MORMONS ARE KILLED IN FIGHT WITH INDIANS

Battle with Apaches or Yaquis near colony at Pacheco, Mexico—Troops go to scene.

Number killed or wounded whites not known, but said to be at least four.

Special to The Herald

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 30.—Official reports received this afternoon from Casa Grandes, Mexico, 170 miles southwest of El Paso, saying a band of Apache Indians attacked the American Mormon colony of Pacheco, Mexico, last evening and the rodents were repelled with difficulty after a hard fight.

Twelve Indians were killed and several Mormons were killed and wounded; the exact number was not given, although said to be at least four.

The report came to the mayor of Juarez, Mexico, this afternoon in the shape of a dispatch from the mayor of Casa Grandes.

It was accompanied by a request for troops to drive the Indians out of the Blenning mountains, toward which they fled after attacking the settlers.

Trains Ordered to Stop

The mayor of Juarez forwarded the message to President Diaz and the governor of Chihuahua, and tropes and Mexican officials will be ordered out at once. A company of soldiers has already been detached from the military post at Arizotan, fifty miles from Pacheco, but it is feared that they are insufficient to cope with the Indians, who are expected to fight desperately now that they have taken the upper hand.

The band of redskins is believed to have escaped from the Santa Ana reservation in southern Arizona, where several bands of Indians, led by a chief named Apache Joe, have been from time to time to buy horses in the Yaqui country, or returned to the reservation in Arizona. No one knows how they escaped, or whether agents knew it, but they probably are on the move.

Further information will be telegraphed this evening.

Long War May Result

It is feared that this was a band of Apaches, the probabilities are the war will not end for many weeks, or until every one of the band has been slain, if they follow the president of General and others. It is not so many years since they were in trouble with the frontier that the United States and Mexico entered into an agreement promising the army of either country to pursue the savages across the border whenever a raid was perpetrated, and in this summer the Apaches were finally almost exterminated or brought to terms.

Orders have just been received at the military post at Juarez, across the river from this city, to dispatch fifty soldiers to guard the Indians.

DEATHS SAW TO BE FOUR

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 30.—A special dispatch to the Republican in Casas Grandes, Mexico, says:

"A band of Apache Indians attempted to drive away the Mexican settlement near this place late yesterday.

"The settlers gave chase and in the fight which ensued four whites were killed and several wounded.

"The Indians lost ten killed and seven injured.

"It is said that the raiders were from the San Carlos reservation in Arizona, but a message from there says no Apaches have escaped. The party is probably composed of Yipasian Apaches, who fled into Mexico many years ago, where the Indians were scattered and on the reservations. It is believed to many that the raiders were Yipas, although outside members of that tribe, now at war with the Mexican troops, and are found in the upper ranges of the Sierra Madre. No troops were needed, but a message says that a force is being turned to chase the hostile.

FIRST PRESIDENCY HAS RECEIVED NO DIRECT NEWS OF THE MASSACRE

Up to midnight the office of the first presidency of the Mormon church had received no advice of the Indian uprising mentioned in The Herald.

Several hundred families from various parts of Utah have settled in the state of Sonora and Chihuahua in northern Mexico, the first colonization being about sixteen years ago, when the polygamous provisions were removed.

In recent years the colons have been pecuniarily prosperous, and at no time have they had any serious trouble with the Mexicans, whose government has placed a large number of troops at the border and made the colonists feel safe.

Even now many families from Payson are ready to move to the border of the Mormons in Mexico, and every day ten to twenty families from the population of Utah contribute to the population of the new towns of Cano Granados, Dudley, and Pacheco. Anthony W. Travis, formerly of St. George, is now president of the Mormon colonists in Mexico.

Moses Thatcher and Aaron F. Firth, of Logan, have a large cattle ranch about ninety miles from the reported scene of hostilities.
