CALIFORNIA MAY GET JOHNSON-FLYNN BOUT

Curley Leaves Tonight for San Francisco to Negotiate With Coffroth.

VERNON ALSO A BIDDER

Offers of $100,000 Leave Nice Margin of Profits for Promoter.

Jack Curley will leave for San Francisco tonight and within ten days a definite announcement of where and when the Johnson-Flynn fight will be held, is expected. Curley has three offers of $100,000 for the fight. Jarbidge, which sent one of these offers, is apparently out of the question because it is so far from a railroad. James Coffroth's arena and the Vernon, California, arena are the other two competitors. Let no one think these offers are not bona fide, for Curley has the best of evidence that the Californians mean business.

While Curley still adheres to his statement that he prefers to manage the whole thing himself independent of the California promoters, and for that reason wants to stage the bout, adjacent to Salt Lake, he, like any other prize fight impresario, is out for the money.

It is to be feared therefore that when Curley gets to California a dispatch will come over the wires saying that owing to the fact of Nevada's attorney general threatening opposition and also owing to the big offers and smooth talking in California, the big fight will be held there.

California has strict laws against prize fighting, but the Californians always find a way of side-stepping any law that will prevent profits accruing to the citizens. That this big mill will cause a halo of prosperity to hover over the community where it is pulled off is a certainty, and for that reason it is a pity that the original intention of making Salt Lake the fight headquarters can not be adhered to. Of course it is not certain yet that this city will not be the headquarters, but in considering the odds California looks like a big favorite.

Doubtless the admission money plus the value of the moving picture rights will be more than $100,000, but there is an arena to build if the fight is held outside of California. One thing is certain, and that is Curley is going to California to negotiate with Coffroth and the Vernon management.

These big offers for the mill, which it may be repeated are beyond doubt bona fide, show that fight critics who treated the Johnson-Flynn bout as a joke had an exaggerated sense of humor. Many of the writers said it would not draw, yet here are canny Jimmy Coffroth and the Vernon veteran promoters offering $100,000 for the privilege of staging it.

The fight will draw. Patrons may expect to see Flynn whipped, but they will go just the same. Long before the big mill comes off a difference of opinion will spring up. If Johnny Coulon were to fight Jack Johnson there would be some venturesome spirits to hug to their breasts the delusions of great profits in backing the bantam.

Yes, the big mill will draw all right, but from the way it looks now, California is apt to pocket the proceeds.

Two World Champions Must Defend Titles

Johnny Coulon and Abe Attell Will Meet Challengers in Vernon Arena During Month of February

By H. M. Walker

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—Two ring battles for world's championship titles will be staged at the Vernon arena by the Pacific Athletic club during the coming month of February.

Next Saturday afternoon, February 3, Bantamweight Champion Johnny Coulon of Chicago is booked to box twenty rounds with Frankie Conley of Kenosha, Wis. The weight is named as 116 pounds at 10 o'clock in the morning.

On Washington's birthday, February 22, Abe Attell meets Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland in a twenty-round tilt at 122 pounds ringside for the featherweight crown.

As the Coulon-Conley contest is but one week away, interest naturally centers about the bantam affair for the time being. No betting has been recorded as yet, but in all probability the opening quotations will hold the Chicagoan as good as 10 to 8 favorite.

The fact that "Cherokee" Tom Jones, the man who made champions out of both Ad Wolgast and Billy Papke, is now handling Conley, and is personally conducting the training of the Kenosha knocker, is responsible for the fact that a great deal of added respect is being shown for Frankie.

It was estimated that fully 2000 persons saw Conley work out at Doyle's Vernon camp this afternoon. Frankie opened with a brisk handball engagement, shadow boxing, yanked the pulleys and then waded into his willing sparring partners, "Hobo" Dougherty, "Kid" Snyder and Jimmy Austin, for eleven rounds of earnest milling. At the finish Conley was down to 116½ pounds.

Coulon, practically a stranger to the coast critics, was given a hearty reception in the ring at Shaw's gymnasium at Venice.

Light work only was indulged in by the little champion, who explained that he still has his "Pullman props" under him.

"Monday morning will see me scooting along the ocean shore for a moderate sprint and in the afternoon I'll begin real work," said Johnny.

"I don't need much training. My fight with Forbes less than a week ago was a short one and left me in practically perfect condition. The weight is a natural one for me, so that all I have to do is to keep limbered up. I'll only train four days to defend my title this time."

Skaters Organize Circuit.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—At a meeting here today of the International Skating union a circuit for the international amateur championships was arranged. Representatives of the Canadian, western, middle states and eastern skating associations attended the meeting.

SALT LAKE HUNTERS KILL 4000 RABBITS

Four thousand rabbits were killed yesterday by 125 Salt Lakers, who went to Rosell, not far from Promontory, on the old Southern Pacific track. The nimrods had a special train which left here shortly after 7 o'clock and returned at 10:10 last night.

Farmers eager to have the rabbits destroyed and also attracted by the three-cent bounty met the hunters and took them in wagons to the best hunting places. A great circle was formed and the rabbits driven to the center, where they were destroyed.

H. L. Finch said that he saw a flock of not less than 500 save hens, but as this is the closed season the birds were unmolested.

After the farmers had delayed the hunters' return by asking them to wait until they cut the ears from the rabbits so they could collect the bounty the bunnies were thrown into the baggage car. Each hunter when he arrived in Salt Lake took as many as he wanted, but thousands were left over. The news that they were being given away soon spread among the small boys in the vicinity of the Short Line depot and until far into the night youngsters loaded down with rabbits were seen trudging to the homes of their parents, uncles and other relatives.

WILLIE RITCHIE IS VERY CLEVER BOXER

His Encounter With Harry Trendall Confirms Good Opinion Won in Match.

By International News Service.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 28.—When Willie Ritchie won the popular decision over Harry Trendall, the St. Louis lightweight, after six rounds of hard fighting here last night, the crowd saw a good mill. Ritchie proved the cleverer man and piled up a good lead with pretty left hand jabs and right crosses. He had all the better of the clean work. Trendall being more effective in the clinches than when standing off.

A crowd of 2000 fans jammed into the American Athletic club and all went away satisfied, as both boys tried hard all the time. None disputed the right of Ritchie to the decision. Ritchie was handled by Emil Thiry and Packey McFarland, his stable mate. Packey got a big hand when introduced.

The encounter was a fierce one, though there was no knockdowns. Trendall showed an inclination to close work and kept in an embrace as much as possible, but Ritchie smothered most of his short-arm blows and managed to keep him boxing enough to earn the verdict.

Trendall could not get away from Ritchie's left hand jab and whenever he became tired of taking spiteful stabs in the face, he rushed into a clinch. Once there he managed to use his right with good effect at times, but Ritchie's defense was too good for him.

When they sparred Trendall's right hand was useless. He apparently forgot he possessed such a useful punching weapon until he reached a clinch. That gave Ritchie a big advantage, as he soon learned to ignore Harry's right while feinting for openings.

Each round was practically a repetition of the others. Ritchie scored well in all the clean work and piled up a steady lead. Trendall's best round was the fifth, when he landed some hard ones to Ritchie's jaw, but the rally did not last long and Willie was soon pecking at his face again.

Another Wrestling Get-Rich-Quick Scheme Stings the Wily Promoters

Charles Olson and Al Stewart, Under Assumed Names, Take Capitalists in on "Ground Floor."

Special to The Tribune.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Jan. 28.—Another get-rich-quick wrestling scheme has gone wrong, although it was carefully planned. Joseph Cox has just confessed that his real name is Charles Olson, at one time a world champion. Al Stewart, manager for the wrestler, also admitted today that the name Slifer, which he has been using here, was assumed.

This pair came to Grand Junction a few weeks ago looking for a match. Finally they got Frank Du Cray to agree to a bout. Olson and Stewart let in a couple of Grand Junction men, convincing them by proving that Cox was really Olson, who had conquered such men as John Berg, Demetral and had even won a handicap match with Mahmout.

Du Cray's friends, of course, knew nothing of this and they bet their money freely. When the match came off Du Cray had no trouble in defeating Olson, for he is not the man he was once.

"I am Charles Olson, but not the Charles Olson I used to be," declared the defeated wrestler today.

"Malarial fever and other maladies have weakened me and last winter Demetral, for the first time in three matches, beat me at Pueblo. He wrenched the tendons in my left leg loose with a Gotch toe hold and for two weeks I was on crutches. When Du Cray began to put the pressure on with a toe hold I had to weaken—it was impossible to keep up.

"I came back to Colorado after losing to the Greek and I have been trying to recuperate. In the meantime I had heard of Du Cray and decided that I could pick up a little easy money by hiding my identity under the name of Cox. Al Stewart, my manager, used the name of Slifer.

"I was certain that Du Cray would be easy for me—but he was too much—and if it wasn't for his light weight he would be one of the very best men in the business.

"I am going to quit wrestling or boxing of any kind for a year anyway and take to some ranch, where I can rest and strengthen up again. When I get myself into condition, Charles Olson will again be a factor in the wrestling game."

JEALOUS HUSBAND DIES IN HOSPITAL

employed by H. C. Breeden, a wealthy neighbor of Mrs. Moore, well known as a polo player. In his room above the Breeden garage were found two pictures, clipped from newspapers, of Mrs. Moore, and he carried her picture in his watch.

To add to the tangle skeins of the plot, it is said that of late Moore and his wife had been seen in San Francisco cafes, dining in apparent unity.

Timothy in a statement today said:

I did not want to kill Moore. I only shot in self-defense as he advanced and continued to fire at me.

Mrs. Moore fainted when informed of her husband's death by her brother-in-law, Thomas Eastland. Reviving, she became hysterical and was hardly restrained from rushing to the hospital to see the body. Physicians cared for her during the night.

The divorce suit in which she sought freedom from Moore attracted unusual attention because the name of Rear Admiral Thomas S. Phelps, retired, was brought into the case in Moore's cross-complaint.

District Attorney Franklin Swartz of San Mateo county said tonight that since Moore's statement made it clear Moore had fired first, Timothy would probably never be convicted of murder, although such a charge would be brought against him.

It was said that Moore's friends would insist on Timothy's prosecution.
