The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending last Saturday was copies, the largest circulation of any daily paper in Vermont outside of Burlington.

6,150

Turkey wants peace and the Balkans want the pieces.

There was lots of early voting in Barre but not the often kind.

By unanimous vote, Harvard elects "Charlie" Brickley president.

These are rare days for November, and just the time to prepare for the raw ones.

At last reports, the People's Gas company stands outside the merger fold—a solitary figure.

Wilson started receiving the knocks coming to him when his head flew up and hit the top of his limousine.

According to all precedent, the hat trade ought to boom for a day or two, or until all the election bets are paid.

The warnings against election fraud and offers of reward for detection of the same in other states leads Vermont to wonder if she is old-fashioned enough to be honest in her election.

Manifestly, President Taft was led into the wrong pew, when he was taken, Sunday, to a New York church, where the preacher gave a Progressive-leaning sermon. But doubtless the president appreciated the joke as much as anyone.

The fact that Vermont had to go to the polls to-day just to elect four presidential electors again raises the question whether it would not be better to combine our state and national elections, as most other states of the union do. Then, too, there would be the great saving of expense which an extra election necessitates; which makes quite an item in favor of the combined elections. Think it over, Vermonters.

SOMETHING BESIDES AGRICULTURE IN VERMONT.

Honors in mineral production are becoming so much a matter of course with Vermont that the announcement that Vermont led the nation in granite production during 1911 does not cause a great deal of comment here. Yet some people continue to call Vermont an "agricultural" state. We are proud of our agriculture, but we would like the world to know that Vermont is not a one-industry state, that the chances for success are as diversified as in any state of the union. The man with energy and a fair amount of capital can find a great many industries in which to make good. Let them come to Vermont and see for themselves.

REP. UTTER'S DEATH.

The death of Congressman George H. Utter of Rhode Island removes a capable official and a man of considerable prominence in his home state. In politics Mr. Utter had passed through the various stages of advancement from representative and senator in the state legislature to secretary of state, lieutenant-governor and governor, serving two terms in the last-named capacity before being elected to Congress. Besides this activity, he was engaged in the printing and publishing business, being proprietor of the Westerly Sun, in his home place, and was foremost in other activities. Therefore, his death takes away one of the state's leading men. In addition it caused a pre-election complication somewhat similar to that occasioned by the death of Vice-President Sherman on the eve of the national election, as Mr. Utter was a candidate for re-election. In his case, however, the state Republican committee immediately selected Zenas W. Bliss, a former lieutenant-governor, as a candidate for the position of repre-representative, and the election went on today as if Mr. Bliss had been the original choice of the Republicans of his district, albeit the voters must have been hard put to it to adjust themselves to the new situation. But this prompt action on the part of the state committee was necessary, else the election would have gone to the Democrats by default.

CURRENT COMMENT

A New Nation?

In the event of the fall of Constantinople and the complete overthrow of Turkish power in Europe it seems inevitable that some sort of closer political union should result among the Balkan states. They are allies in the war upon a common enemy. They are making tremendous sacrifices for a common cause. Racial animosities and national cauries have for a time, at least, been lost in the common desire of revenge.

Whether, after the rout of the Turk, these national jealousies will prevent the formation of a United States of the Balkans is matter for speculation only. Racially, the problem will be difficult. Geographically, however, it would be simple. For such a federation would have as basis a compact territory. If it comprised only Bulgaria, Serbia and Montenegro, its area would be about 600,000 square miles—or rather more than that of Illinois—and its population approximately 8,000,000, or about that of Pennsylvania. This does not include, of course, the European provinces of Turkey, with a population of about 6,000,000, which might be incorporated in a Balkan federation. Nor does it include the kingdom of Roumania, the largest and most populous of all the Balkan states, which has, however, taken no part in the present struggle. What will be the fate of Macedonia—whose soil is soaked with both Christian and Mamometan blood—and of Albania cannot even be conjectured.

The house and tables were prettily decorated for the occasion with black cats, bats and other Halloween fancies, while pumpkin lanterns decorated the porch. After supper, all enjoyed a social hour, with music interspersed, which added much to the pleasure of the evening.

VERMONT LEADS COUNTRY IN GRANITE PRODUCTION

And the Green Mountain State Was One of Six States to Show an Increase Last Year.

The granite produced in the United States in 1911 has a value of $21,301,878, an increase of $849,911 over the value for 1910. Fourteen states, according to the United States geological survey, produced granite valued at more than $100,000, in the following order: Vermont, Massachusetts, Maine, California, Wisconsin, Washington, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Georgia, Maryland, Minnesota, North Carolina, Oregon, and Connecticut. Of these states the first seven produced granite valued at more than $1,000,000, and six of the fourteen—Vermont, Massachusetts, California, Washington, Rhode Island, and Connecticut—showed an increase in value of output.

There was an increase of 1,029,704 paving blocks in 1911 over the output of 1910, when the production was 57,089,399, and an increase of $36,059 in value over the value of the 1910 output, which was $2,823,772. A large proportion of the output of Wisconsin, the largest proportion of the output of Wisconsin, the largest producer of these blocks, goes to Chicago; the blocks for New York and other large eastern cities are supplied by Massachusetts, Maine, New York, North Carolina, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Georgia, and other granite quarrying states near the Atlantic seaboard; and the demand on the Pacific coast is met by the local quarries.

The Taboo on Moderate Drinking.

The use of alcohol is receiving some hard knocks these days. A prominent railway system, not content with the general rule heretofore in force on railways forbidding employees to drink while on duty, now forbids employees to indulge at all in drinking out of employment hours, or in any other conduct which will impair their health or make them less alert and less capable while on duty. The owner of one of the nation's pets—a prominent baseball team—announces that moderation in drinking is not sufficient; the players on his team must leave alcohol entirely alone and abandon cigarettes. The justification for such rules may be found not only in the difficulty of being moderate in indulgence, but also in the cumulative and after-effects of dissipation. The world is moving; the old fetish of "personal liberty" at whatever cost of danger to the public at large seems to be losing its power. The Journal of the American Medical Association thinks man to whom the life and safety of others are entrusted to be as abstemious as ball players and railway employees.

Those Dizzy Feelings.

By Dr. True

People often come to me complaining of giddiness and nausea. If they look down, or up, or change position suddenly, they have a whirling, topsy-turvy feeling that is very distressing. They are in a truly wretched condition—unfit for business or pleasure—half sick and feeling just as bad as if wholly so.

Now, I find nine times in ten that such people have been careless about eating, and haven't kept their bowels in good order. People don't always know it, but really most sickness comes from neglect of stomach and bowels. This fact I have learned in a long and laborious practice. I urge you, then, if you feel dizzy, nervous, depressed, see spots before your eyes or have bad breath, to begin taking my Elixir. It may be had of almost any dealer—at a very moderate cost. This is a pleasant remedy to take and is very effective. It will certainly remove the poisons from your system, restore your appetite, cause your food to digest properly and your bowels to act as nature meant they should. Also expel stomach worms and pin worms if any be present. Go, then, to the nearest dealer and ask for Dr. True's Elixir. I am sure that you will not be disappointed in the good it will do you.

"SEE THAT BALD HEADED YOUNG MAN"

"I know he is only 38," said one young lady to another at a social function, "but he looks like 60."

"Better say he looks like 60," replied the other.

Young men who use PARISIAN Sage never grow bald, because the hair root is supplied with plenty of nature's own nourishment, which means at all times an abundance of healthy hair.
