SALT LAKE HAS "BLUE SUNDAY"

"Blue Sunday," the result of orders of the new commissioners and Chief of Police Grant, of Salt Lake yesterday proved a success from the point of view of those behind the orders.

Three arrests were made by the police. One was a cigar dealer whose arrest is to be made a test case.

At midnight last night restaurants and others opened their tobacco cases and were prepared to supply tobacco users.

The order under which the officers are proceeding provides that book stores may remain open for the sale of papers and magazines, but must not sell books.

How long such an order will be enforced is a matter of conjecture.

SUNDAY SERMON OF REV. CARVER

Lawrence Greenwell sang at the morning service and Miss Bartlett at the evening service yesterday in the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Carver, in the evening, speaking on the "Revelings of the Snow," said in part: "For my thoughts, are not your thoughts, neither are my ways your ways, saith the Lord."

Common objects of nature are often most wonderful when we study them. Well known more so than the snow, it is about the whitest object in all the earth.

The snow is a most wonderful and perfect object of nature when we study the form in which it comes. The flakes here vary from one inch to seven-hundredths of an inch in diameter.

The snow speaks of power so great that the mind of man cannot comprehend it. Napoleon learned one phase of it when, in an awful Russian winter, he met an army of snow-flakes that no power of man could conquer.

Snow has a wonderful saving power from the enemy of life in winter, the cold. Its color is unfavorable to the radiation of heat.

The snowflakes fall silently and unnoticed, and yet they have a great influence for the harvest depends largely upon them.

The snow is seemingly wasted, but our text tells us, and we know when we think, that it is not. It does its intended work.

WOMAN SOCIALIST TALKS ON TRUSTS

Mrs. May Wood Simons, of Chicago, wife of the editor of the Coming Nation and one of the most scholarly speakers in the American Socialist movement, delivered an address yesterday afternoon in the Methodist church on the much discussed topic of "Trust Busting."

While Mrs. Simons dealt with her theme in an orthodox Marxian manner, claiming that the trusts are the natural outgrowth of economic laws and that it is therefore a natural impossibility for human governments to dissolve them, her talk was out of the ordinary run common to Socialist speakers.

Concerning the "trust-busting" campaign now being waged, Mrs. Simons had most to say. She declared that the Socialist party was not in favor of this campaign.

Education is rapidly clearing the way for the onward march of socialism, the speaker said. She proved this by stating that all advanced universities have courses on socialism, and all libraries have shelves full of books on the subject of this political science.

It was intended to hold the meeting in the basement of the church but because of the large number of persons attending it was found necessary to hold it in the auditorium of the building.

JOHN C. STUBBS, BRIEF SKETCH

(Railway Age Gazette.) On January 1 John C. Stubbs retired as director of traffic of the Harriman system of railways.

Mr. Stubbs has taken up his residence in his boyhood home town of Ashland, Ohio, although he still retains his connection in an advisory capacity with the railway system he has served for over 40 years.

Mr. Stubbs has spent practically all of his life in the traffic department of the Harriman system. In October, 1870, when in the second year of his railway service, he became chief clerk in the general freight office of the Central Pacific at Sacramento, Cal.

By virtue not only of this powerful position, but also of his own personal and remarkable ability, Mr. Stubbs has for many years held a commanding position in the transportation world and has perhaps exerted a more potent influence on the traffic destinies of the western half of the United States than any other man.

There was some improvement in the train service over the Union Pacific yesterday, all westbound trains having arrived by 10 o'clock last night.
