Subscriptions: One year, $3; one month, 25 cts; single copy, 1 cent.
 Members of the Publishers' Press.—The latest telegraphic news from all parts of the world are received by the Daily Times up to the hour of going to press.
 Frank E. Langley, Publisher.
 Published Every Weekday Afternoon.
 Entered at the postoffice at Barre as second class matter.
THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1903.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

2,700

A Thousand A Day

more copies of the Times are printed and sold than of any competitor in Barre.

The Daily Times

is the only daily in Washington County that publishes its circulation so that all readers and advertisers may know what it is.

Do you have an advertisement in it?

Rear Admiral Cotton of the flagship Kearsarge of the American squadron, which has been visiting English ports, says the Americans were "killed with kindness." Anyway, that's better than being killed with bullets.

The new proprietors of the Lyndonville Journal do not believe in making too many promises about their newspaper, preferring to let the public note the improvements for itself. They deserve to steer the fortunes of this chameleon-like newspaper to a point of success, and the Times wishes them that good fortune.

With three Washington county men prominently before the public eye for the next governorship of Vermont the Waterbury Record expects to see this county the home of the next chief executive. Washington county has not had a governor since William P. Dillingham was elected in 1888, and many think that it is a long while between times.

A man has just been arrested in New York state charged with setting 20 forest fires. If he is guilty 20 good smart strokes with the twigs of the wilderness and an added sentence on top of that would be none too much. The setting of a forest fire by mistake is reprehensible enough, but to touch a match to the forests on twenty different occasions and by design, is worth a severe punishment.

Says the Boston Transcript: The city of Bangor in the State of Maine is giving to the world an instructive object lesson as to the failure of the prohibitory law to stop the sale of liquors in large communities.

It is a lesson from which the large cities and towns of Vermont profited some time since, and the indications are that the Maine cities and towns themselves will sooner or later profit by the lesson in their own midst.

Gov. Batchelder of New Hampshire seeks to inspire the sons and daughters of the Granite State to return on the occasion of Old Home Week, August 15 to 21, by the following appeals to the sentiment of those sons and daughters: "The Bramble pastures where, perchance, as a barefoot boy a half century ago you went for the cows at night; the old mill pond where you fished and the streams where you swam; the bench in the old schoolhouse where you sat; the site of the old orchard and the well with its old wooden bucket; the old church on the hill—quaint and of sacred memory; the old cemetery, where hearts will be saddened and tears unbidden flow; all will recall days of yore and inspire nobler thoughts." There is no doubt that to those who have enjoyed the scenes enumerated by Gov. Batchelder no further incentive will be needed. But to others those things will be like Greek to a barbarian. Yet Gov. Batchelder has painted in a few words the pictures that many a former farmer lad and farmer lassie carry almost sacredly in their minds.

Did Noah Build the Ark?
 Noah was not only a man full of faith, but very wise in his day and generation. Had Colonial Paints been in existence in those days he would no doubt have painted the ark with said paints, to make sure that it would be preserved intact and handed down to posterity as a legacy of the everlasting quality of this particular brand. Sold by C. A. Heath, Barre.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Daniel Preston, who resides near Bolton Falls, celebrated his 90th birthday anniversary Monday.

A crusade has been instituted against Burlington store keepers who keep their places of business open Sundays.

Woodstock has voted $15,000 in addition to the $20,000 previously voted for a new school house, and will erect as fine a building as there is in the State.

The board of police examiners of Burlington has organized and will hear charges against officer E. R. Coon this evening, and later will hear the same against Chief of Police Brownell at public hearings.

A nineteen-year-old boy named Murray was drowned in the Connecticut river at Bellows Falls, Sunday while bathing. Murray was riding on a log and was carried down stream beyond his depth.

Edward Longway of St. Johnsbury was placed under arrest Saturday for threatening the life and safety of his wife and other members of the family. Monday he was adjudged insane and will be taken to the Waterbury asylum as soon as the necessary papers can be made out.

The Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Crone left Newport Monday night for Boston and sailed Tuesday for England, their native country. Mr. Crone has been rector of St. Mark's mission, Newport, for seven years. The Rev. S. S. March of Salmon Falls, N. H., will succeed Mr. Crone as rector of St. Mark's church.

William A. Patrick, one of the best known and oldest residents of Rutland was found yesterday morning in the cellar of his house, unconscious. He had fallen down the cellar stairs and fractured his skull. There is little chance of his recovery. How the accident happened is not known, but he probably had an attack of dizziness.

An accident occurred Tuesday, July 7, at the portable saw mill owned by Conter Bros., East Charleston. The clothing of Fred Conter caught on a pulley which drew him around, breaking both legs and arms and tearing his clothing and injuring him severely, from the effects of which he died in a few hours. A wife and little son survive him. Mr. Conter had resided in East Charleston only a few months. The burial was at Burke, his former home.

Gen. O. O. Howard of Burlington, who has been absent for the past three weeks, has returned home. During his absence he attended the annual reunion of the Society of the Army of the Potomac in Boston, and the unveiling of the monument which was erected to the memory of Gen. Joseph Hooker. He also attended the 40th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg and gave one of the leading addresses. From there he went to Port Arthur, Tex.

A number of Rutland capitalists are interested in a corporation called the International Fuel Co. which is being formed to take over the patents covering the fuel recently invented by Capt. Henry R. Dorr, the well known writer of Rutland. The patents will embrace the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Austria, Hungary, France, Belgium, Russia, Spain and Japan, which are the chief coal producing countries of the world. By this process bituminous coal is converted into a smokeless fuel as hard as anthracite coal. This discovery is of special importance, for there are vast bituminous coal fields both in the United States and in Europe which are remote from anthracite deposits, and there is no true anthracite in Europe.

The Chinese and Stone Floors.
 In China the dining rooms are usually floored with tiles or stone slabs. This is because the household animals, dogs and cats, are allowed in the room at mealtime to receive whatever food the diners do not wish.

A Song of Summer.
 This about the summer time—just let the thunder roll:
 It's good to just be living, with the glory in your soul!
 The light is shining bright,
 And the stars are out at night,
 And the rivers are a-ripple through the valleys of delight!

This about the summer time—the green in all the trees,
 The shadows of the branches, the drowsy hum of bees,
 The cool and dreamy dells
 Where the cattle shake their bells,
 And the quiet of the twilight when the day sighs sweet farewell!

Far sweeter is the summer time than winter with its gloom,
 For not a vale or meadow but is beautiful with bloom;
 The glory of the light
 In the morning and the night
 And the singing of the mocking birds in valleys of delight!
 —Atlanta Constitution.

BENEFITS TO THE PUBLIC.

From the Recent Annual Gathering of Christian Scientists.
 If Christian Science is really of value to mankind, like all other helps it ought to be introduced and correctly understood. Its beneficial results should be manifested to the public. Nothing could be truer than Jesus' words, "A tree is known by its fruits."

The Christian Science movement is now thirty-five years old. It has been in vogue long enough to indicate its effects upon its adherents. The calm deliberation, the quiet, universal, brotherly love manifested at the second annual meetings of the denomination show what has thus far been effected and what may be expected in the future when Christian Science becomes universal.

The annual meetings of the Christian Scientists have been of great benefit to the Scientists themselves. They have had an opportunity to bring together the fruits of their past experiences and the mutual exchange of these have been truly helpful to all. It extends the acquaintanceship of the members one with the other, and enlarges and intensifies the brotherhood of the movement, but this is the smallest part of the advantages accruing therefrom. By these conventions the public is afforded an opportunity to witness a representative body of Christian Scientists, and to note the health, harmony, happiness and freedom from materiality which the Science develops.

We are living in an age when the general query is not, "What do you believe?" but "What is it accomplishing for you?" A religion, doctrine, creed or philosophy is beneficial only in proportion to its alleviating, regenerating and spiritualizing effects. Every belief which tends to improve character and conditions may be said to have some good in it. That particular teaching which renders possible the most rapid progress, morally and mentally, should be credited with being the best.

The ideal of Christian Science is perfect, namely, the perfect man. Science teaches that God is love, truth, infinite personality, who is properly termed our heavenly Father. It teaches that man in his normal, God-made condition is the image and likeness of the infinite Spirit, and that mankind must work out his salvation by having a true conception of ideal manhood and deporting himself accordingly, even to the extent that he becomes fully awake in the image and likeness of God, having "put off the old man with his deeds" and having "put on the new man which is renewed in knowledge after the image of Him that created him."—Alfred Farlow in Boston Times, July 11.

Thumb Rings in Queen Anne's Time.
 In the days of Queen Anne the feminine thumb ring was the badge of widowhood, and women tired of single blessedness were wont to don it and as "jolly widows" achieve conquests denied to them as spinsters.
