Mixed Babies.

Born, about three weeks ago, a girl to Mr. and Mrs. George E. Roebuck, of Richmond, Va. George is tickled plum silly, rubbing his nose against her little nose and calling himself "daddy." At the maternity hospital all babies are tagged with name cards on their wrists. A nurse made the mistake of putting the wrong name card on George's daughter, and when he was invited in to see her he naturally looked upon the wrong baby. Cutting his eye around, he saw a baby with a stubby, Roebuckian nose. "That one looks more like me," he remarked. And sure enough it was his—tagged with the name of some one else. "I'd know that Roebuckian, dramatic nose anywhere," laughed George.

George's mother, Mrs. Mary Roebuck, of Stonega, has been visiting them for two or three weeks.—Crawford's Weekly.

Mrs. George Roebuck was formerly Miss Gladys Wolfe, of the Gap, and has many friends here who will be very much interested in Miss Roebuck's arrival.

Mrs. Masters, a very popular young lady, was Miss Anna Mae Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hobbs, of Appalachia, and a sister of Mrs. W. R. Otey, who formerly lived in the Gap. Mr. Masters is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Masters, of the Gap and after returning home from service in the United States Navy held a position in Appalachia where the romance which culminated in the marriage, was begun. He is now located in St. Paul where he is in the insurance business and where they will make their home.

Theatrical.

The uplift of an entire community through the faith and belief that "love is stronger than hate," on the part of one little girl plays an important part in "Polly of the Storm Country," in which Mildred Harris Chaplin will be seen in her second First National Exhibitors' Circuit attraction Thursday at the Amuzu Theater.

As Polly Hopkins, Mr. Chaplin portrays the role of a girl wedged between a most sordid environment and burning desire to create and instill happiness into those about her. Obstacles that come in her way are brought about through the faithlessness of a rich woman and the cruelty of the man this woman is going to marry. Polly sees her entire family taken from her by the very people she is trying to aid. Love turns to hate.

And when the rainbow encircles the clouds over the "storm country," the hate has been superseded by love and the entire settlement is reverent to the little girl that brought peace and contentment to them.—adv.
