Published Every Weekday Afternoon.
 Entered at the postoffice at Barre as second class matter.

FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1903.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

2,704

Are You In It?

The Daily Times carries considerably more advertising than any other daily in Washington county. It gets higher rates for it, too, because the Times has the largest circulation. Is your advertisement in the Times? The Times originates, the others follow, excepting only when it comes to telling circulation daily to all. The Times circulation books, press room and all else open to your inspection.

The golden jubilee of the Catholic diocese of Burlington appears to have been a very brilliant affair, true to its name.

A Rutland man has perfected a fuel which, on the first test, showed a decided superiority over anthracite coal in the amount consumed, the same proportion of each being used. The new fuel burned eight hours and forty minutes, while the anthracite burned four hours and fifty minutes. The Rutland man is to be congratulated in getting around the coal trust.

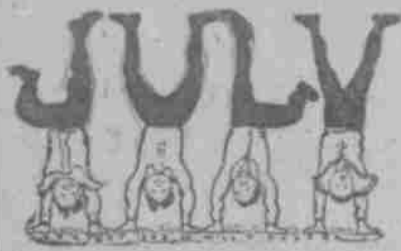

The "enclave of the wealthiest farmer in Calais" leads the Manchester, N. H., Union to do a little moralizing on how the poor condition of crops affects the "poorest farmer" in Calais, and it comes to the conclusion that the poor farmer, accustomed to adversity, takes the situation philosophically simply because he has to. The Union runs on as follows and its deductions are quite interesting. "It is likely that the crop situation is about the same in all sections of Calais, and reading of the troubles of the town's wealthiest farmer, inspires wonder as to the outlook of its poorest farmer. It is likely, however, that he will keep plugging along as usual, even if he does lose his crops, and will not worry nearly as much as his more successful townsmen did. Looking upon losses philosophically appears to be easier for the poor than for the rich; perhaps because they do not lose so much; yet the proportion of their losses is as great. Then again there is something in getting used to things and conditions—even to adversity."

The Times notes with pleasure that a decision has been reached to send a rifle team of Vermont militiamen to Seagirt, N. Y., to participate in the National Rifle competition. Whether or not the Vermont team wins will be a small matter, compared with the benefits of the competition, although, of course, it would be gratifying if the Vermont boys were able to bring back a trophy for excellence in marksmanship. But putting that out of the reckoning, the advantages with rifle men from other National Guards would be beyond question. More recently the Vermont militia has been giving considerable attention to rifle competition, and the results are noteworthy. In Company E of this city the standard of excellence in that line is high, in fact, as high as that of any company in the regiment. To be able to shoot straight is one of the prime requisites of a soldier. Without that ability troops might as well enter engagements unequipped with rifles for the pieces would be useless. As The St. Albans Messenger says: "Today the militiaman makes a serious business of soldiering and the country may perhaps reap the benefit of it all in an hour least expected. At all events under modern conditions of warfare, a soldier is not worth the room he occupies in the ranks if he cannot shoot straight."

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Thomas Rivard, of Newport, son of Xavier Rivard, disappeared from home Thursday morning, July 23, and no trace of him has yet been found. He was deemed somewhat the day before, caused by hemorrhage of the head. He is about 25 years old and unmarried.

The preliminary survey of the Bennington & North Adams electric railroad was begun yesterday at North Adams. The surveys are to be completed as soon as possible when definite steps will be taken to complete the road between here and North Adams. Several Bennington capitalists are among the incorporators.

H. W. McIntyre, of Randolph, has in his office a unique relic in the shape of a weather vane that is nearly one hundred years old. This weather vane was put on the Orange county grammar school one hundred years ago when the school was dedicated in 1800 and is in good condition today. For sentimental purposes this same relic is to be placed on the new school building at Randolph Center. The ornamental staff of the weather vane was hand-forged and at that time must have been an excellent piece of work.

Rounding out the golden autumn of married life, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell W. Williams, formerly of Rochester, are passing quiet, happy days at the home of their son, Edward C. Williams, 219 Farrington St., Wollaston, Mass., says an exchange. It is probable that Mr. and Mrs. Williams hold the record for New England of long-married couples. A few weeks ago the palm was awarded a Vermont couple who had been joined in wedlock 65 years but Mr. and Mrs. Williams can go this record four years better and if both live till April 3 of next year, they will observe the 70th anniversary of their wedding.

City of Mexico.
 When the white man first reached the City of Mexico it had 300,000 inhabitants, probably more than the entire population of the North American continent.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

What Jonah Failed to See.
 Jonah was grumbling audibly. "Yes," he remarked, "it's true I did have a little episode with a whale, but I never saw a sea serpent." Grieving that he should compare so ill with the moderns, he went on his way lamenting.—New York Tribune.

Wasted Effort.
 "Have you ever made any effort to get work?"
 "Yes, indeed," answered Meandering Mike. "I once got work for three different members of my family, but none of 'em would take it."—Washington Star.
