned.

Merrill was picked up on Seventh Street with a bad wound on the back of his head. He had recovered from the physical injuries, but his mind is still a blank. It is believed he was slugged and robbed.

W. S. Merrill is not known to the Merrill living in Salt Lake and the name of W. S. Merrill does not appear in the city directory.

BOTTLE OF WHISKEY CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Salt Lake, Dec. 2.—As a result of taking a bottle of whiskey with him when he went from Vernal to Fort Duchesne to attend the Utah fair, which took place this fall, Judge James A. Wilson prominent attorney of Vernal, is now out of jail under bond of $5000 and has a federal indictment hanging over him. Lucian H. Smith, deputy United States marshal returned yesterday from Vernal, where he arrested Wilson and took him before the federal commissioner at Myton. There his bond was fixed and he was released.

According to Judge Wilson's story of the affair as related to the marshal, he and a party of friends went in an automobile to the Fort Duchesne fair and took some whiskey with them for personal use. When they arrived the acting Indian agent found that they had the liquor and confiscated the bottle. Judgment returned by the grand jury at its November session charged Wilson with "taking intoxicating liquor into Indian country," Fort Duchesne being on the reservation.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—preparing it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive and other leading druggists in Ogden and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back—Advertisement.
