PRIZE U. S. S. DROUGHTDOUGH NEARS COMPLETION

The superdestroyer U. S. S. Droughtdough is nearing completion at the New York Navy Yard, Brooklyn, N. Y., where she was built, after being patched and repaired at the Pacific Coast and after having been completed by the German Fleet. The German Fleet, at the time of the Battle of the Thames, did not have enough German sailors, so the United States Government, at the time of the American Civil War, had to take over the work of the German Fleet.
