

DYSPEPSIA REMEDY THAT CURES

If Mi-o-na Does Not Cure the Red Cross Pharmacy Will Return Your Money.

Among all the remedies in the Red Cross Pharmacy, the popular drug store, there are few that they are willing to sell on a guarantee to refund the money if they do not cure. Mi-o-na, the famous dyspepsia remedy, has made so many cures among their customers that Mr. Hicker says: "If this remedy does not cure you, come back to our store and we will cheerfully return your money."

Anyone who has dyspepsia, indigestion, headaches, dizzy feelings, or liver troubles, should take advantage of this chance to be made well without any risk of spending their money to no purpose. Mi-o-na will cure; will regulate the digestion; will enable anyone to eat what he wants. If it does not do all this, the medicine will not cost you a cent.

The Red Cross Pharmacy has sold hundreds of boxes of Mi-o-na in the last few weeks and has yet to receive the first complaint from any customer. Such a record is simply marvelous and speaks volumes for the merit of the remedy.

It is easy enough to fill a column with the symptoms afflicting those who have dyspepsia, but there is no need of describing their condition. What they want is a cure. And they have it in Mi-o-na.

Do not suffer a day longer with disordered digestion. If Mi-o-na cures you it costs 50c a box, and if it does not, you have the Red Cross Pharmacy's personal guarantee to return your money.

ARDSLEY'S MYSTERY.

Theory That Murderer Was a Clubman Discarded.

Irrington, N. Y., May 28.—The identity of the man who shot and killed John Heffernan near the Ardsley clubhouse on Sunday night continues to be a mystery which baffles the local authorities. After the inquest here a statement was circulated that Dr. Robert Denniston told the coroner that when he was dying Heffernan told him that he recognized the man who shot him and knew him to be one of the members of the Ardsley club. Dr. Denniston said later:

"That statement is a lie. I was with Heffernan when he was dying in the Dobbs Ferry hospital. He was conscious and perfectly rational. I asked him if he could describe his assailant, and he said: 'The man was well dressed, but he did not look like a man who was accustomed to good clothes. He did not look like a gentleman. I have not the slightest idea who he could be. I think he mistook me for one of the Ardsley club members and tackled me for the purpose of robbing me. When he told me to throw up my hands I grappled with him and he shot me.'"

FIGHT AT MINES.

One Hundred Shots Fired and a Guard Killed.

Thurmond, W. Va., May 28.—The first serious outbreak since the late strike order was issued has occurred at the Big Q mines on Laurel creek not far from here. For several days the strikers at that point have been making an effort to induce the nonunion men to join their ranks. The strikers began marching in a body toward the mines. The guards on duty, half a dozen in number, at sight of the marching body opened fire.

The strikers quickly returned the fire, but as they were yet at long range the shooting was not effective, and only one person, Marshall Brown, a guard, was killed in the battle. Several received minor injuries. Brown was shot through the stomach, the bullet being from a Winchester, and he lived but a short time. More than 100 shots were fired before the strikers retreated. More trouble is anticipated.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 28.—The volume of speculation in the cotton market was small. The overnight developments were conflicting. Liverpool at the time of the local opening was about as expected on the old crop, but higher than due on the new crop. The market here opened 2 points lower on the near months and unchanged to 4 points higher on the late positions, the greatest loss being recorded in August, which sold at 15.75 on the call. Following the call the market ruled quiet, but after declining 3 to 4 points further on the near position was about steady.

A. W. MACHIN IS ARRESTED.

Climax in the Postal Investigation— Superintendent of Free Delivery Charged With Bribery.

Washington, May 28.—A. W. Machin, superintendent of the free delivery service, who was relieved from duty some time ago, has been arrested at the instigation of the post office department charged with receiving bribes from contractors. These bribes are supposed to aggregate $20,000.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow has issued the following statement: "Mr. A. W. Machin, general superintendent free delivery system, has been arrested. He is charged with receiving bribes amounting in all to about $22,000 in connection with a contract held by Groff Bros. of Washington for a patent fastener used on street letter boxes, known as the Groff fastener. The post office department in the past ten years has used about $180,000 worth of these fasteners, and it is shown by ample evidence that for the past three years at least Mr. Machin has been receiving 40 per cent of the amounts paid to the Groffs. The transaction of the business was conducted by Diller B. Groff, who controls the patent of his brother, Samuel M., a policeman."

The arrest of Mr. Machin was the concluding act of an examination of him which was conducted for three hours by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, Inspector Fosnes, who relieved Mr. Machin as chief of the free delivery system, and Post Office Inspector Myer. At the conclusion of the examination Deputy United States Marshal Springman was called into General Bristow's office and made the arrest.

She signaled she was not under command, but did not require any assistance.

Political Crisis in Canada.

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—British Columbia is on the eve of a political crisis, presumably resulting from the investigation into the circumstances surrounding the Columbia and western land grants. It is said that D. M. Ebberts, attorney general, and W. C. Wells, commissioner of lands and works, have resigned, or are on the point of resigning. It is generally believed that dissolution and general election will follow.

King Victor's Visit to Paris. Paris, May 28.—Official arrangements have been concluded for a visit of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy to Paris on July 3 or 7. The question concerning the date is due to the uncertainty as to whether the king will go to London before coming to Paris. Elaborate festivities will be arranged here in his majesty's honor.

FOUR DEAD IN FIRE.

Fatal Blaze of Incendiary Origin in New York Flat.

New York, May 28.—Three children perished with their mother in a fire in a five story apartment house at 308 West One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, and the father and a fourth child and another tenant were seriously burned.

The fire was started by an incendiary, and the police are searching for a man who, with his hands covered with oil, was seen running from the place immediately after the fire started.

Fire Marshal Freel found stairways as far up as the third floor soaked with kerosene oil. It appeared as if the incendiary had been at work in the house for a long time before he was discovered by Johnson.

That more persons were not burned in the fire is attributed to the action of a motorman on an elevated train who saw the smoke and blew the compressed air whistle. The screeching of the whistle aroused the whole neighborhood.

Captain Martens said that the fire was believed to have been started by a tenant of the house who had been evicted. He also said there had been many brawls among the tenants in the block.

THE TAYLOR TRIAL.

Defendant's Daughter Describes the Alleged Murder.

Monticello, N. Y., May 28.—At the opening of the trial of Mrs. Taylor, charged with killing her husband, the prisoner appeared fresh and in good spirits. District Attorney Anderson continued the examination of Ida May DeKay. The door which separated the kitchen from the bedroom in the Taylor house was brought into court and Ida described minutely how her mother had stood in the doorway and deliberately fired at Taylor and how she had afterward cut up and disposed of the body.

Ex-District Attorney W. W. Smith, senior attorney for the defense, put the witness through a rigid and thorough cross examination, but was not able to confuse her or break down her story. Mrs. Taylor keeps her eyes fixed upon the girl, and no sentence spoken by her escapes her.

SWEPT BY CYCLONES.

Iowa and Missouri Towns Devastated and Many Persons Dead.

ONE STORM AFTER ANOTHER

Latest Visitation Wrecks Missouri Village of Elmo—Previous Tornado Wiped Botna, Ia., OR THE MAP.

Blanchard, Ia., May 28.—A most destructive and fatal tornado struck the town of Elmo, Mo., eight miles south of Blanchard and just across the Missouri state line. Nine persons were killed outright and five were injured, some of whom may die.

The storm came from the northeast and first struck the Wabash depot. The Masonic temple next was demolished. On the lower floor of the temple was a general merchandise store, in which were several citizens. The building was torn to pieces before any warning was received, and the victims were buried beneath the wreckage. Of the fourteen persons in the store only five escaped death, and three received injuries which in two or three cases may prove fatal. The storm passed on through the town, leaving but a few buildings standing. A relief party at once began the rescue of those in the ruins of the temple, and nine bodies were removed to an improvised morgue. Five others were taken out, and in each case serious if not fatal injuries.

The storm came on with great suddenness and almost destroyed the town before the people realized what had happened. After leaving Elmo it continued into the country in a south-west direction, and it is feared more fatalities have occurred. Several dwellings are known to have blown to pieces, but the fate of their occupants is unknown. A deluge of rain added to the misfortune of the stricken people.

Village of Botna Destroyed.

When wire communication with interior towns was opened up it became apparent that the tornado in Iowa caused far greater loss than was at first reported. A report from Botna, in Shelby county, received by way of Audubon, says that the town of Botna was completely demolished and many of the farmhouses near that place were wrecked. At Botna a large church and the Great Western depot are among the buildings known to have been wrecked. No definite news of casualties from there had been received. At Creston ten dwellings were blown off their foundations and Mrs. S. E. Troop and her daughter were injured in the wreckage of their home.

Ten miles north of Gray, Audubon county, two children are reported killed in the wreckage of a farmhouse and five others injured seriously. All were occupants of one house.

Many negroes have been summoned to Montgomery to testify before the grand jury.

MARCEL RENAULT DEAD.

Succumbs to Injuries Received in Automobile Race.

Poitiers, France, May 28.—Marcel Renault, the well-known racer and maker of automobiles, who was overturned in a deep ditch near Couhe Verac, twenty-one miles from here, during the first stage of the Paris-Madrid race started Sunday morning, died at Couhe Verac from the effect of the injuries which he sustained.

Renault never recovered full consciousness from the time Maurice Farman found him stretched out beside the track. He did not recognize his aged mother, who had been at his bedside constantly since Tuesday night. Ether and caffeine were frequently administered hypodermically to alleviate the patient's suffering. He also was given a slight draft of champagne. His head was constantly incased in ice.

Henry Jeannot, M. Renault's machinist, who is suffering from a broken shoulder, has been removed in an ambulance to his home, his mother accompanying him.

TWO OFFICERS ARRESTED.

Russian Lieutenants Intended to Kill High Personages.

Berlin, May 28.—The Lokal Anzeiger prints a dispatch from St. Petersburg announcing that the arrest of two officers of the artillery of the guard, Lieutenants Grigorief and Molostov, had caused a painful sensation in military circles. The arrests were the result of the seizure of correspondence of the most compromising, revolutionary character.

Lieutenant Grigorief told the examining judge that he had decided to shoot the procurator of the holy synod, Podjedonozzeff, the day of the burial of M. Sipiaguine, the minister of the interior, who was shot and killed in April, 1902, but when he saw the feeble old man he changed his mind.

Lieutenant Molostov also admitted he had intended to kill a high personage.

The examinations of prisoners have been conducted with rigor in order to uncover suspected plots.

LOVEMAKING LESSONS.

Novel Course in the University of Michigan.

SLY OUPID'S TRICKS TAUGHT.

Professor Trueblood, to Stimulate Interest Among Students With Spring Fever, Gives Instructions on How to Propose—Kneels Before Coeds and Pleads in Impassioned Tones For Their Hands.

The University of Michigan has added a new course to its curriculum, one that may best be styled a course in love making, says a special dispatch from Ann Arbor, Mich., to the Chicago Tribune. Professor Trueblood is the inventor of the novel scheme, and his course, which has been hitherto shunned as one of the toughest at the university, now seems likely to become the most popular study on the campus.

Ever since the spring vacation expired Professor Trueblood has been trying different methods of exciting interest in his class in order to reduce the ranks of the absentees from classes who had sprung fever. A few days ago he hit upon the successful plan, and now the many visitors who attend his classes are the spectators of thrilling love scenes. Fifty times a day Professor Trueblood is forced to kneel before some maiden and show his pupils the right way to declare their devotion to their sweethearts.

"Put more life into your plea," he says. "Why, you don't show a trace of passion."

Then the awe-inspired student watches his professor show how he used to do it, and then gets down again to rave and entreat the subject to be his alone. Each budding orator takes his place before a blushing maid, and no matter how smoothly the pair may have progressed in private the professor finds some fault with the public demonstration.

"No, kneel on both knees—now hold her hand. It impresses her more—so," and the old professor again kneels and goes through it all over again.

First steps up the bashful student who stammers, blushes and stammers while he talks.

"Please, miss," he will say, "I love you dearly. Will you marry me?" For it is ten to one that he has enjoyed himself so much laughing at his predecessors that he has failed to observe when Professor Trueblood considers the proper form.

"Oh, my," the professor breaks out, "the little you know about this business is astonishing!"

"Now, you wouldn't accept him if he couldn't do better than that, would you, Miss—?"

"Look, now. I'm tired of your not paying closer attention. Get on your knees gracefully; like this, you see."

"Reach over and grasp her hand with both of yours—both, mind—then make your proposal, but make it as a man, not as if you didn't half mean it. Raise your voice."

"Speak with passion. If your subject doesn't suit, I will give you another."

"I did think men ought to be taught to propose, but I didn't know they were all as ignorant as you seem to be."

Again the poor professor is obliged to get down on his sore knees and pour out another plea for the maiden's hand. Then, at the end of the hour, the class passes out, only to make room for more of the orators, who must be shown. Professor Trueblood thinks he has to do more than his share of the work, but in spite of that he thinks he will be well repaid if he is able to smooth the road to success for many of his pupils.

"I don't think it is fair for him to make the boys in the class do all the work," said one student. "I wish he would make the girls try it once in awhile."

Professor Trueblood addresses few remarks of correction to the girls in their parts. He says he really doesn't know the best way for them to do. They must learn by the experience he's giving them.
