who recently shot him. Matthews suspected Smith of shooting at and robbing an aged negro who came to West Norfolk road. Smith was arrested and taken to the station. Smith, while being searched, felt the constable with a coupling pin, took his pistol from him and shot him. One ball pierced Matthews' hand, the other passed through his arm. Some days after the constable was murdered and Smith now stands accused of three heinous crimes.

A coat stained with blood, which is believed to be Wyatt's blood, was last night found in the house at Pinner's Point in which Smith formerly lived. Smith is also, it is believed, wanted in North Carolina for a grave crime, for the arrest of the perpetrator of which a reward of $200 is offered.

SOUTHERN FACTORY IN WALL STREET

Her Financial Affairs Taking a Foremost Place There.

THERE IS NO END OF RUMORS.

The Trend of Investigation and Investment is Southward and the Long Expected Era of Prosperity is Near at Hand.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—Special.—Discussing the coming position which the South is beginning to hold in New York, as illustrated by the attention given in all the New York financial papers to facts and rumors about Southern railroad and industrial affairs, the Manufacturers' Record says:

"Every day the Southern situation in one phase or another is discussed by nearly every financial paper, and around Wall Street Southern rumors are making a foremost place. There are enough facts coming out to show how the great financiers are turning their attention southward without taking account of rumors, though many of these rumors have a degree of plausibility which makes them interesting. It is known that such men as Morgan, Belmont, Scaries, Hewitt and others have become investors in Southern iron properties, giving promise that henceforth all really meritorious iron propositions from that section will receive the attention which they ever before: it is known that this great development of iron and steel interests is being matched by equal activity in cotton manufacturing, in cotton oil, in phosphate mining and in lumbering operations.

"Coming in connection with this unprecedented advance of industrial affairs is a very rapid extension of railroad lines and combinations. Short links to connect important systems, to open up mineral and timber lands, to be built in every State, while the leading systems, such as the Southern, the Seaboard, the Plant, the Mobile and Ohio, the Louisville and Nashville, and others, are strengthening their positions by important extensions, and at the same time are steadily improving their physical condition and building new and better depots.

"Of rumors there is no end. The Southern Railway is reported as seeking to gain control of the Louisville and Nashville. The Louisville and Nashville is said to be arranging for a connection in the future with the Baltimore and Ohio, the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf is evidently judging from the rapid rise in its securities, nearing a new period in its history, that it will be able to do so. The Norfolk and Western does not fall short in furnishing a supply of rumors about extensions and consolidations, and from West Virginia comes reports of a probable consolidation of all the Edinburg and Chesapeake Bay lines, with some important extensions to the Seaboard as an outcome, while Wall Street finds much to talk about in the rumors of a combination of all the leading iron companies of the South, which, if effected, would be one of the greatest industrial enterprises in the world.

"ALL LOOKING SOUTHWARD. "Scarcely less significant than the known facts are these rumors, indicating, as they do, that the South is now claiming a larger share of the attention of Wall Street, and is being more generally discussed than any other section. The travel of thought, of investigation, of investment is southward, and the long-looked-for day of activity and prosperity of which the South has long awaited indications, is near at hand. It behooves the South, therefore, while pressing with vigor for the upbuilding of its business interests and for the fullest utilization of the present propitious condition of finance and trade, to beware of all speculation and rumors.

SOME RESULTS. In the meantime definite facts are being announced daily. The Louisville and Nashville's improvements at Pensacola are at once apparent. The Seaboard is making extensive additions to facilities for the export trade at Mobile. The Southern Railway is likewise planning for a cultivation of the grain export trade at Charleston, while work is being pushed on the railroad extending to mineral fields in southwestern Virginia and eastern Tennessee, and promoters of a new line to connect the Birmingham district with deep water at Mobile are actively at work in the completion of the line. The Memphis road, bringing Memphis into close touch with the Trans-Mississippi coal fields and a rapidly developing territory, seems guaranteed by the contract between the city and the railroad for its terminals at Memphis. Little Rock, Ark. has set vigorously to work to insure the construction of the Arkansas Northern, tapping the rich mineral fields of Arkansas; and at many points in Texas connections and extensions are under construction. Creditable activity in construction is also shown in West Virginia, notably in the case of the Greenbrier River Railroad, while the work of completion of the road from Richmond, Va., to Raleigh, N. C., is hastening and other connecting links will soon unite the Seaboard, the Georgia and Alabama and the Florida Central and Pensacola roads into compact system.

Extradition With Cuba. WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The State Department has determined upon a general policy of extradition between this country and Cuba, Hawaii and other territory wholly or in part under the direction of the United States. A number of cases have lately arisen in which fugitives from justice have claimed immunity by going to Cuba or our insular possessions, on the theory that our relations with these places were in such transitory condition that the usual conditions of extradition would not apply.

OLD RUMOR REVIVED. Southern Said to Have Bought the Atlantic and Danville. NORFOLK, VA., August 10.—Special.—A report is in circulation here to-day to the effect that the Southern Railway, tired of paying heavy freightage to the Atlantic Coast Line, upon the tracks of which, over the Norfolk and Carolina railroad, it enters Norfolk, has bought the Atlantic and Danville railroad.

Quiet Along the Potomac. The Authorities on the Alert, but No Trouble Likely. ALEXANDRIA, VA., August 10.—Special.—On the surface everything appears to be quiet today, but all the main whites are wide awake and prepared for any emergency. The members of the Alexandria Light Infantry stand at their arms last night and will continue to do so until further orders.

Russian Famine Serious. WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The State Department has received a report from Consul Heman, at Odessa, Russia, stating that the failure of the crops in many of the provinces of European Russia is a much more serious affair than is generally admitted.
