THE DAILY Dispatch.

Saturday Morning, August 31, 1852.

LEP. 4.

Regular Fort with respect to the Great Lakes.

The Chicago Journal says that the ways of the Great Lakes have been made difficult by a number of Indians, who have been observed in the neighborhood of the Fort, and are likely to attack it in a few days. The fort is well supplied with provisions, and the officers are said to be determined to resist any attack.

THE INDIAN OF THE TEXAS PANHANDLE.

The Indians of the Texas Panhandle, who have for some time past been engaged in a war with the whites, are said to have attacked a small party of whites, killing several and taking others captive.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The Kansas Legislature has been in session for some time, and has been engaged in making laws for the regulation of the frontier. The legislature has also been called to order to consider a bill for the establishment of a university in the state.

THE AMERICAN INDIAN.

Col. John P. Coates, of the United States Army, has been appointed Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the northwest. The appointment is said to have been made in consequence of the demands of the Indians for an increase of their land, and for the establishment of a system of education for them.

THE LAW COLUMN.

The law column of the Dispatch contains a number of interesting articles on the subject of law and justice. One article discusses the case of a man who was condemned to death for murder, and who was subsequently proved to be innocent. The article concludes with a plea for the establishment of a system of capital punishment, which it is said will prevent the commission of murder.

THE RELIGIOUS COLUMN.

The religious column of the Dispatch contains a number of articles on various religious topics. One article discusses the case of a man who was convicted of witchcraft, and who was subsequently proved to be innocent. The article concludes with a plea for the establishment of a system of religious tolerance, which it is said will prevent the persecution of religious dissenters.

THE SHORTER COLUMN.

The shorter column of the Dispatch contains a number of brief articles on various topics. One article discusses the case of a man who was convicted of theft, and who was subsequently proved to be innocent. The article concludes with a plea for the establishment of a system of fair trial, which it is said will prevent the wrongful conviction of innocent persons.