 SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1903.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

Are You In It?

The Daily Times carries considerably more advertising than any other daily in Washington county. It gets higher rates for it, too, because the Times has the largest circulation. Is your advertisement in the Times? The Times originates, the others follow, excepting only when it comes to telling circulation daily to all. The Times circulation books, press room and all else open to your inspection.

Barre and Quincy have joined hands for two days, and the results of the meetings cannot help being beneficial to each. Undoubtedly points in the granite business can be gained by each, and, at least, no harm will come from this interchange of ideas. Barre will be pleased to repay the complaint later.

We hereby designate the bald top of Rock Dunder in Lake Champlain as the only fit place for the editor of the Burlington Clipper and such ilk. There the irascible and choleric Hays may meditate to his heart's content on "My Little World, and How Admirably I Conduct It." But let the rafe fiend "vamoose" the island.

A correspondent writing to the Swanton Courier says that Vermont is now filled with "quarrelling and fighting barrooms," and that the state will not "resume her way" until the vote of February 3, 1903, is changed. It is needless to say, perhaps that the correspondent wrote that communication from Stony Mountain, Manitoba, from the top of which, presumably, a bird's-eye view of the quarrelling and fighting bar-rooms could be seen.

A negro was lynched in South Carolina on suspicion that he knew where a murderer was secreted. The offense is grave enough to warrant hanging a "nigger" in Tillman's state any time.—Randolph Herald and News.

And another Negro was lynched in Arkansas day before yesterday because it was alleged that he was "implicated" in shooting a man. Still the devilish work goes on, and the wonder is where it will end.

Another official in the postoffice department at Washington, D. C., and again the public is treated to the stokening details of misconduct, Charles Hodges, superintendent of the free delivery system, is the latest victim to his own greed, that is, the latest one to be discovered. How many others there are yet to be uncovered and their misdoings shown up to the world it is not possible to say. It is certain, however, that the end is not yet. Indeed the man just removed says that he knows personally of 20 others who have been doing as he has done and who have considered it no wrong. Such assertions lead one to think that the standard of right and wrong may easily be badly warped, in fact, warped so that that wrong may appear right. The particular charges against Hodges are that he deliberately falsified his diary and that he loaned his travelling commission. It may not be wrong for

Mr. Hedges to make an assertion that he was away on government business and in reality to be away on a private transaction and to be receiving his daily stipend for that. But the general public thinks differently and demands a thorough purging of the whole rotten mess.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Albert J. Lavine aged 62 years of Lebanon, N. H., and Mrs. Augusta White, aged 20 years, a widow with babe in arms, went to Burlington Thursday, where they were married in the city court room by Judge Hawkins. The bride's father and mother were present during the ceremony.

HAY FEVER ABOLISHED.

Relief for This Malady Discovered by Medical Science—Breathe Hyomei.

Among the important additions made to medical science in recent years, none is more notable than the positive announcement of a cure for hay fever.

While this disease is not regarded as fatal, it is certainly a most distressing malady, and if anything can be devised to cure it, a great boon will be conferred upon the human race.

Exhaustive experiments with Hyomei proves that this treatment will prevent all attacks of hay fever if used two or three weeks before the annual appearance of the disease and that it may be relied upon, if used faithfully after the disease has begun, to relieve at once and afford a speedy cure.

Rickett & Wells have sold hundreds of Hyomei outfits for the treatment of diseases of the respiratory organs under the agreement to refund the money if Hyomei did not afford relief.

In selling Hyomei for the cure of hay fever, Rickett & Wells will continue this equitable plan, and want all who are subject to this distressing malady to begin its use at once, with the understanding that if it does not give satisfaction, the purchase price is to be refunded.

Stomach dosing cannot cure hay fever. A change of climate is the only treatment that has heretofore abated an attack, and Hyomei, which is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler coming with every outfit, acts upon this principle, giving in your own home a climate like that of the White Mountains or other health resorts.

and Marble company, east of the village. The product will be sent to New York for inspection and if it proves acceptable to parties there the quarry will be worked to its full capacity at once.

While Evan Evans was travelling by automobile near St. Johnsbury recently the machine broke down a short distance beyond St. Johnsbury, and in repairing it his hands and part of his clothing were covered with gasoline. When he tried to light the gasoline jet to start up, the flame caught the gasoline on his hands and clothing and he was badly burned before he was able burned before he was able to extinguish it. Soon after the accident Mr. Evans took the machine into St. Johnsbury and sold it.

Royal F. White, of Randolph, was the victim of a peculiar accident Friday in which he came near losing his head while retaining his presence of mind. He was drawing hay into A. B. Tewksbury's barn and while he was standing on the barn floor and reaching in between the cart and the barn to pick up the scattered hay, the horses started and the hay rack caught him under the right ear, crushing his head against the partition of the barn. Fortunately, the horses stopped as suddenly as they had started, and Mr. White came out of his dangerous situation with no worse injuries than severe bruises, but he hasn't been a subject for photography since.

During the severe thunder storm of last week, the wife of Alexander Coutermarsh, who lives on the East Hill, Chelmsford, was struck by lightning while frying doughnuts and had a very narrow escape from sudden death. The bolt, it seems, struck the gable end of the house, going through into the chamber, where it tore things up generally; struck Mrs. Coutermarsh's corset steels and passed down her right leg; after which it tore a hole of two or three inches under the collar door, which was directly back of her. The lightning burned a strip about two inches wide from where it left the corset steels to the ankle. Dr. F. H. Godfrey was summoned. She had regained consciousness when he reached her, but was in a very critical condition. She is still unable to use her right limb, but in time is expected to fully recover. It was a pretty close call.

One Way to Rise.

"You don't say so?"

"I do. They're a-swingin' him to that hickory limb yonder, an' he'll git thar if the rope don't break."—Atlanta Constitution.
