

It is reported that a large brick house, being built on the Pomperaug, in Connecticut, on the bank of the Ohio river, fell down on Thursday last, and caused several persons to be killed, and severely wounded several others. The Hebronia, that went up at the time had three of the wounded on board. The water around the buildings was 10 feet deep.

PHILADELPHIA Dec 22 P.M.
AN EMBRYO BROKE LOOSE—His
Aspects—An embryo in the Z ological museum, in this city, this morning, became greatly enraged, when he attacked and nearly killed his keeper, named William K. R. He then broke loose, and in the course of his mad career, he killed several monkeys, whom he despised in a variety. There was great excitement and alarm among the people. After considerable trouble he was finally mastered and secured.

THE SMALL POX.—The Bradford Gazette of the 22d, records two more deaths from this dreadful disease, in Newbury. The students in the Seminary at that place have dispersed, and have undoubtedly carried the disease with them, and considerable alarm is felt throughout the surrounding country. Cases have occurred in Watford and Plainfield.

CHESHIRE RAILROAD.—We learn from the Keene Sentinel that this road was to have been opened to Troy, on Monday. Troy is within nine miles from Keene and eighty-two to Boston. The Sentinel says:

We understand the Road thus far has done a very handsome business in passengers and freight—much exceeding in the language of the day, all previous estimates. The stocks now selling at 80 cents.

Outrage at Yale College.—A serious affray occurred at New Haven on Thursday night, between two tutors of Yale College, and a couple of Students, Tower of Philadelphia and King of Tennessee. Tutor Goodrich (son of Professor Goodrich) and Keelson hearing a disturbance in the College yard and the Chapel bell ringing, went to enquire into it, when they encountered the two students, and Mr Goodrich was struck on the head with a club of iron, which laid him senseless and Mr Emerson was stabbed through the fleshy part of the arm, with a sword case, after which the rascals fled. A light fall of snow enabled the faculty to follow certain tracks which led to the lodgings of the young men implicated in the assault. They were arrested and held to bail in the sum of $1000. Mr Goodrich is in a very dangerous situation, though there are hopes of his recovery. Mr Emerson's wound, though painful is not dangerous, and yet he narrowly escaped instant death.

25—The letters by the Express which were seized on the person of the messenger by the American Government have been returned. This is all that could be expected. The conveyance of the letters was clearly unlawful, but no attempt was made at concealment and therefore there could have been, we suppose, no crime.

27—There has been some cases of small pox in Buffalo.

28—A counterfeit $500 treasury note has been detected going the rounds at St. Louis. It was well executed and calculated to deceive the best judges.
