The level of Lake Champlain has fallen so that passage over Sand-bar bridge is now possible. The bridge has been repaired and put in shape for the season's service. The fact does not seem to be generally known that the Legislature of 1910 took over the control of the bridge, which had formerly been in charge of the towns interested in it. The State of Vermont now keeps the bridge in condition, at the expense of the commonwealth, and toll charges have been removed, so that passage over the bridge this year is free of expense to all.

H. H. Wheeler of South Burlington has found a clipping from a Burlington newspaper advertising a stage line between Montpelier and Burlington, managed by Ebenezer C. Brackett of Randolph. The advertisement, which is dated May 15, 1829, is headed by a picture of the old-fashioned stage coach, drawn by four horses. The stage left Montpelier on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 8 o'clock and Burlington on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, at the same hour. The time of arrival in the two places was not stated, but the fare of one dollar shows that it cost but little more to make the trip those days than now.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. A. Hall has an article, together with a portrait, in the June number of the Ladies' Home Journal, published side by side with one by Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, on "My Reasons for Believing that Mothers Should Speak Out." With his customary vigor, the bishop says that "it is worse than foolish to shut one's eyes to the evils involved in our common school system of co-education," and he makes an earnest plea "against an ostrich-like ignoring of evil." The bishop, who is ill at his residence at Rock Point, is slowly recovering from an attack of bronchitis, being able to be up a portion of each day. All engagements until after Whitsunday, June 4, have been cancelled.

Miller of St. Johnsbury, secretary, met last evening at the Van Ness house to formulate plans for the meeting to-day, when nurses will be registered for the first time in this State. More than 200 applications for licenses have already been received by the board, and these will be passed upon to-day. The session will open in the parlors of the Van Ness House at ten o'clock this morning, and examinations will be conducted for those graduates of training schools, of whom it is required. These are nurses who have graduated since January first of this year. The former graduates will be given certificates upon payment of the fee.

Mark Kaley, Jr., who lives in the premises at the corner of Maple and Battery streets was given a hearing in city court Friday before Judge Palmer, and was held for county court on a charge of keeping on hand intoxicating liquor with intent to sell. He was placed in jail in default of bail. Police Officers Berry, Brodie and Crowly raided Kaley's place about 2:30 Tuesday morning and secured a bottle of whiskey with a quantity of beer. They testified to the finding Friday in court and said they had seen people enter what they supposed was the entrance of Kaley's apartments late in the night. When they raided the place they found four men, in addition to Kaley, in the kitchen and part of a glass of beer was standing on the table. City Attorney Moulton prosecuted and Fred R. Campbell appeared for the defendant.

Milk Inspector H. L. Thomson calls attention to the fact that applications for milk licenses are now ready at the State Laboratory of Hygiene and may be obtained at any time before June 1. The applicant, in filling out the form, must specify whether a wholesale or retail business is to be conducted, the location of the dairy and the date of the last tuberculin test. An application fee of $5 is required with the retail application, the fee being returned when the license is granted. Among the changes that have been made in the city ordinances relating to milk dealers is one requiring that all cows shall be tuberculin tested once in two years. Heretofore this ordinance has not been so constructed that it could be enforced but the revision will remedy this defect. Inspector Thomson now has application blanks for the benefit of those who wish to have cattle tested. These blanks may be obtained at the State laboratory and when filled out will be sent to Cattle Commissioner Davis at White River Junction.

Edward D. Riley, a second year student in the University of Vermont College of Medicine, who met with an accident Monday, just after the disbanding of the college "pecrade," has been found to be more severely injured than was at first supposed. Mr. Riley was the charioteer for "Julius Caesar," and drove the four-horse team that bore the great conqueror of 2,000 years ago. After the parade he was driving up Pearl street at a brisk trot when one of the pole horses fell. Mr. Riley was thrown out, and in the fall his right elbow struck the ground with much force. He did not believe himself injured, and after assisting in getting the horse upon its feet again, he drove on up the street. In the afternoon he attended the base ball game, and while there he found his arm was so badly swollen and so painful that he left before the game was over. Upon examination it was found that the ligaments were severely injured and one bone of the forearm had been broken near the elbow joint. He will probably not have the use of his arm for several weeks, but it is hoped that no permanent disablement will result.

Years of Suffering

Catarrh and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrh."

THE BURLINGTON MARKETS.

The market remains about the same this week. New fruit is slow in coming in. Pineapples are not quite as high as last week, and strawberries also are gradually going down. Now cabbage has appeared, selling for six cents per pound. In retail grains there is no change. Lake pike are selling for 12½ cents per pound and lamb chops have risen to 30 cents per pound.

CHANGE OF MANAGERS.

D. L. Baker Succeeds W. A. Graystone as Head of Woolworth Store.

William A. Graystone, who has been manager of F. W. Woolworth & Co.'s Five and Ten-Cent store in this city for the past seven years, left Burlington last night. He went to Holyoke, Mass., where he assumes charge this morning of the Woolworth store in that city. His family will remain in Burlington through the summer, probably, and at least until August.

Mr. Graystone is 33 years of age. He received his preparation for the business in Utica, N. Y., and the local store was the first one of which he has had charge. Under his management the business here has been more than doubled in amount. He was married on August 10, 1905, to Miss Mary Quinn, daughter of Mrs. Winifred Quinn of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Graystone have three children, Winifred, Helen and Ruth.

In Holyoke Mr. Graystone will be the successor of W. M. Syme, who has been promoted to have charge of a Woolworth store in Pittsburg. The Holyoke business is fully twice as large as the one done in Burlington.

Upon his departure, Mr. Graystone was presented with a handsome fob, the gift of the employes of the store. It consists of an elk's tooth, handsomely mounted with the device of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Mr. Graystone expressed his appreciation of his employes by a modest gift to each one in the store.

D. L. Baker, who succeeds Mr. Graystone as manager of the local store, arrived in Burlington yesterday morning, and spent the day in making himself familiar with the details of the business. He takes charge of the store this morning. Mr. Baker is a native of Pennsylvania, and is not married. He was a buyer for a department store in Pennsylvania before he entered the employ of F. W. Woolworth & Co. He learned their business in the store at 450 Washington street, Boston. He was then given charge of the Woolworth store in South Boston. Later he was made manager of the company's store in Taunton, Mass., and from there he assumed charge of their store in Lynn, Mass., which he leaves to become manager of the Burlington store. Although Lynn is a larger city than Burlington, the change is in effect a promotion for Mr. Baker, inasmuch as the business done here is greater in amount. Mr. Baker is a man of wide experience and unusually pleasing personality, and he begins his management here with the best wishes of all.

PUBLIC SERVICE FINDINGS.

State Commission Convinced That Some One Lies in Lynch Case.

The public service commission has issued orders for the elimination of grade crossings at Brighton, Sheldon, Sharon and Charlotte.

In the matter of the fatal accident to E. W. Sheele and Michael Malone near Fair Haven on December 3, when a westbound freight train collided with another westbound freight, the commission says that the engineer of No. 31 was negligent in not keeping a proper look-out for the flagman. The commission also suggests that there should be a passing track at that station.

The commission says in regard to the fatal accident to Daniel Fitzsimmons at Fair Haven on January 20 that while holding a wire alive through the transformer his other hand came in contact with the feeder wire, forming a current through his body to the transformer and line.

In the derailment of the Barre & Montpelier Traction & Power company's car at Barre February 27, the commission is unable to find or fix upon the real cause of the accident.

In regard to the fatal accident to M. J. Lynch at West Hartford on December 15, the commissioners are embarrassed about the conflicting testimony between the engineer and brakeman. They state "We have an opinion as to the real truth of the matter; * * * one of them lies, we are well satisfied of that, but we do not feel that confidence about that matter that warrants us in finding which is the liar."

The commission also finds that neither the conductor nor Mr. Lynch was at all to blame. "Mr. Lynch, we think, was in the line of his duty; for he would naturally want to see to it that the brake beam was adjusted so as not to drag and damage the roadbed; and probably that was precisely what he was doing. If we knew, or felt well enough convinced to announce whether it is the engineer or the brakeman who is lying as to what the brakeman said, the blame could be easily fixed. As it is, we leave the matter on the above findings without further comment."

OBITUARY

Cyrus G. Pringle.

Dr. Cyrus G. Pringle died between three and four o'clock this morning after a week's illness with pneumonia, aged 73 years. He leaves a brother, George E. Pringle of Charlotte, and a daughter in New York city. The time and place of the funeral have not yet been decided upon. A week ago Sunday Dr. Pringle walked nine miles in Windsor to visit a friend, making the return trip partly on foot but mostly by carriage, and it is thought that from this exertion his illness dated. A year ago last winter he fell upon the ice at Mallett's Bay, where he had gone to visit a man who did collecting for him, since when he had been in poor health, suffering much from rheumatism. About a month ago, however, he considerably improved in health and announced to his friends that he had concluded his collecting in Mexico and would this summer begin work in South America.

Cyrus Guernsey Pdingle was born in Charlotte May 6, 1838, the son of George and Louise Harris Pringle. He received a classical education in the various schools of the State and in Canada, and was given the honorary degree of A. M. by Middlebury College and the degree of Sc. D. by the University of Vermont in 1906. From 1881 until 1884 he collected extensively in forestry and botany in Arizona, Sonora, California, Oregon and Washington as collector for the American Museum of Natural History of New York. Since 1885 he has been botanical collector for Harvard University and keeper of the herbarium at the University of Vermont. His thorough exploration of the flora of old Mexico has resulted in the placing of large collections, about one in five of the plants being new species, in 50 or more of the most important herbaria of the entire world. His work gained him much fame and he was recognized as a scientist of the first rank. From 1888 to 1894 he contributed to Garden and Forest articles on the forest vegetation of Mexico and on botanical travel in Mexico. In personality he was shy and modest, and unobtrusive in manner. The herbarium and his own rooms in the top of the Williams Science hall were a delightful place to visit, pervaded as they were by his genial, when you knew him well, and truly charming personality. He was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and of the New England Botanical club.
