JERRY IS SECOND BEST

Sieloff Got the Decision in the Contest.

FIGHT WENT TWENTY ROUNDS

Good Crowd Witnessed Meritorious Exhibition.

McCarthy Claimed He Should Have Had Decision, and the Pair May Meet Again.

"It was the Dutch" that got the decision in the twenty-round bout between Otto Sieloff and Jerry McCarthy at the Grand theater last night.

EVERY SEAT WAS TAKEN.

Every seat in the house was taken and the stage was literally packed. Both men were heartily cheered when they entered the ring shortly before 10 o'clock.

JERRY BEHIND HIS CROUCH.

At the sound of the gong for the first round both men stepped forward. Jerry assumed his crouch and Sieloff took the aggressive. Sieloff was shifty on his feet and Jerry kept himself well covered.

TWO VICIOUS CUTS.

In the fifth round Sieloff got in two vicious uppercuts and Jerry straightened up. He stepped back from two hard swings from Sieloff's right and landed two hard ones to Sieloff's face.

JERRY HAD A ROUND.

The eighth was Jerry's round. Two left swings went home to the Dutchman's jaw and neck and two more were ducked. Sieloff uppercut to Jerry's jaw and they were mixing things when the gong sounded.

BOTH AFTER BLOOD.

Jerry got in a bad one to the ribs in the thirteenth and landed a hard left to the jaw in the following round. Both rounds were Jerry's. Both men clinched in the fifteenth and mixed twice.

SOME PRELIMINARY BOUTS.

The fight was preceded by two preliminaries of four rounds each. The first was between the two thirty-pound children of R. M. Jones. The other was between Tommy Markham and Ray Barney.

CHIEF LYNCH ON FIGHTS.

The fighting game, so long as it is conducted on the square, will be continued in this city, according to Chief Lynch. Both the chief and the Mayor are in favor of permitting events of this nature so long as the public is protected from fraud.

The Mayor and myself have not discussed the matter, but so far as I am concerned I am in favor of having the game. Personally I am fond of it, and so long as the grafters don't get busy I can see no reason why fights should not be held on the square.

HE PUT COALS OF FIRE ON HIS ENEMY'S BED

A mistake of two letters in the reading of the scriptures came near causing a serious fire at the corner of Fourth South and State streets about 5 o'clock last evening. Instead of hooping coils of fire on his enemy's head, C. H. Brown, a colored man, is alleged to have heaped coils of fire on his bed.

In a few minutes the fire was out. Then it was discovered that coal had been piled in the center of the two beds. The lid was still off the stove, and a fire-shovel, used in the attempt, lay on the floor.
