NEWS OF PRINCE EDWARD AND ADJOINING COUNTIES.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY
Felden.
November 8, 1909.
Rev. Mr. King, of Hammenden-Sidon y, filled his regular appointment at Lane's Chapel Sunday afternoon and preached an able and uplifting sermon from Proverbs 15:10-11. Owing to the raw evening the congregation was not as large as usual.
Mrs. Samuel Allen, who has been on a visit of two weeks to her daughter in Roanoke and Fries, has returned home, looking as if she had a "good time."
Mrs. T. W. Diggs is visiting around Chase City.
Mr. W. C. Diggs spent several days last week in the "Free State of Lunenburg."
Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Diggs spent last Sunday at Mr. R. B. Watts.

Simplicity.
November 8, 1909.
Mr. Clifford Womack left Tuesday for Catawba Sanitarium, a health resort in Roanoke county.
Messrs. Jones & Ward, from Crewe, spent most of last week with Messrs. T. W. Jones and C. M. Redd, and killed quite a number of birds and other game.
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Redd, are loth to give them up for their stay in Farmville.
The Ladies' Aid Society of Briery, had another enjoyable quilting at Mrs. Wm. Henderson's last Wednesday.
Miss Mary Henry, teacher of Millbank school, visited her home people Saturday and Sunday.

Prospect.
The old burg is moving on the even tenor of its way, enjoying an "otium cum dignitate" to which Farmville and the rest of the earth are strangers. The flowers have faded from our gardens and lawns but the chrysanthemum is blooming out in wonted glory, and Mrs. T. Henry Glenn still grows them to perfection. Our merchants haven't been as busy as bees, but "Ed" Taylor is still king among merchants, T. Henry Glenn the veteran of the fraternity, "Bob" Carter a hustler from way back, while the N. & W. agent is a model of accuracy.
Our wood piles are ready for the snows of winter and many of us still enjoy the luxury of wide open fire places. Farmville knows no such luxury. Sorry for Farmville. Now don't throw up your electric lights to us, your sidewalks and your bath tubs.
Our farmers have been longing for a tobacco season and all of us are looking forward to the hog killing season with longing eyes and palpitating hearts. The "simmon" crop is fine and so the "wanut." Our best gardeners are getting ready for the spring planting.
We give up our pastor, Rev. Carson, with genuine sorrow. He not only preached the gospel in its purity but lived it.
Our rural route riders have enjoyed the sunny weather and smooth roads of the fall and are not afraid of the winter's mud.
Run up and see us.
Now and then.

November 10, 1909.
Mr. E. A. Moring, of Richmond, has returned after a pleasant visit to his brother, Mr. J. C. Moring and family. Miss Bettie Weaver returned home Saturday after a week's visit in Crewe.
Mr. Chas. Ellington is visiting his father-in-law, Mr. F. C. Moring and family.
Mrs. Robert Jenkins and daughter, Mrs. Robert Hill, returned home Sunday after visiting relatives in Crewe.
Mrs. Henry Jenkins spent the latter part of last week with her mother, Mrs. L. B. Redford.
There was a large crowd at Bagby Memorial Church on Sunday afternoon and as usual the pastor preached a most interesting sermon.
Mrs. Nannie Conner is visiting her mother, Mrs. Pattie Harris, of Burkeville.

November 9, '09.
Roll of honor for week ending November 5, School No. 9, Buffalo District, Mrs. Ella Neal Booker, teacher; Harry Dakes, Bernard Dakes, Allen Carwile, Henry Booker, Norman Booker, Merton Dickerson, Samuel Dickerson, Wiley Wilkinson, Frank Waddell, Stella Carwile, Louise Carwile, Vivian Worsham, Willie May Worsham, Margaret Neely, Eva Cunningham, Eva Waddell, David Waddell, Janie Dickerson, Irene Scruggs, Annie Silby, Lena Silby.
Mrs. W. T. Cunningham on the evening of 6th instant, entertained a number of young people informally, in honor of her guests, Misses Nan and Sallie Cawthorn, and Messrs. Frank and T. J. Cawthorn, of Appomattox, who were week-end guests in her hospitable home.
On Sunday last Rev. J. B. Williams preached at Spring Creek with the usual good attention and attendance, and on the Friday before Rev. Fugate assisted in an ordination service where Messrs. Edward Gilliam and Neel Carwile were made deacons, both of them succeeding their fathers in this high calling.

Miss Gertrude Broadus, an attractive and accomplished young lady of Caroline county, is teaching in the home of Mr. Ed. Carwile. Our people are glad to give her a warm welcome to our midst.
CUMBERLAND COUNTY
Stoddert.
November 8, 1909.
This section is pretty quiet since the election and every one seems satisfied with the results.
Mrs. J. C. Garnett and Mrs. Mat Stegar had a very delightful visit in Buckingham Saturday and Sunday. Miss Camilla Bedinger, of S. F. S., visited her grandparents last week.
Mr. Frank Wheeler returned Saturday after a successful operation at Memorial hospital, Richmond, much improved.
No tobacco down yet to be stripped but every one is waiting for a season.
CHARLOTTE COUNTY.
Eureka Mills.
November 9, 1909.
R. H. Roberts, who has been on trial during this term of the court, for the killing of Jim Gardner, colored, has been acquitted. In the case of J. C. Thornton, cashier of the defunct Charlotte Banking and Insurance Company, the trial of the charges against him have been postponed to December 15. Congressman Flood and W. C. Carrington are his attorneys. Court has been in session since the 3rd, and will likely be in session all of the week as the docket is a full one.
A number of the people hereabouts attended the Farmville Fair. The consensus of opinion is that the exhibits and other attractions were of a high order. The managers, people of Farmville and exhibitors deserve great credit. The lion's share of praise, however, is due the Herald for its persistent and laborious work. May another year bring even a greater and more successful Fair.

IT'S THE DAY OF THE Good Sense DRESSER

We aim to talk common sense about clothes—and to sell clothes that match the talk.
The good-sense dresser does not balk at "the style." He inclines rather to welcome any new idea in clothes-making that does not go to absurd extremes.
The good-sense dresser will enjoy a visit to our store. Some of our offerings will appeal to every ounce of good sense he possesses.
The fabrics in the clothes we sell are DEPENDABLE

and when applied to clothes the word "dependable" should not be lightly used—and is not, in this store.
