DOCTOR CRIPPEN CAPTURED AND POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

Alleged Murderer of His Actress Wife in London Now in Hands of Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard

HIS STENOGRAPHER, DISGUISED AS A BOY, BREAKS DOWN WHEN LOCKED UP

Sensational Race of Officer Across the Atlantic Is Dramatically Brought to Successful Termination

FATHER POINT, Quebec, July 31.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen and Ethel Claire Leneve, his stenographer, who fled from London after the disappearance of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife, were arrested here today aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose, at the command of Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard.

NO EFFORT MADE TO SECURE CONFESSION

ON BOARD STEAMSHIP MONTROSE, via Wireless to Quebec, July 31.—While closely guarded on the passage between Father Point and Quebec, Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve were allowed to see each other. Miss Leneve is rapidly recovering her composure, and Dr. Crippen appeared cheerful.

Although neither Crippen nor the pretty typist denied their identity, neither admitted any connection with the London murder. Neither Inspector Dew nor the Canadian officers who were held to get any incriminating admissions from the couple. Such efforts are contrary to the law, and the prisoners volunteered no information.

With the shock of arrest over, a stewardess changed the boy's clothing in which the girl had traveled for garments more fitted to her sex. Then she collapsed and lay for more than an hour in her berth, her features distorted and her body shaken with convulsive sobs. In separate cabin guarded by a detective, Crippen sat in silence, with his chin sunk on his chest.

When Inspector Dew went aboard the steamer, he was met by the doctor and Crippen and Miss Leneve, when they found themselves discovered, would commit suicide.

Problem for Officers

The small army of American, Canadian and European correspondents that had been waiting at Father Point to see the end of one of the most exciting mysteries of the century, were disappointed. Inspector Dew had spent a sleepless night at the Marconi operator's side, communicating through the fog with the boat that was carrying the man and woman he sought. The man had fled to him in London and fled the city with the mystery of Belle Elmore's disappearance unsolved and a strong personal feeling entered the detective's desire to carry out the task assigned him by Scotland Yard.

Village All Aroused

Like a giant alarm clock it awakened the nervous villagers and the expectant newspapermen who dressed hurriedly and waited in a drizzling rain for the liner's arrival.

Doctor Ill at Ease

Crippen was standing near the rail talking with Dr. Stewart, the ship's surgeon, and attempting to appear calm. But that he was nervous was indicated by the furtive glances and his remark to Dr. Stewart: "There are three pilots coming aboard. I don't know who they are. Is that not unusual?"

AGED FATHER BELIEVES CRIPPEN IS INNOCENT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 31.—Myron A. Crippen, father of the accused London wife slayer, was ill in bed when he learned that his son had been arrested. The aged man has been in poor health and in his weakened condition the intelligence produced a visible effect upon him.

MISS LENEVE'S MOTHER SAYS GIRL WAS HYPNOTIZED

LONDON, July 31.—Scotland Yard officers tonight did not have any exact information as to whether Crippen would be deported or extradited, but they anticipated deportation, in which case, it was said, Crippen would be placed on trial within three weeks.

NEW YORK, July 31.—John G. Carlisle, former secretary of the treasury, who has been critically ill for the past two days, died at his apartments in New York at 10:50 tonight of heart failure, accompanied by oedema of the lungs.

An intestinal complaint of long standing, which wore down his vitality, lay behind the technical fact of heart failure. He was attacked last spring by the same trouble complicated by an ailment of the kidneys and for a time hovered near death.

John G. Carlisle was born in Kenton county, Kentucky, on September 5, 1835.

Career in Politics

From 1877 to 1890 he was a member of the national house of representatives, and from 1883 to 1889 was its speaker. He resigned to fill the unexpired term of James B. With the retirement from power of the Democratic party in 1897 he withdrew from politics and took up the practice of law in New York City. The body will be sent to Washington tomorrow and the funeral will probably be held at the residence which Mr. Carlisle still retained there. Burial will be in the family plot at Covington, Ky.

WENDING NOT AT ALL WORRIED

Alleged Slayer of Eight-Year-Old Kellner Girl Laughs at Charges.

ANXIOUS TO GO BACK AND CLEAN UP TROUBLE

Was Caught in San Francisco After Chase Extending Over 18,000 Miles.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Henry Joseph Wending, held in the city prison here for the murder of eight-year-old Alma Kellner of Louisville, Ky., will leave in the company of Captain of Detectives Carney next Tuesday to face the charge that rests against him in the city from which he fled last January. He is anxious to return and his confident manner in expressing his desire to face the murder indictment and have the thing worked out with him, indicates a sincerity. He laughingly protests his innocence and says that the Louisville murder charge does not worry him nearly as much as the thought of meeting his late brother-in-law, Louis Arnold, whose wish, he says, caused him to leave home so hurriedly.

The prisoner was not interviewed by the police today, and no effort is likely to be made to secure a confession until Louisville is reached.

Wending was tired and sleepy today when he walked into the presence of the newspaper men who had come to interview him, but his bright smile was not forgotten.

Calls Jail "Funny."

"This is a funny place, this jail," he said. "I don't like it here. I want to go back to Louisville and clear away those troubles and get on with my life. I don't like this jail. Too many drunken men inside there. They say such funny things to make me laugh and I don't like it. It is all strange business to me. They say I killed the little children down there in my town. That makes me laugh, too. The police have been in a mistake. In two or three days after I get there with Captain Carney, I will go to work again and then forget all this trouble."

Every precaution will be taken by Captain Carney to prevent the possibility of his prisoner committing suicide on the train en route. The entry into the city of Louisville probably will be secret in order to avoid any demonstration that might occur.

Long, Hard Chase

"I worked quietly to get Wending," said Captain Carney today, "and I'll take him back quietly. I followed him wherever he went and played his game last night. Too many drunken men inside there. They say such funny things to make me laugh and I don't like it. It is all strange business to me. They say I killed the little children down there in my town. That makes me laugh, too. The police have been in a mistake. In two or three days after I get there with Captain Carney, I will go to work again and then forget all this trouble."

MRS. MUENA DENIES ENGAGEMENT STORY

HUME, Mo., July 31.—Mrs. Cora Muena in a statement to a representative of the Associated Press here today, declared that though Joseph Wending, charged with the murder of 8-year-old Alma Kellner of Louisville, Ky., had through her own uncle at Houston, Texas, sought to become engaged to Mrs. Muena, no engagement ever had existed.

"You may depend upon it," she said, "as soon as I learned of his proposal, I left Houston very unceremoniously. I came directly to this place, where I engaged in the millinery business."

"As to any correspondence with the man, I never wrote to him. I did receive a post card from him at Yuba, Cal. In this card he urged me to write to him, but I never replied to it. Later, I turned this card over to Chief of Police Carney of Louisville, and as I understood it, it was by means of this card that the man's arrest was brought about."
