General Master Workman Ponderly says that poverty must be abolished. The writer concurs with the G. M. W., and will cheerfully submit himself as a subject to experiment upon.

The first sleighing of the season is confined today to the alley half of north and west streets. The aristocratic sleighers turn up their noses at the muddy, if not muddied, mud on wheels on the other side of the way. It realizes the unnatural union of January and May.

The jury in the Hawthorne case after being out about fifteen minutes, yesterday afternoon, returned to court and announced that they had found a verdict of guilty as found in the indictment. At the request of Judge McBride the time of sentence was fixed for Tuesday, the 23d instant.

Telephone poles of an immense size are being planted along Main street, east and west streets. The aristocratic sleighers turn up their noses at the muddy, if not muddied, mud on wheels on the other side of the way. It realizes the unnatural union of January and May.

The Mormon postmaster at Brigham City has been removed and George R. Chase, a thoroughgoing Democrat and Gentle, appointed in his place. It appears that the Administration, unlike the Democratic Congressional Committee, does not recognize the Mormon Church as the true Democratic party of Utah.

The Postmaster-General today issued the following order: On Monday, the 22d of November, the postoffices of the United States may be closed between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 1 p. m., in memory of the late President of the United States, Chester A. Arthur, and the usual emblems of mourning displayed.

The prospects are that to-morrow night's athletic exhibition will be the finest show of the kind that has ever been given here. The Olympic boys are hard workers, and by constant practice they have gotten up many a run down to a fine point. In addition to the amateurs quite a number of professionals will appear, and there is no reason why the show should not be great.

M. H. Murray, one of the defendants in the suit brought by George C. Stoddard, states that the origin of the suit was not his suing for a bar of gold, as stated in the Democrat's account of the case. The money, Mr. Murray was trying to recover was $75 which he had loaned Stoddard, and although the latter owed the former a large bill for drinks, Murray made no claim for it, or to collect it, as he knew it would be useless.

A Nevada exchange says: C. F. Montgomery and Perry McCurdy have recently relocated within the Pat Kelly, or Miner's Hope mine, in Old Battle Mountain district, under the name of the Vernon, and last week sold twenty tons of ore for $45 per ton to D. Cozzens, who shipped it to Salt Lake for reduction. The ore carries silver, with a large proportion of lead and traces of gold, which would run $4 to $5 per ton. The mine is an old one, which a shaft 82 feet in depth was sunk some years ago.

Major Van Horn, of Company A, Seventeenth Infantry, stationed at Fort Russell, reports that his company made the recovery of 91,300 out of a possible 100, in skrimshoring at target practice. "I have no doubt," said Colonel Henry to a reporter, "that the Department of the Platte would take higher rank in the matter of firing than any other department in America, if we could leave out Fort De Russel. This is a post which has been but recently organized, and the soldiers had no time for practice. By a recent order the average of this post will have to be entered and it will probably lower our record."

The Church papers pretend to be greatly elated over the conviction of Hawthorne, a Gentle, for the crime of polygamy, but the truth is they are greatly disappointed with the outcome of the case. Had Hawthorne been acquitted the matter would have furnished fuel for the boys of both the Mormon fiddles during the whole winter. The instruments are becoming squeaky and unless they find something new to grind on even the saints will go back on them. Mr. Dickson's closing argument was a clincher in showing that he cared nothing for a man's religion in his efforts to carry out the provisions of the Edmunds law.

TINTING THE TENTH WARD.

A Frisky Son of a Marryr Paints a Portion of the Town.

The Tenth ward of this city was given a lurid hue between 7 and 10:30 o'clock last evening by the gyrations of Samuel B. Smith, a red-handed son of a marryr, who has of late distinguished himself as the terror of town. Smith is a man of a peacable nature, except at such times as he may happen to accept good old fire-water as his guiding star, and then he is likely to get a little off. He has gotten a little off one or twice of late, and while he has proven a pretty bad scare to nervous neighbors, he has been the especial terror of the city cops, and may yet prove the cause of their resigning. That he is not very dangerous among ordinary people is proven by the fact that during the worst of last night's fracas several of the neighbors were by his side talking with him, but what he would have done had the cops dared to come around to his side of the block is a matter for conjecture only.

From all that can be learned, it appears that Smith has recently had trouble with his wife, caused no doubt by his unseemly devotion to the tin Goddess, Drink, and that the poor woman (though not a polygamist) had become fearful of his antics. Not long since the Democrat gave an account of his rousing up the ward, but on account of his father's high church standing, no legal action was taken in the matter.

Last night's row was very similar in every respect to the previous one referred to. Smith got drunk and frightened his wife; she ran from the house, gave the alarm, and the appearance of neighbors upon the scene was the signal for Smith's anger to reach its height. The first person to appear upon the scene was one Hyman Newton, who made a vain attempt to take Smith's "gun" from him. In the scuffle, four shots were fired, and Smith then retired to the house, while Newton gave a further alarm. In about half an hour six regular policemen and two or three of the Church specials were within a block of the scene and remained there until the terror had agreed to surrender his pistol.

The cops claim that two of their number arrived upon the scene while Smith and Newton were scuffling and that they took the pistol from him, but a gentleman who was there and saw the whole affair, says that this is entirely wrong. Our informant states that none of them entered the house until Smith gave up the gun, but they began to carry on negotiations, using ex-martyr S. H. B. Smith, the father of the boy, as a speaking tube. The young man at first declared that he would not give up the gun to anybody, and stated that he would shoot the first policeman who entered the door. Not wishing to put him to this trouble the thoughtful cops stayed outside. Finally, after a good deal of negotiation, during which the old man was sent forth and back like a return ball, the young man agreed to give up the gun on the condition that he would not be arrested. This was agreed to by the policemen, who made him promise to appear in court this morning.

At 10 o'clock today Smith appeared in the Police Court, pleaded guilty and made a statement to the Court. He declares that in the tussle with Newton, the pistol went off accidentally, and stated that he had no ill of shooting anyone. The Judge decided that he would like to know the full particulars of the affair before disposing of it, and he therefore ordered an examination for to-morrow at 2 p. m. In the meantime Smith is out on his own recognizance.

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

One of the Most Enjoyable Balls Ever Given in This City.

A more brilliantly successful affair than the concert and ball given at the Theatre last evening by the Hebrew Benevolent and Relief Societies, has certainly never occurred in this city, and, considering all things, it might be added in any other city. As a matter of fact, it was a very agreeable disappointment even to those who anticipated the most, while to those, if any such there were, who went there in doubt, it was an overwhelming surprise. From the time the concert began to the time the ball opened, the house was a scene of brightness, sparkling with beauty and grace.

THE CONCERT.

Which consumed the first part of the evening, was a most appropriate introduction for an affair so replete in every respect.

An orchestra of local musicians such as have never been brought together before, and a display of local talent pre-eminently capable, contributed to this part of the entertainment some of the sweetest music that has ever been listened to by a Salt Lake audience. Looking back to past concerts, which at the time seemed so successful, after listening to last evening's music, they seem, to say the least, tes ordinaires.

Miss Hawley, Mrs. Siegel and Mrs. Knowlton, the three lady vocalists, were at the best of voice, and each won an encore and received hearty and complimentary applause. Mr. Scarpatura sang his selection unusually well, and for an encore gave his favorite, "La Paloma." Mr. Weiss and Mr. Allions, the instrumental soloists, performed to the best advantage and won deserved encores.

Long before those present had finished discussing the merits of the concert, the stage had been cleared and the strains of the orchestra were again heard in the grand march, announcing the opening of the ball.

The march was led by Governor West, with Miss Zane as his partner, and they were followed by nearly the entire company. In a few moments all were in the whirl of a catching waltz, and from that time till after 3 o'clock this morning the floor was clear only at the intervals between dances. The music was all new, and played in such excellent time that none could resist its influence. Dozens of ladies and gentlemen who "only dropped in for a moment to look over themselves from the floor. Figures and figure was gone through with, and to the end of the lengthy program the interest never waned and the dancers lost no enthusiasm.

THE DANCE.

While full dress was not generally observed by either ladies or gentlemen, yet among the former there were many who appeared in most elegant gowns, and among the latter there were many who wore up manfully under their "clay-lumines." The ladies were as a rule dressed with richness and exquisite taste, which, coupled with such an assembly of variegated beauty, made the scene one for memory.

Taking the affair as a whole and comparing it with any like event that has occurred here, it must be pronounced a most absolute and overwhelming success.

BUSINESS AND MINING NOTES.

Railroad Earnings—Silver and Gold Items—Trade and Failures—Mining and Stocks.

Readers' of the 13th inst., gives a tabulated statement of revenue, mileage and capitalization of seventy-nine representative railroads, together with railway earnings for October and for ten months in 1886, 1885 and 1884. The total earnings of these roads for October was, in 1884, $21,643,245, or an average of $18 per mile. In 1885, the total earnings, $22,883,845, or an average of $27 per mile. In 1886, the total earnings, $23,628,414, or $14 per mile. The aggregate mileage increased from 41,759 miles in 1884 to 43,038 miles in 1886.

The present construction of railroads is mainly west of the Missouri river, and shows conclusively that "Westward the course of Empire takes its way." Indirectly it serves to emphasize the fact alluded to in the Democrat heretofore, under the head of "Business Notes," that new roads were building in the direction of our mineral districts, indicating that the mining industry was about to take a new lease of life, and that railway and mining development walked hand in hand.

In this connection it may be of interest to note that the liberal and large increase of earnings of the D. & R. G. Railway, for the ten months in 1886 over 1884, for the gross earnings of 1884 were $57,285, the earnings over the same number of miles in 1886, amounted to $713,212.

The London Times, writing to commenters in advocacy of silver currency says: "The position we have really drifted into is this: Instead of gold and silver let us instance two other mere commodities, say beef and mutton. Just as silver and gold were before 1875 consumed in the currencies all the world over, so it is now lawful to eat beef and mutton. But suppose the state, in a moment of un wisdom, treated mutton as it has treated silver, and refused to permit its consumption. The price of mutton would fall enormously, the price of beef would appreciate. Beef, like gold, would go to a famine price in consequence of the demand of those who formerly eat mutton chops."

The Director of the United States Mint reports the total output of gold for the year at $23,777,880, of silver at $30,022,347, the production of gold and silver in the world during the calendar year 1885 is estimated at $101,580,000 in gold; silver calculated at its coming value, $125,000,000. The production of this country is estimated at $83,400,000 in gold and silver, about two-fifths the production of the whole world.

Trade generally, especially in the dry goods line, is reported dull. Labor troubles and the labor vote and less foreign demand for American securities, affects unfavorably the stock market. Money is easy, gold is coming from Europe, and disbursements from the United States Treasury are liberal. There have been four or five regular auctions of silver in this country than last. Idle money is accumulating in Great Britain.

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that the interest due on the 1st of December next on U. S. 4 1/2 per cent bonds will be paid without rebate. Interest on the per cents due January 1st, 1887, will be paid at any time upon a rebate of interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum, showing that Uncle Sam has plenty of money.

The London Times says: "Assays made from samples of the copper ore from the mine in the upper part of this ore belt which the mine was under lease to W. E. Sharrow."

In mining matters, Conestocks are climbing up. Col. Cal. & Vir. shares have advanced 1/2. Its daily output of ore is about 400 tons.

It is reported that E. J. Travis & Co., have sold their ranch at American Falls, to Mr. Burke, formerly of the firm of Logan & Burke. Price unknown.

Virginia City, Nev., Nov. 18, 1886. The 12th inst. says: "Assays made from samples of ore cut in advancing the south drift on the 500 level in the Savage mine are said to have ranged from $4 to $12 per ton. This is considered encouraging when it is mentioned that the samples tested were taken from the rim of the vein. The strength evidenced by Chlorar is said to be due to a rumor that a two-foot streak of fabulous value has been recently developed in prospecting the large belt of low-grade ore on the 250 level. Rich strikes from the vein are in the upper part of this ore belt which the mine was under lease to W. E. Sharrow."

JUNCTION JOTTINGS.

Personal and General Paragraphs from Our Regular Ogdan Correspondent.

The Pleasant Hours Club will give a fan party in Woodman's Hall on Thanksgiving Day. The boys are preparing for an excellently successful time, which they will undoubtedly realize.

J. W. McNutt, one of Ogdan's most popular citizens and an ardent Democrat throughout, has returned from his cattle ranches in the north, reporting a good outlook.

The Grand Jury men are now enjoying the hospitality of the law office rooms of ex-Judge P. H. Emerson, in the Dooly block.

It was snowing all day, and travel and traffic was somewhat interrupted, or at least delayed.

Sickness appears to be growing upon our citizens in a very deplorable manner. Many of our best people have afflictions of this kind in their families. Mrs. John A. Dial is suffering from pneumonia. Mrs. Frank Cook is down with inflammatory rheumatism. We hope that all the ladies will soon recover the health which is only an ally to their native beauty.

Mr. John W. Pike, the District Court reporter, was rather ill this morning, but was on hand all right in the court this afternoon. The execrable ventilation may have hurt him.

It was a pitiable sight to see Mrs. Susan Barry, yesterday afternoon, inside the bar of the First District Court, her faithful and grief-stricken features suffused with an anguished flush and she holding her head with a hand she once gave to a so-called man (Joseph Parry) who had once pledged her eternal love and protection, and then skipped from the clutches of the law. Oh, when will Mormons cease to take their wives to the chambers of lust and then have them dragged before courts of law, to perjure themselves and subject them to the fiery ordeal of criminal examinations?

There are now only three prisoners in the Ogdan City jail, in charge of Moroni F. Poyen. This may be explained as a sign of a healthy moral condition of the community, or a laxity on the part of the officers. We hope we are justified in leaning to the former alternative.

Last night the U. P. did not come in till 8:55. To-night it was reported late.

John Davis, a Welshman, was naturalized. The case of Chas. Ducheneau vs. D. P. Turpey was taken under advisement.

The case of P. B. Neilson, for obtaining means under false pretenses, was advanced on the calendar for trial.

By way of interpolation, let your reporter express a grant of dissatisfaction at the removal of one of the reporter's tables. There certainly are no accommodations for the newspaper men worthy the name of it. We call the attention of the Court to it with due respect.

C. S. Varian appeared in court with due promptitude.

In the afternoon session, with a densely crowded attendance, the first case of any public importance to be called was that of Susan, wife of Joseph Parry, an underground devotee of the Gospel of the Latter-days. A jury was impaneled, after the usual statutory and other questions. It consists of Fred Fox, Alex. Bowman, O. H. Dooly, W. M. Berry, A. J. Stone, S. Thomas, Charles Webb, John Gerner, Joseph Jenkins, Ed. Sewell, E. S. Bell and James Goodwin.

There was some legal belligerence between the lawyers on some points of the admissibility of some of the citizens called to the jury box. Some challenges were sustained, one on account of the man's belief in the rightness of polygamy. The indictment charges said Susan Parry with having on February 18, 1886, given to the jury box, as to the age of her youngest child by Joseph Parry, which child was not, as she swore, then over three years, but even under two years of age, thereby implicating the defendant in one of those inextricable webs of perjury and perjury which envelop the Mormon system with a mist of mendacity.

Witnesses were called and appeared: O. E. Hill, secretary of the Grand Jury of a late term, and E. A. Perkins, clerk of the court. At this juncture Jas. N. Kimball, attorney for defendant, entered a string of objections against further taking of testimony, on various grounds, the chief point being his claim that under the laws of the United States there had not been any offense committed against the laws of the United States.

Assistant District Attorney Ogdan Hills stood up for the prosecution, defining the jurisdictional rights of the Grand Jury, and showing the degree and necessity of the crime of perjury—the felony alleged against Susan Parry.

Kimball contended the objections of counsel for the defendant, "the shades of eve were falling fast," and court adjourned after T. A. Perkins had produced some court records, while the reporters were offering not very pious impressions on the subject of lighting facilities at such a late hour of the day.

THIS INSTITUTION IS DESIGNED FOR the education of boys and young men (either as boarders or day pupils), and will be conducted exclusively by competent and experienced teachers.
