A TIN MINE IN MONTANA.

Major J. W. Peck Brings Handsome Specimens to Salt Lake From the Only Tin Mine in America. Major J. W. Peck, now stopping at the White House, has something rich and new in the shape of a tin mine, which gives the old-time delver in rocks the fresh hopes of youthful expectations.

Major Peck was met to-day by a Democrat reporter and shown several specimens from various depths in the Belmont mine, located in Madison county, Montana, and situated from Dillon, on the Utah & Northern, twenty-two miles in a south-western direction, and from Virginia City twenty-five miles west, and on the old Blacktail hill stage route. This mine was discovered in 1882 by Mr. John Gray, now residing in Arizona. Three years ago Mr. Peck says he met Gray in Arizona and heard his description of the property and assays made in California and the East, after which he went in search of the mine, found it on the 8th of last August, and immediately put a force of men at work to develop it. In dimensions the deposit is from 1,000 to 1,300 feet long, surrounded by a country of white porphyry, and not a sign of mineral outside of this solitary deposit.

The workings of the entire mine consist of a thin variegated ruby rock, of no particular value, but containing a small trace of tin running two per cent. Twenty feet underground eleven per cent. tin is shown, with a small portion of metallic iron, increasing as depth is attained. A sample from eighty feet down shows 33 1/2 per cent. tin. The mine is pronounced very valuable from its richness, easy access and unlimited size. The Major will remain in the city a few days longer and then leave for New York City on business.

THE MASONIC LIBRARY BALL.

A Brilliant Gathering at the Opera House in Aid of a Worthy Institution. A select gathering of representative people assembled at the Walker Opera House last night in attendance upon the seventh annual grand ball given in aid of the Masonic Library of this city. The various committees rendered attention to every detail that would add to the pleasure and delight of their patrons, and have reason to congratulate themselves on the perfect success of last evening's brilliant affair. The auditorium was beautifully arranged and lighted for the three hundred merry dancers. Pederson's full band furnished enchanting music from the most popular and modern operas, and the refreshments formed no small part of the elegant programme carried out, as they were delightfully served by Mr. Pollock, proprietor of the White House.

The several committees were composed of the leading business men of the city, which gave stability and life to the entire entertainment. About $700 was realized, which will be expended in a selection of some 500 books, as was done last year, which will be added to the choice collection of over 6,500 volumes now possessed by the worthy Masonic Library of Salt Lake City.

References from B. Y. Hampton good.

Anyway, he has gone, and another chapter is added to the "Foul Murder" episode.

Salt Lake City Brewing Company. We notice that certain of our competitors advertise Beer of a "superior quality." Now, we do not wish to detract from the merits of that article, nor do we claim to be the finest in the world. We do maintain, however, that we are selling as much or more Beer than all the other Breweries in Utah combined, which fact is sufficient evidence that the public realize who makes the "superior quality" Beer.

We are prepared to deliver Holiday Beer promptly. Orders can be left at any of our depots, or telephone direct to Brewery office.

TROUBLE IN THE TRIM FAMILY.

A Typical Utah Marriage—Neither Had a Legal Right to Marry, But Still They Went In for Time and Eternity. The trial of Mrs. Maria Argent Trim vs. her polygamous lord and master, Hyram P. Trim, of Sugarhouse ward, Salt Lake City, afforded the only interesting news in the Third District Court this forenoon. The complaint, filed some two weeks ago, alleges that the unhappy twain were married here in 1861, and ever since have been and now are husband and wife. That there are now living, the issue of said marriage, five children, named Solomon, Amanda, Eunice, Rosetta and Israel Trim, aged respectively 23, 20, 19, 14 and 9 years.

Mrs. Trim states that defendant has treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner by compelling her at one time, while lying sick in bed by the side of Amanda when but eight days old, to do the work of a man in cutting and packing the shingles used in the roof now on the City Hall. Trim also ordered her out of the house in the middle of the night on one occasion while she had a babe in her arms, for the purpose of bringing home a young girl for a polygamous wife, and he abused her unmercifully because she refused to go. He has used her cruelly for years past to drive her from the house. Trim is alleged to have driven her out of the house in the middle of the night two years ago, and plaintiff, in a delicious condition sought shelter at the home of her children. Trim is accused of attempting to kill plaintiff some time during the year 1881, and Mrs. Trim went before Justice Speers and had defendant put under bonds to keep the peace for one year. During the past two years the defendant has called her a prostitute and his five children bastards.

Plaintiff further alleges that defendant is about to dispose of his property or encumber it, unless restrained. She further states that she has helped accumulate all the property and has worked in the fields, cutting and sawing and packing shingles. Plaintiff further alleges that she is dependent upon the charity of her friends for support. The defendant Trim, in answer to the lengthy complaint, emphatically denies every allegation, and further avers that he never had any wife, and that at the time of the alleged marriage the plaintiff had a lawful husband then living and from whom she had never been divorced, on account of which the plaintiff was incapacitated and not able to contract a second marriage with defendant, and is not now his wife. That at the alleged time of marriage with plaintiff the defendant had another lawful wife living and undivorced, which disabled him from contracting the alleged marriage with plaintiff, and is not now her husband. Defendant prayed to be dismissed without day and for costs. Mr. C. S. Varian appeared for the defendant, and M. A. Kaighn and C. O. Whittemore acted for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Trim, the plaintiff, Mrs. Mateman and the defendant Hyram Trim, were examined by counsel and gave evidence to the following facts: Plaintiff stated that she came from England, where she left a living and undivorced husband, named Goodwin. She stayed in Brooklyn, New York, about one year, then joined the Mormons and emigrated here. A month after arriving in Salt Lake City she met and married defendant. Learned of her first husband's death ten years after marrying defendant.

Hyram P. Trim was an interesting witness, and stated that he came from Boston, Massachusetts, where he married Ellen Fryer, and then falling in with some Mormons, he joined the faith and took them to his home. "My wife," said he, "would have nothing to do with the Mormons, and told me to clear out, and I didn't wait any longer, but got out and left her. I don't know whether she is dead or living. I got no divorce from her, and I have never heard a word from her since I left. I married Maria in 1861. One of the elders united us. Ten years afterward we were married again in the Endowment House."

"Why were you married a second time?" "Because the Mormon religion runs that way. If a man is not sealed to his women he is only married for this world, and through time and eternity he will be a hewer of wood, a carrier of water and such. I am no longer a Mormon, but can't say as to the time when I was sealed. Defendant further stated that he has about $4,500 worth of this world's goods, and desires peace.

The examination was proceeded with this afternoon by recalling the defendant to the stand in order to establish the time of the second, or celestial, marriage, which took place in the Endowment House. Mrs. Trim said she fixed the date from the birth of his son Israel; the marriage was in accordance with the Mormon religion for the purpose of reaping celestial glory through time and eternity.

Solomon Trim, a son, 22 years of age, fixed the year the letter was received from England, announcing the death of Goodwin, his mother's first husband, as being in 1876.

Plaintiff Mrs. Trim, was called back to the stand, and said she fixed the marriage in the Endowment House by Israel's birth, which took place a very few months after the second marriage. The letter simply announced that Goodwin had died in the hospital and was buried. The celestial marriage was to perfect our lives for eternity.

The defense introduced an amendment to the complaint, relative to the second marriage, which was allowed.

The Court reviewed the testimony and ruled that Mrs. Trim be allowed $100 for witness fees and the costs of action to enable her to present her case to the Court.

Mr. Varian requested the case down for hearing at the time of the next term, and the defense concurring, Thursday of this week at 10 o'clock was set for the time of hearing.

SOUTHERN UTAH NOTES.

A Quiet Week in the Mining Camps About Dixie. John Barbee shipped six tons of good ore to the Stormont mill this week. Dick Jarman shipped twenty-eight tons from the Lamb & Steel to the river mill this week. Josh. Alphin shipped fifteen tons of fair grade ore from the old Bonanza on the White Reef, to the Christy mill this week.

Frank G. Brown, Vice-President of the Horn Silver company, visited the mine this week. One who is posted says that next month the mine will boom again.

Avery & Van Hagan have taken a six month's lease on the Honest Miner, on the White Reef. They are working in very good ore and have a fine prospect before them.

A sufficient number of names of veterans has been obtained to form a Grand Army Lodge, and the officers of Murray Post No. 1 will be mustered in early next week at Milford.

At the Stormont property, the main incline has run through some good ore within the past few days; it is now down eighty-five feet below the six hundred level. The stopes are looking well and furnished an average of forty tons of fair grade ore to the mill during the past week.

Blind Jim Logan and boy had a narrow escape from death the other day in Taylor district, Nevada, says the Southern Utah Times. They were descending the Monitor hill when their backboard brake broke and allowed the vehicle to get away with the cayuse. Strange to say, when the youth and old gentleman dug out of the debris caused by the collision of their outfit with an on wagon, both were found almost without a scratch.

The holiday hub at Frisco given under the auspices of the A. O. U. W., Garfield Lodge, No. 5, was largely attended, and was quite a brilliant affair and was well conducted, as parties given by either of the Lodges always are. Forty couples were present, and tripped the light fantastic to the strains of inspiring music until the peep of day. The spacious dining hall of the Southern Hotel, where the hop was held, was decked in holiday attire, and the banquet given in the lodge room gave zest to the gay event.

Shoemaker of Silver Reef has procured a two-year old mare from Parowan, which he has matched to run against Jack Barbee's bay horse. The race will be run on New Year's Day at Bonanza Flat, for $100 a side. The Leeds boys have already laid out the Silver Reef sports in two former races with their flying cayuse and feel confident of success. The Reefers will, however, give them another chance to replenish the titling fund. There will probably be several other races made before the 1st, and lots of sport is expected.

The Theatre Attaches' Ball. The annual ball given last night by the attaches of the Salt Lake Theatre was attended by a large gathering of friends of the familiar corps of help about that popular place of amusement. The floor was constantly filled with a gay and happy crowd of young people, while the extensive circles about the auditorium were thronged with young and aged spectators, who seemed as delighted in witnessing the merry dance as the happy participants therein. The Theatre orchestra furnished superb music, with Mr. Hillam as prompter.

The decorations were elaborate and beautiful, partaking after the "Mikado" style. Every one present expressed their satisfaction in retiring, and the attaches have reason to feel proud of their party of 1885.

A Local Billiard Tournament. W. R. F. Lowry of San Francisco, Josh Arthur and Gus Engler of Salt Lake, and Scott Donnelly of Ogden, billiardists, have arranged a grand tournament to take place at the Walker House billiard parlors, beginning Saturday evening, January 2d. The contest is for $50, made up by the players and will probably be appropriated to Messrs. Bechtel & Sands, proprietors of the amusement. The contestants continue one week, commencing Saturday evening at 8 o'clock and lasting about two hours. The agreement provides that Mr. Lowry gives odds of 200 points in 500 points to each of the other contestants. He may say as to the three ball French caramou straight rail contests, and will doubtless prove interesting and exciting.

Where the Dollar Goes Furthest. The approach of the holidays make one feel as though every dollar should have at least two hundred uses, for many things have to be bought. The little ones expect presents, so do employes and servants, and if the pocket is not entirely drained by that time, friends and other dear ones have to be remembered. If we cannot make a dollar worth double its value, we can at least try to secure as much for it as can possibly be got, and if you will for this purpose call at Simon Bros., establishment, you will leave their place having made your purchase with a smile of satisfaction upon your countenance.

EPHRAIM NOTES.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT: The Ephraimites are spending the holidays as happily as if there was not a deputy marshal within a thousand miles of here. A select ball was given in the Academy building on Christmas night, and all the elite of the city were invited to join in the mazy dance.

At the Presbyterian Church on Christmas Eve the parents and scholars of the school met to have a good time; the church was comfortably heated and brilliantly lighted. At the head of the room were two large Christmas trees, heavily laden with a glittering array of presents for the children, and all over the trees were many colored wax candles, which gave the scene a beautiful effect and made the happy children laugh with joy, and the parents were just as happy to see the mirth of the children. A short but excellent programme was given by the scholars, consisting of music, singing, recitations, Christmas pieces, etc., after which the whole company adjourned, not sine die, but over to Larsen's Hall, close by, where a well-spread table, groaning under the weight of good things, was ready for the guests. Each person was provided with a tall paper hat. It was a novel and comical sight to see upward of seventy people of all heights and sizes, old and young, with those tall-pointed hats on their heads, nodding to each other and laughing until their sides ached. Enjoyment and good will was the order of Christmas Eve, 1885. Too much credit cannot be given to Miss Rea and her two able assistants, Miss Smith and Miss Coug, ladies from California on a visit to Miss Rea. Everything went off smoothly and harmoniously. The thanks of all present were freely tendered to Miss Rea and assistants for their truly happy gathering of so many friends and of the happiness enjoyed by all; may they live to see many happy returns.

EPHRAIM, Dec. 25, 1885.

B. B. Young's Sacred Concert. The Walker Opera House was comfortably filled Sunday evening by a fashionable and appreciative audience. The programme was especially adapted for the Christmas season, being largely composed of the gems from Handel's great oratorio of "The Messiah." The solos and duets were nicely selected and exceptionally well rendered. Mr. B. B. Young, it is only necessary to state, sang his two numbers with the second with accompaniment of male voices, in his accustomed elegant style, and his superb baritone did full justice to his selections. Mr. T. Crawford's bass solo, recitative and aria, was very fine. The several choruses were executed with great smoothness and evenness throughout, and his selection was well adapted to his fine bass voice.

Mr. W. W. Mackintosh sang "Charity," by Faure, and surprised his many friends by his excellent voice and style of rendering this beautiful solo, showing careful training and study. Mr. Mackintosh is a rising young singer, and bids fair to rank high as a tenor.

The duet, "He Shall Feed His Flock," sang by Mrs. Druce-Pugsley and Miss Grace Almy, was one of the gems of the evening. Miss Almy has a very pleasing "mezzo" voice, and sang with much feeling. Mrs. Pugsley has an exceptionally fine soprano voice, and used it well, and we anticipate the pleasure of soon hearing her again.

The choruses were excellent, and they went with a vim and spirit, with the small exception of a little drag in the last number.

Mr. Willard Weihe's contributions to the programme were two beautiful selections, "Concerto" and a "Roverie," both rendered with Mr. Weihe's well-known finished style and execution. Prof. Kadoffky presided at the organ in his usual happy manner, and Madame Young at the piano in a masterly and unexcelled. As a whole it was a grand success, and we trust these monthly successes, go to Mrs. B. S. Long, at Nos. 35 and 37 E. First South street. Remember that she is not at her late stand on Main street.
