

CLEVELAND MEN CONFIDENT.

They Claim Five Hundred and Fifty Votes on the First Ballot.

NEW YORK DELEGATES DISSATISFIED

With Tammany Rule and May Revolt.—The latter Telegraph for Hill.—The Virginia Delegation.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 18.—The Virginia delegation will not arrive until to-morrow evening. Their headquarters will be in the Palmer House, and the parlor there to occupy is being fitted up to-night. It is elaborately festooned with bunting with the Virginia coat of arms conspicuously displayed.

Senator Daniel is here, stopping with personal friends. He is opposed to Cleveland, and maintains that it is political suicide to nominate the ex-President. Senator Daniel says he has not had any conference with the Virginia delegation, but he believes it is composed of men who will support the best interest of the Democratic party. He is convinced that Cleveland cannot carry New York and that to nominate him is to invite defeat. He thinks the first duty of the party is to reject Cleveland and that with him out of the way the convention can meet upon a satisfactory and desirable basis, one that will place the Democrats upon common ground, where they can discuss the situation dispassionately and agree upon a winning ticket. Senator Daniel has a friendly feeling for Senator George as the nominee, but says he will not accept any candidate who can command the entire support of the Democratic party. He does not believe Cleveland can get the whole Democratic support of the country.

CLEVELAND MANAGERS CONFIDENT.

The Cleveland managers to-night express themselves as more confident than ever of the nomination of the ex-President. They believe that Cleveland will have at least 550 votes on the first ballot and that on the second ballot enough would come to him to give him the nomination.

Ex-Secretary Fairchild sits in his room at the Grand Pacific Hotel, and keeps close company with the status of the delegations. He is confident Cleveland will win. The West Virginia delegation stand ten for Cleveland to two for Hill.

TAMMANY TELEGRAMS FOR HILL.

The Tammany people in their desperation have telegraphed for Hill. Up to the present Cleveland has the call.

THE TARIFF THE CHIEF ISSUE.

There was also a unanimity of opinion that in event of Cleveland's nomination the tariff should be the sole issue of the campaign, on the ground that this would be the strongest battle cry in New York State, and would be certain to insure the ex-President's success. Regarding the announcement of Senator Carlisle that he was opposed to Cleveland because he could not carry his own State, and that a man should be nominated who is entirely free from all the antagonisms and factional fights which have given the New York Democrats an unenviable reputation, Mr. Whitney said emphatically that he did not think it would change his votes, and certainly would not affect the friends of the ex-President in the slightest degree.

Scouts will be sent out to meet the Democratic delegates from the various States as fast as they arrive, and they will be piloted to the Grand Pacific, where they will be taken in hand by the Cleveland contingent.

THE ILLINOIS DELEGATION.

A good deal of interest is manifested regarding the probable course of the delegation from Illinois. The Cleveland managers claim that they will have it solid on the first ballot, but the ex-President's friends claim that Illinois rendezvous in the Sherman House. No regular caucus has yet been held, but an informal poll of the delegation has developed the fact that only fourteen are outspoken for Cleveland, while twelve are favorable to the ex-President, and the remainder are either for Fairchild or for the fence. General Palmer, however, is unalterably opposed to the use of his name as long as Mr. Cleveland is a candidate, and it is given out that an intimation to that effect, coupled in addition with the fact that the caucus meets, the Morrison boom is generally regarded as a weakening that will scarcely survive the opening of the convention.

CONFERENCE OF CLEVELAND LEADERS.

Active campaign work was inaugurated by the Cleveland element to-day. So far the interests of the ex-President have been in the hands of ex-Secretary Fairchild and General Tracy, but these have done comparatively little so far as aggressive operations are concerned. This morning, however, ex-Postmaster Don M. Dickinson, ex-Secretary W. C. Whitney and William F. Harry, the latter leader of the Cleveland forces in the West, met at the Grand Pacific Hotel, and discussed the political fortunes of the ex-President and the word of the triumvirate will be law to the subordinate workers as well as to the rank and file. It was not until after 1 o'clock this morning that the conference adjourned. A number of the delegates were expected to give the Morrison boom a good reception. In all about seventy members have so far gone to Chicago. The Senate will be well represented there, 100. In the aggregate there will be about 125 senators and representatives at the great Democratic gathering. Some of the pilgrims wore silk badges upon which was the picture

OF FOR CHICAGO.

A Number of the Members of Congress Leave for the Scene of Conflict. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—The members began to travel out of the city to-day, bound for Chicago. The fogra commenced in real earnest this afternoon. Mr. Mitchell, of Wisconsin, and his party of some car were well provided with all things that make traveling enjoyable. The party was in great spirits, as great spirits will doubtless be in some of them and a very sociable trip may be expected. In Representative circles Mr. Smith's special there was about twenty members. The single-tax people in Chicago are going to give Mr. George a good reception. In all about seventy members have so far gone to Chicago. The Senate will be well represented there, 100. In the aggregate there will be about 125 senators and representatives at the great Democratic gathering. Some of the pilgrims wore silk badges upon which was the picture

MONTANA THE VICTOR

OF THE SUBURBAN HANDICAP.

Major Domo as Second and Lamplighter Third.—An Immense Crowd Present. The Winner's Good Time.

SHEPHERD HAY, L. I., June 18, 1892. HE great race event, the Suburban handicap, for one of the largest stakes of the year, was run to-day over the Sheepshead Bay track, distance one mile and a quarter. The weather conditions were not at all favorable, but notwithstanding the recent rains, the track was remarkably dry, owing probably to the intensity of the weather of the past several days, which left the ground in such condition as to rapidly absorb the moisture. Many of the race track frequenters predicted that the record would be tied if not broken and in this, as subsequently transpired, they were not far off. Montana, the winner, going the distance within a second of the great Salvador's time, when that famous horse covered the distance in 2:06 4/5. The event was hotly contested by the three leaders and they finished close to each other. Montana, the winner, showing under the wire only a head in the lead of Major Domo, the second horse, while the latter was but a short head in front of Lamplighter.

The weather was anything but pleasant, the sky being overcast and threatening from early dawn. Yet this did not deter the throngs, and from early in the morning without a break until the appointed time for the first race they poured in through the gates in one dense mass. They came from all points, and continued coming even until within a few minutes of the time for starting the great event. Inside the grounds there was a jammed mass of humanity that filled every nook and corner. The enormous double-decked grand-stand, reaching from the last furling pole to a distance well beyond the judges' tower, was jammed. Here thousands of spectators, dressed in magnificent toilet and decked in all the colors of the rainbow, were seated, apparently no less anxious than their male escorts to witness the great race, and they lent a charm to the scene and presented a picture such as is only seen on the occasion of some grand and important event. A thanksgiving-day football game crowd could not begin to compare with it. When the time for starting the great race approached the weather, which never ceased to threaten, was even more threatening.

The rain held off, however, much to the relief of the multitude. It was estimated that fully 30,000 people were present at the time of starting of the big event at exactly 12:30 P. M.

THEY'RE OFF. The horses got off at the fifth attempt with Major Domo leading. In the first furling Russell ran up to the Major's heels and the others were doing poorly. Loochabatcha was absolute.

Major Domo was a length in front of Russell making the turn into the back stretch. Both horses were under a pull. There was no change in the relative positions of the leaders. Half way down the home stretch Montana and Loochabatcha appeared to be nearly out of it. They were fully twenty lengths behind Major Domo and Russell. About a furling from the beginning of the upper turn Garrison drove Montana in to his place, and getting a racing line in the inner track Marcus Day's colors shot up into the bunch. An instant later, however, they were completely knocked out. Major Domo opened a gap of five lengths on the upper turn, and his backers shouted wildly. Loochabatcha broke from the bunch, followed by Lamplighter, and made play for the flying Major. Lamley glanced over his shoulder, became alarmed, and began to urge the Major a trifle. He advanced turfmen then knew that the Major had shot his bolt. When well into the home stretch Montana, with Lamplighter at his side, was catching the fast tiring Major. A furling from the finish Garrison's friends began to shout an encouraging word to a certain Shippithey knew that Domo's chances were gone, but they were mostly worried about Garrison and Lamplighter.

A dozen strides from the finish and it was Montana's race. Garrison's driving while Lamley and Loochabatcha, in the inner track, were watching the winner of the great Suburban handicap of 1892, a head in front of Major Domo.

The vast assemblage gave their lungs free play and shouted themselves hoarse in doing honor to Garrison and Montana. Major Domo lasted long enough to snatch the place from Lamplighter by a head.

Three lengths away came Post Scout, followed in the order named by his Highness, Pessara, Tournament, a Reeling in the rear. Loochabatcha, Lorillard's colt, was never better than last. The time was 2:07 3/5. Mutuals paid $17.10 straight and $18.50 for the place. Major Domo paid $18.45.

Following is the betting: Montana, 11 to 5 and 10 to 5; Major Domo, 5 to 1 and 2 to 1; Lamplighter, 15 to 1 and 6 to 1.

The race was worth $25,000, of which the winner got $18,000; the second horse $5,000 and the third $2,000. Early predictions as to the size of the crowd to be in attendance were not far out of the way. Many thousands cheered the winner, whether they had backed him or not.

Boston Beaten Once—Chicago Shut Out by Cincinnati—Other Games.

St. Louis, June 18th.

OUISVILLE took to-day's game from the Browns by good stick work. The Browns played listless and were weak at the bat. Saunders, the young college pitcher, made his first appearance with confidence, and carried off the batting honors with a home and two safe drives.

The home field, however, much to the relief of the multitude. It was estimated that fully 30,000 people were present at the time of starting of the big event at exactly 12:30 P. M.

FLED FROM THE FLOODS.

LIKE THE JOHNSTOWN DISASTER.

A City is Swept by a Mighty Torrent—A Remarkable Escape from Death—Storms in Illinois and Louisiana.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., June 18.—At about 10 o'clock last night the whistles around town started the alarm used in case of fire. In a short time the streets were filled with people rushing wildly to find the cause. They were attracted by a carriage dashed toward them. The occupant was driving for his life and crying: "The dam is broken; fly for your lives."

The crowd turned and fled, and in the distance could be heard the rushing of the mighty torrent.

FEARS FOR THE MINERS.

After the flood had subsided the greatest fear among the people was for the miners working underground, but information leads to the belief that no lives were lost. The broken dam has not been repaired, and the water is knee deep. Two people are reported missing. The lower business portion of the town was flooded and nearly all had their stocks damaged or ruined. The exact cause of the dam bursting cannot be ascertained. Miners who lived in a shanty on the line of damage done and some of the mines are flooded, which means no work at the mines until the water is pumped out.

Later information is that there is but one person missing. His name is Jacob Cross, an old man who lived in a shanty on the line of the flood. The total loss will exceed $75,000. The North Mahanoy colliery was partly washed away as was also a portion of the Schuyler colliery. No trains have passed West since 12 o'clock last night over the Lehigh Valley railroad.

GREAT DAMAGE DONE IN PORTIONS OF PENNSYLVANIA AND LOUISIANA.

RECENTLY, Pa., June 18.—Another severe storm swept the city last night. Wind and lightning did great damage, everything on the south side being prostrated and a portion of school No. 7 being blown away. People were lifted from their feet and dashed against buildings. The Saquet Silk Mill was carried away in part and two large saw-logs were blown over. A stack of the Lackawanna Woolen Mill was blown down and the roof of the button mill badly damaged. A number of houses were struck by lightning.

New Orleans, June 18.—The storm yesterday carried away forty feet of the cribbing at the Merritt crevasse.

The break at Sarpy's is now eight hundred feet wide and the Belmont break is six hundred feet wide. Superintendent Dunn will put a great force of men on the work to-day, and engineers unanimously declare that from now on the water will fall with more or less rapidity.

PHILADELPHIA, 6-4; BROOKLYN, 4-3.

CINCINNATI, 8; CHICAGO, 0.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Cincinnati won to-day's game in the fourth inning. After Anson muffed Cooney's somewhat wild throw and missed a chance to retire the side, a single, a triple and a double sent in the earned runs. While the visitors were playing their half of the fifth run stopped the game. According to the rule Cincinnati is credited with the game, although five full innings were not played. The score: P. R. H. E. Cincinnati.....0 0 0 0 0 0—2 4 2 Chicago.....2 0 0 0 0 0 0—5 4 2 Batteries: Hutchinson and Kittredge; Mullane and Murphy. Umpire, Gaffney.

EMMONS BLAINE DEAD.

Second Son of James G. Blaine Dies Suddenly in Chicago of Septicemia.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Emmons Blaine, the second son of James G. Blaine, ex-Secretary of State, died at 11:15 o'clock this morning of the McCormick cholera, 135 Rush street. He had been ill but a few hours and his death was wholly unexpected. Septicemia, which developed the last night from a bowel complaint, was the immediate cause of death. Mrs. Emmons Blaine and her son, McCormick Blaine, two years old, and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick were the only members of the family present at the bedside when Mr. Blaine passed away. Death came so swiftly that there was not time to summon the other members of the McCormick family, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McCormick who were in the house at the time. Inelegant efforts were made throughout the night to reach James G. Blaine and Mrs. Blaine by telegraph to convey the message to him. The New York and Boston representatives of the McCormick company were instructed to exert every effort to convey the information to some member of Mr. Blaine's family or to Mr. Cyrus McCormick who was not to New York some days ago, but up to now to-day the efforts had failed, nothing.

Mr. W. G. McCormick immediately assumed charge of all matters incident to the calamitous event. Representatives of the local press and the medical profession were admitted to the house a few moments after Mr. Blaine's death, and were given this statement of the attending physicians, Drs. Billins and Alport, which was as follows:

Mr. Emmons Blaine died at 11:15 o'clock of septicemia (or poisoning) due to disease of the bowels.

It was impossible to obtain fuller particulars from the medical attendants.

THROUGH AFRICA WITH STANLEY.

The Death of Captain Stairs Recalls a Brilliant Career.

News has been received of the death in the Zambesi region of Captain Stairs, the explorer, who was in command of one of the expeditions sent by the Congo Free State to Katanga. Captain Stairs went out in May, 1891, in the interests of the Anglo-Belgian Katanga Company. He had the active support of the King of the Belgians, who was anxious that his operations should be begun for the development of the Katanga region rich in auriferous copper, and including high lands capable of great development. The main object of Captain Stairs' expedition was to take actual possession of the Katanga region in the Congo basin, and the Katanga Company, two Belgian expeditions preceded him in the same region under Lieutenant Le Marinel and M. Delcommune. Captain Stairs' staff included Lieutenant Baisson, the Marquis de Bouchamps, Dr. Moineau and an English carpenter.

A great outcry was raised in England when Captain Stairs was appointed to the command of the Katanga expedition. One paper thus voiced the general sentiment: "Most unfortunate are the circumstances attaching to the occupation, in the interest of the Congo Free State, of Katanga, by Captain Stairs, presumably of the Belgian army. As a matter of fact, however, this political agent of his Majesty of Belgium is not an officer of the army, and he is not one of our infantry battalions, in which corps he is distinguished, somewhat on the lines of a non-lucrodo principle, because of the fact that his company has not yet seen its captain, with 18 men, since July 18, 1891, and he is a Mahatma-like personage to the rest of the regiment. For, with almost inconceivable fatuity, the wisecracks of Pall Mall have accredited him from regimental duty to enable him to accept service under a foreign power, the intention of which in Africa is to occupy in the case of Katanga, distinctly opposed to those of the colossal British-chartered company, which has been brought into being by the Premier of one of our principal colonies."

Captain Stairs set out from Brussels to reach Katanga by the route of Lagos and Tanganyika. At Karama the French Mission received his party with open arms and furnished them with three cacons, with which the Marquis de Bouchamps, who accompanied him, traversed Lake Tanganyika for fifty kilometers in a small boat, and returned to Karama. News was received last April that Captain Stairs had arrived on November 17, 1891, upon the shores of Louapoula, to the north of Lake Moero. On the way he suffered much from kidney and liver disease, and probably died from it.

When Mr. Stanley, on June 28, 1887, left Major Bartlett in command of the rear column with the stores and camp, and set forth with the advance column to march through the forest to Albert Nyanza, Captain Stairs accompanied Mr. Stanley as second in command of the advance column; and no officer of the expedition performed greater feats of endurance and valor, or received a larger share of praise of his successful accomplishment. Mr. Stanley, in his letter of August 31, 1889, bears testimony to the intelligence and ability of Stairs, who also seems to have had to do a good deal of the fighting with the hostile natives. On August 13, 1887, at Sir Sibba, about halfway between Fansa Falls and the Nepoko, the natives attacked the camp in a resolute and determined fashion. Their stores of poisoned arrows, they thought, gave them every advantage; and, indeed, when the camp was attacked, it was most deadly. Captain Stairs and five men were wounded by these arrows; but Captain Stairs wound, just below the heart, was from an arrow the poison of which was dry—it must have been put on some days before. After the wound was recovered, his strength, though the wound was not closed for months. One man who received a slight puncture near the wrist died from tetanus five days after.

Another received a puncture near the shoulder in the muscles of the arm, and died six hours after the infliction of the wound. Stairs also. One was wounded in the gut—a slight puncture—he died on the seventh day. There was much curiosity to know what the poison was, and, indeed, when the bodies of those who died were examined, some of the points of the arrows, made the poison by which not only men but the largest animals can be killed with terrible sufferings. Happily, Captain Stairs' life was preserved, and he was able, in about a month, to resume his active service. On December 11th, Mr. Macdonald's country, he commanded the largest force, while Mr. Jepson led another detachment, to drive away a host of enemies attempting to stop the expedition as it came back from the lake. Stairs was directed to bring up the boat and stores; and was employed in erecting Fort Bodo, of which he was left in command on June 16, 1889, when Mr. Stanley went back to the Aruwitza to look for the rear column.
