Came Near Dying. "For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lovether, clerk of the district court, Cherokee, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely. I went to sleep and did not awake for eight hours. On awakening a few hours ago I felt so gratified that the first work I do on going to the office is to write to the manufacturers of this remedy and offer them my grateful thanks and say, 'God bless you and the splendid medicine you make!'"

This remedy is for sale by Shorter & Terry, Darlington Heights. Governor Tyler has appointed N. E. Smith to be judge of the County Court of Henry, vice G. L. Dillard, resigned. Strong letters have been received by the governor indorsing Claggett B. Jones for judge of King and Queen counties, to succeed the Hon. J. G. Dew, appointed second auditor.

A Fiendish Attack. An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not sleep without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. He finally helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at White & Co.'s Drug Store.

Neatness, style, promptness. Tell us what you want in the printing world and we will submit prices as low as possible considering the quality of workmanship and materials used.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Mr. Jesse T. Davidson and Miss Laura Jeter. The ceremony is to occur at 2 o'clock in the Methodist church, Bedford City, Va., Wednesday afternoon, November 7th.

The Normalites are enjoying long walks into the country. The sweetest music ever heard in Farmville—ring of warehouse bells.

Look well to your woodpile. The snow will come by and bye. We repeat, Farmville is big enough for two of most anything.

The soldier on the monument is still on duty. Will he ever know surrender? The Y. M. C. A. Star Course ought to command general approval.

Roasting ears gone, but here come the luscious winesaps. What say our town and county people to having a permanent museum in our town?

Birds are said to be plentiful and are selling in our market at a dollar a dozen. A man who can't advertise, and won't advertise, ought to quit business.

Mrs. J. T. Wright, of Richmond, who has been visiting Mrs. W. E. Davidson, returned home last Saturday. Miss Mary S. Amos will leave today to take charge of a school at Hampton, Va. A seven months' term.

Have you observed the notice on the streets that unless vaccinated before November 1st, you will be fined? Nothing is more palatable or healthful than a draught of pure lithia from our springs after a big meal. Try it.

Mr. Angley is prompt to deliver refreshing lithia in good or bad weather. This enterprise should be appreciated and well sustained by all of Farmville. Dr. W. E. Anderson and Dr. Peter Winston left Wednesday to attend the session of the medical society at Charlottesville.

Hon. Francis R. Lassiter, candidate for Congress from this district, will address the people of Prospect Saturday, November 3rd. Miss Alice Paulett was awarded 1st premium on a caramel cake, but through mistake in copying, the word premium was omitted on the list.

Don't forget that walnuts are mighty good in the winter time when the evenings are long and the fire on the hearth shows bright and glowing. The leaves are fading, dying, but they will live again. "If a man die shall he live again?" Nature intimates as much, and Revelations clearly says so.

There is at least one married man in Farmville, busy man too, who goes home between meals. Such a man never comes down town after supper either. A check was received at the HERALD office a few days ago, from Philadelphia, which read in this way: "Pray pay," &c. New way of asking the bank to "shuck out," isn't it?

That broomcorn suggestion, which was made in the HERALD some time ago, ought to be accepted and acted on. We can grow as good an article as any other people can. The HERALD is ambitious to double its subscription list. Help us by helping us to make it more attractive. The best way to do that is to send us neighborhood news. It is a local paper you know.

Christmas noises about the streets of Farmville are commencing already. Proper consideration for the sick and nervous will be sufficient, we hope, to keep the "boys" from near the homes of such. If "Uncle Sam" could sometime look at some of the horses that are engaged in carrying the mail to and from Farmville, we verily believe the old gentleman would be made to blush with shame.

Mrs. Geo. A. Lindsay with Master George Lindsay and Miss Annie Lindsay reached Farmville on last Friday afternoon and went direct to Scottwood, their Virginia home, where Mr. Lindsay was ready to welcome them with a Virginia greeting. John Archer Womack, a Prince Edward boy, is in the Philippines, a soldier in the 6th regiment. He writes that it is the best country he ever struck. We are glad to know that at least one soldier in the far away is happy.

The weather Wednesday was of the July order. Fires in Farmville homes were allowed to die out and the inmates fled to porches and shade trees. No need, however, of bringing the "old straw" to the front, nor of putting the stoves in the cellar. We will have an ice spell yet, and a sleigh ride.

It is reported that Geo. Meador, a clerk in the store of Mrs. Emma J. Dowdy at Cumberland C. H., disappeared suddenly from his home about 11 o'clock Monday night and had not been heard from up to a late hour the following day. Considerable uneasiness was then felt for him by his friends. Meador is about 22 years of age.

We again call the attention of our police force to the reckless riding and driving on our streets. One colored boy especially needs watching. He will hurt some one soon unless he is made to show some sense. If the horse he attends to must be kept in constant training for the track it would be well to send him out into the open fields for practice.

What Think You of the Monument?

I think it a masterpiece and one of which we should all be proud. W. T. Blanton. I think it is a beauty and just what we Rebels wanted. O. T. Wicker. It suits me exactly. Walker Scott. I think it all right. W. G. Dunnington. I think it a credit to every citizen of the town and country. W. P. Richardson. I think it a beauty. J. L. Bugg. A credit to any community. W. P. Venable. The monument exceeded my expectations. I was pleased to see the private stand upon it—the bone and sinew of the army. W. G. Venable. A work of art, and a fitting tribute to the Confederate veteran. T. P. Robertson. An imperishable tribute to the glory of our Confederate heroes. J. Ashby Armistead. As a work of art and a worthy tribute to the heroes of '61-'65 I think it is unexcelled. S. H. Thompson. I think the monument entirely satisfactory to all our people. H. E. Wall. I think it a credit to our community. T. J. Davis. I am satisfied that it meets exactly what it was intended for and I am more than pleased that it is there to commemorate our noble dead as well as the noble living soldiers of Confederate fame. R. S. Paulett. I think it an excellent one and a nobler thing could not be done than erect it. R. H. Paulett. Think it the proper thing in honor of our fallen heroes. R. B. Cralle. I think it beautiful and worthy the effort. H. E. Barrow. I think it is a splendid piece of work and reflects credit on all. Geo. Richardson. I like it. P. Winston. I think it is splendid, as fine a piece of workmanship as I have seen anywhere. F. H. Davis. The monument is beautiful, far exceeds my expectations. I hope our Confederate societies will not stop in their noble work until the Confederate cemetery is properly cared for. W. E. Davidson. The monument does credit to all our people and think all are pleased. A. E. Cralle. The monument does credit to our town and to our people. Noel Bros. The Confederate monument is a grand success in beauty and skill in workmanship. Jno. R. Martin. I think it a beautiful piece of workmanship and will do credit to any community. C. H. Cunningham. Only an humble private soldier of the gallant 18th Va. Regiment and my opinion is worth but little, yet while standing in front of that beautiful monument my soul was thrilled with joy at its magnificence and the cause it represented. C. M. Walker. A fitting tribute to Confederate valor. D. L. Traylor, Jr. I think it is very handsome, an appropriate honor to the Prince Edward Confederates and worthy of the Citizens of the county who contributed to its erection. Jas. L. White. I think the monument a grand and noble piece of work done by the ladies and gentlemen of Farmville, Va. H. D. Cobb. I think the monument a splendid piece of work as well as a great honor to those that erected it. R. A. Baldwin. It is worthy of the Southern people and a tribute which will be approved by the brave men of the North. G. M. Farrar. I think it a credit to the county and town. H. C. Crute. It is a beautiful piece of work and an ornament to our town. E. J. Whitehead. It is an elegant monument and would grace any town or city in our state. Jos. E. Garland. Sentiment good, design good. We should all be proud of it. W. T. Doyne. The monument is an honor to our dead and a credit to the living. Just what we wanted. J. M. Crute. The monument is an ornament to our town and reflects honor and credit to all who have contributed to its erection. Charles Bugg. A beautiful monument and our tribute, while the most beautiful I have seen, is not equal to the patriotism it commemorates. Jno. W. Otley. An ornament to our town, a remembrance of our heroes, we love their memory and may our children's children hold them as we, in holy reverence. B. L. Anderson. In erecting this monument the Daughters of the Confederacy and veterans of Prince Edward county have paid a befitting, loving and substantial tribute to the heroes who died fighting for liberty and justice. R. L. Pentz. It is not necessary for me to say that I am proud of our little monument. I will tell you a thought that occurred to me at the unveiling. When the salute was fired and the smoke slowly disappeared over his head, and the veil fell at his feet, I looked up and saw the typical Southern soldier with his gun presented, I felt like exclaiming at the top of my voice. Look at him, see how he stands, like a stone-wall. W. A. Kearney. A honor to our town. C. E. Chappell. It was one of the nicest and best conducted affairs I have ever seen in Farmville. J. B. Farrar. I think the monument a thing of beauty. I think the monument a credit to the designer, an honor to the town and a lasting memorial to the "lost

The Confederate Monument.

The following beautiful and original lines were read by Rev. S. H. Thompson, the author, at the unveiling of the Confederate monument in this place, October 11th, 1900. As long as men, their garlands weave, Of oak or laurel spray, So long shall love, the brows enwreathe, Of those who wore the gray. Stood then lone sentinel of brooze, With musket clasped fast, And point the Present's wayward feet, To Honor's glorious past. Thy face shall catch the floods of light, From mid-day's towering sun, Nor when the dews of night shall fall, Shall yet thy task be done. The coming years shall find thee here, Fit sentinel of the men, Who fought the battles of the brave, In valley, hills and glen. Above that head shall ever wave, Unseen by careless eyes, The bonny blue with stars of gold, Caught from our Southern skies. And when the moon thy form shall bathe, In her rich rustrous light, Shall sing the poems of the brave, The angels of the night. When generations yet unborn, Upon thy face shall gaze, May thy mute eloquence portray, The record of those days. When fire, nor sword, nor battle field, Could change the dauntless heart, Of men whose forms you symbolize, Choosing the patriot's part. Like tried children, sleeping fast, In mother earth's brown breast, The heroes of the battle fields, Have laid them down to rest. Upon those graves no shadow falls, Of shame or traitor's farm, And love, with eyes bedewed with tears, Shall keep their memory warm. When duty with stern face shall call, The hearts of men to try, These heroes of the past shall teach, Virginians now to die. Their thoughts, their deeds, their lives were wrought, In a heroic mould, More precious, these, by far to us, Than mines of virgin gold. Upon the graves of those who died, Our clasps here we lay, And for the living still we weave, Our wreaths of laurel spray.

The Knitting Mill.

Farmville's first knitting mill is in full operation and we see in it promise of others to follow and a brighter business future. The building is a substantial brick structure 85 x 55 feet, located on Race street, and supplied with the latest and most approved machinery. Mr. R. M. Smith, a young man, and yet rich in experience, having had charge of the largest knitting factory in North Carolina, is the general director and is in personal command. The office is handsomely furnished, and the different compartments seem to be complete in all their details. As yet only half hose is being prepared, and in all sizes from 9 1/2 to 11 1/2. Three machines are employed in the work of completing the sock, after which they are assorted, sent to the dyers and then returned to the drying and press places to be made ready for the market. An engine in the basement furnishes the power, and the machinery moves smoothly and well right noiselessly. The premises are kept scrupulously clean, and man or boy who would spit on the floor would be ejected as a nuisance of pronounced type. The operatives will number about sixty, and the daily output about 240 dozen. This is beginning, however, and we hope to see the day when the employees will be numbered by the hundreds and the results quadrupled many times over. The engine now moving the needles from whose dexterous movements come half hose, can be made to move others and still others, and then we may hope for hose as well as half hose, and underwear of every variety. Farmville, as a manufacturing center of increasing magnitude, will add new value to every acre of land within a radius of many miles, so that country as well as town has large interest in all that concerns us on this line of new endeavor. The authors of this industrial centre are entitled to the thanks of the people of this section, and the HERALD takes great pleasure in saying, "well done."

Mr. Garden's Opinion.

GARDENVA, VA., Oct. 17th, 1900. CAPT. S. W. PAULETT: My Dear Sir:—You may know that the unveiling of the Confederate soldier in Farmville and the services connected with it was an occasion of inexpressible pleasure to me. The erection of the Confederate monument impresses me as a duty nobly done for a duty nobly won. It is a perpetual inspiration to all now living and to those to come after us. Our children's children will ask what mean those stones piled one upon another so symmetrically? and what means the man in bronze with looks defiant and with musket in his hands? and the story of self-sacrifice, patriotism and duty for the sake of principle will continue down the corridors of time gaining impulse as it rolls on and challenging in vain future ages for higher emulations or for a nobler defence of right than has fallen in our day to the lot of the soldiers of the Confederacy, where deeds of valor have astonished the world and even claimed the admiration of our enemies by our protracted struggle for States rights and constitutional liberty. It is truly gratifying at this late day to see the enthusiasm so strong for the Confederate cause, but it should not be surprising as the cause was based upon justice and truth—a principle more enduring than marble or brass, and like the rock of Gibraltar, will defy the storms of time. I have no sympathy with those men like Gen. Shaw, of the Union army, who attended the reunion of the Confederates at Atlanta and was willing to acknowledge that "both sides were right in the war between the States." Truth is made of better stuff and does not admit of any compromise. Thanking you personally for the interest you have taken in what is dear to every Confederate heart, I am Truly your fellow soldier, THOS. J. GARDEN.

Suggestion to Women Teachers.

Editor Herald:—In this age when so many women of Virginia and of other States are engaged in teaching, the question naturally arises, what is to become of them when they are old? If each one of them should regularly place in savings bank, or substantial life company, a certain portion of her earnings, the question would be satisfactorily answered. Are they doing that? If not then a teachers' union, of some kind, should be organized, and regular contributions made to that. After 50 years of age but few of them can hope for employment as teachers, and with most of them that age should be far removed from the dying hour. This period ought to be provided for. Ten dollars a month for 30 years will do it. FRIEND.

At the Fair.

To farmers, one of the most attractive things at the Fair was the Disc Plow, made by the Chattanooga Plow Co. Many people who saw it at work near the race track were highly pleased with it. CHAS. BUGG & SON are their agents at Farmville and will be pleased to show the plow to prospective purchasers. Oct. 19-17.
