Why The Stieff Piano Is More Durable Than Others

The first layer of veneer on the STIEFF Piano is quarter cut, though never seen. It would be easier to use the cheaper rotary cut veneer, and the purchaser would never know the difference, but the STIEFF Piano is built to last, and the best wood is necessary. The case is double veneered and varnished, inside and out, and the successive steps follow each other slowly, allowing ample time for each one to dry. There is more varnish placed on the hidden parts of the STIEFF than many makers use on the entire piano. If you appreciate durability buy the Stieff. Write us today for prices and terms.

Mrs. S. A. Collier and baby returned a few days ago from a pleasant visit with friends at Middleboro.

The Home Mission Society meets March 8th, with Mrs. Mouser.

Mrs. Harold Ramsey and children, of Pennsylvania, are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Ramsey's mother, Mrs. Stover.

Last Thursday was observed in honor of George Washington, James Russell Lowell, Longfellow and Lincoln, in the school auditorium, by the pupils of the school. Recitations, drills and reading were given, interspersed with music which was quite interesting, when the teachers take the pains to prepare our children for such an occasion. It seems strange that at least the parents do not avail themselves of the privilege of a pleasant afternoon as well as to give encouragement to the pupils, and the teacher needs it just as much.

Politics in Lee.

Jonesville, Va., Feb. 23.—The democratic county committee of Lee county met Monday to consider the question of when to nominate candidates for county offices and how the nominations would be made. After the question was fully discussed it was decided to nominate Saturday, March 25, at Jonesville. After hearing from a number of candidates and others who were present, it was decided, also, that the county committee name the candidates.

At a meeting of the republican committee at Jonesville, on February 11, there were present J. Marion Smith, chairman, W. K. Hopkins, secretary, and the following members of the committee: J. P. Stewart, Robins Chapel; P. H. Larmer, Pennington Gap; C. E. Fluany, Jonesville; E. S. Roberts, Blackwater; G. F. Smith, Ewing; C. C. McLin, Rose Hill; H. L. Tyler, Bishop's Store; J. D. Edds, Mangan's Store; G. V. Sage, Stickleysville.

The object of this meeting was to fix time and place for the nomination of county officers. The committee decided on a delegated convention and Pennington Gap as the place, and ordered the county committeemen at the several voting precincts in the county to call a mass meeting of the republicans at their respective precincts on the 15 day of March.

Wife Not Tip Top Advice.
"My wife wanted me to take our boy to the doctor to cure an ugly boil," writes D. Frankel, of Stroud, Okla. "I said put Bucklen's Arnica Salve on it." She did so, and it cured the boil in a short time." "Quickest healer of Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Corns, Bruises, Sprains and Swellings. Best Pile cure on earth. Try it. Only 25c at J. W. Kelly's Drug Store."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—The recent elimination from the Congressional Record of speeches actually delivered on the floor of the House led to an altercation between a Congressman and a newspaper man recently and to a formal investigation by order of the House. All this formality does not mean that congressmen are disposed to make the Record an accurate report of congressional proceedings. Every Representative and every Senator exercises the privilege of making such alterations as he may please in his speeches before they finally appear in the Record. This has been the practice for many years with the natural result that individual revision of remarks made in Congress often works wonderful changes from the original utterances.

In the matter of the investigation referred to two members of the House who had, in the heat of debate, indulged in somewhat severe arraignment, each of the other mutually agreed to suppress their speeches; and not a word of the incident, which had created some excitement on the floor, appeared in the Record. It was not this action involving complete alteration of the published official reports of the proceedings that prompted the investigation. That phase of the matter is too common an occurrence to excite even comment. It was the fact that a newspaper man had been "guilty of a breach of the privilege of members" in seeking an explanation of the suppression of the speeches from one of the participants in the heated debate, "on the floor of the House."

The Record will remain the organ of what Congressmen conclude, after deliberation they ought to have said, rather than what they actually said.

An increase of the membership of the House of Representatives to 433 will necessitate marked changes in the arrangement of the floor in order to accommodate the additional 42 and average the facilities of all. With each recurring census for many years it has been the practice to increase the membership of the House until now the floor space, with the exception of needed aisles, is filled with desks and seats. Now that the splendid "office building" or "annex" affords every member a commodious room for the transaction of his Congressional duties, it is urged that the desks can be removed from the floor of the House without entailing any real inconvenience. However, there are members—many of them apparently—who, while advocating the increased number, object to relinquishing their desks. As all members must be given equal comforts and facilities, it will be up to the officials and architects to discover some plan to seat the enlarged membership.

"MEMORIES"

You have heard the expression, "I would give all I possess for a picture of my child." That remark was made by some one who had neglected their opportunity and after it was too late saw their error. Don't put such things off. If you have a family or a child of whom you are very fond, have their pictures taken. Don't leave it for tomorrow, for tomorrow may never come. Do it now while there is health and strength, while the family circle is unbroken.
