THREE DAYS LATER FROM THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION.

The schr Ellen and Clara, arrived at New Orleans, on the 9th, from Bryant, Santiago, which place she left on the 25th ult.

She reports that Capt Walker and about 70 Texas Rangers were met by a large force of Mexicans on the 23th, about 20 miles from Point Isabel.—They were nearly all killed.

Capt. Walker succeeded in reaching Point Isabel at 4 P. M., on the 25th, with only 3 men. He immediately applied to Capt. Thomas for 4 men, and announced his determination to proceed to General Taylor's camp, or die in the attempt—his object being to communicate full particulars of the attack to the commanding officer.

There had been no communication with Point Isabel for three days.

Capt. Walker was formerly in the Texas revenue service, and was stationed guard on Point Isabel and the camp with his rangers. He found several of the teams which had been taken by the Mexicans while going to Point Isabel.

He started from his camp on the 23th to reconnoitre and open a communication with Gen. Taylor if possible. When he had reached half way, a most overwhelming force of Mexicans appeared on him suddenly. He directed his troops, a portion of whom were raw recruits, to keep on his right, and ordered them to retire under cover of a chaparral close by, but his raw troops—panic stricken—scattered in confusion. The Mexicans advanced in such great numbers that he was obliged to retire. He was followed by the Mexicans until within a mile of Point Isabel.

He had only two of his men with him. Six others subsequently arrived. Capt. W estimates the number of Mexicans he encountered at 1,500 and he supposed that at least 50 of them fell during the fifteen minutes he engaged them. This force is supposed to be a portion of that which had, at last accounts, crossed the Rio Grande, some 20 miles above Matamoras, and which is now estimated at 3,000 men.

It was feared that the Mexicans may raise fortifications to command Brazos Santiago. The natural formation of the ground is favorable for such purposes. The men would be protected from any naval force by the natural embankments. The position could only be carried by storming.

Immediately after Gen. Ampudia gave his notice to Gen. Taylor to retire behind the Nueces was known, the Vera Cruz people expected hostilities. We have heard it reported that the British Consul saw the letter of Ampudia to Gen Taylor before it was sent, and that he approved of the same.

A RICH RETORT.—It is said of the Marquis of of Townshend, that when a young man, and engaged in battle, he saw a drummer at his side killed with a cannon ball, which shattered his brains in every direction. His eyes were at once fixed upon the ghastly object, and seemed wholly to engross his thoughts. A superior officer observing him supposed he was intimidated by the sight, and addressed him in a manner to cheer his spirits. 'O,' said the young Marquis with calmness but severity, 'I am not frightened; I am only puzzled to make out how any man with such a quantity of brains ever came to be here!'

GOOD RETORT.—The retort courteous was fully experienced by the celebrated counselor, Jack Lee, on the northern circuit. Being engaged in examining one Mary Pritchard, of Barnsley, he began with—

'Well, Mary, if I may credit what I hear, I may venture to address you by the name of Black Moll.'

'Faith, you may, master lawyer,' said she, 'for I am always called so by the blackguards.'

☞Men measure their charities by a peculiar standard. A man who has but a dollar in his pocket would give a penny for almost any purpose. If he had a hundred dollars, he might give one; carry it higher and there comes a falling off. One hundred would be considered too large a sum for him who has ten thousand, while a present of one thousand would be deemed miraculous from a man worth one hundred thousand—yet the proportion is the same throughout, and the poor man's penny, the widow's mite, is more than the rich man's high sounding and widely trumpeted benefaction.

TOUCHING EXPRESSION.—A certain lady had two children, girls, both young and nearly the same age. But the elder one by some whim or accident possessed all the mother's affection, there was none for the younger—nothing but harshness. Very lately the mother fell sick and was confined to her bed.—While lying there she heard gentle footsteps approching it.

'Is it you, my child?' said the sick woman.

'No, msam,' naively and softly said the resigned one, 'it is me!'

CONVENTION OF THE FRIENDS OF EDUCATION.

Agreeably to the directions of the Statute, a Convention of the Superintendents, Teachers, and Friends of Education of Rutland County will be held at the village of Rutland, on Wednesday, the 3d of June next, at ten o'clock, A. M.

The Town Superintendents are requested to be punctual in their attendance, as it is desirable that they should adopt uniform measures in relation to the examination of teachers and supervision of schools, by which each may have the benefit of the experience of all. It is also requested that they will endeavor to induce as many as possible of the Teachers of both sexes to attend, that the Convention may have their advice in the great work of reform, and that the main object of the law in directing such Conventions, may not be defeated by their non attendance.

As the subject of uniformity of books will also come before the Convention, a subject in which all the community have a direct and immediate interest, every friend to education in the county is invited to participate in the discussion and final decision of this important matter.

THOS. H. PALMER,
Sup. of Schools for Rutland County.
Rutland County, May 18, 1846.

☞To Editors. The law has made no provision for the expenses of these Conventions, nevertheless it is hoped that the editors of every paper circulating in Rutland County will cheerfully aid the cause of education by inserting this notice.

A curious Irishman, after overhearing part of a conversation about the 'western country,' on one of the N. Y. Ferry Boats, replied, 'Faith, and ye'll not catch me going there before I've seen the place.'

JEWELRY & WATCHES.

H. W. BENNETT,

HAVING refitted his shop, and replenished his cases, would say to his old customers as well as to those who would like to become such, he is now ready to wait upon them with the greatest pleasure, confidently believing that he can give entire satisfaction to all who will give him a fair chance. Prices will be as low as the quality of the articles will admit, and every article warranted to be every way the same as sold for.

P. S. H. W. B. would give his most sincere thanks for the liberal patronage he has received since with you, and as he has been unfortunate by fire, together with other losses he begs leave to say to those who believe him to be honest in trade, and upright in deal, that much depends upon their liberality. H. W. B. asks you not to purchase of him if you have to pay more than elsewhere, but if you can buy as cheap, he feels to ask it of the citizens of Rutland at least,) the above is hinted at from the fact that many who wish me well, do not at all times remember at when they buy of pedlars and others at the store sustain them at my expense, from the fact that I keep articles and the interest is continually running along. My business is not lucrative but might be made so if I could have the support of my townsmen and the citizens generally.

REMOVAL.

J. F. KNIGHT would inform his friends, customers and the public generally, that he has removed from his old stand into the new building, 3 doors north of the town hall, up stairs where he has a variable shop, and which contains all the necessary implements, for making men's and boys' wearing apparel with dispatch in the most fashionable style, and in a manner of durability (speaking superlatively) which cannot be surpassed, and which cannot fail not to give satisfaction, to the most skeptical and fastidious.

Prices to correspond with the times and "Times." He has just received direct from the city of New York, the Spring & Summer fashions, and is now ready and prepared to meet the calls of his numerous friends and customers. Grateful for past favors, and having long ago adopted Franklin's principle "Keep your shop and your shop will keep you," he would most respectfully solicit a continuation of the same.

Cutting for others to make, and warranted to fit—provided the aforesaid others make them properly. All kinds of produce taken in payment.

Remember 2 doors north of the Court House—up stairs—Entrance north side of D. P. Bell's Store.

J. F. K. earnestly reiterates the demand that those having unsettled accounts with him of three years' standing, and over him, (as this limit is sufficient for the most slack and lawless) must make immediate settlement, or he will be under the necessity of resorting to the remedy so wisely provided for in such cases, by our able legislators.
