SATURDAY, JANUARY 4, 1913.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending last Saturday was copies, the largest circulation of any daily paper in Vermont outside of Burlington.

William Rockefeller's home evidently is his castle.

It took Senator Bailey four hours to say "Au revoir".

Good-bye, Mr. Castro, we're glad to see you go.—U. S. refrain.

Coffee doesn't seem to harm Governor Foss. He took his third cup successively last Thursday.

Little sister Canada is to join Great Britain in her Panama canal protest; else, what is the use of having a little sister.

We wish for the Vermont legislature which reconvenes next Monday night, a vigorous New Year. The whole state wishes it.

We now know why John D. Rockefeller advised those women teachers to save their pennies; it will cost more next summer to buy gasoline for their automobiles.

Threatened with death in three months, Foreman Dare of the dynamite jury is forced to take one. The sender of the threat is not a real friend of union labor.

United States Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas was smart but peculiar—but then, perhaps Davis, like the Quaker, thought the remainder of the world was peculiar, while he himself was not.

The Williamstown branch train has a peculiar faculty of falling the right way when it has to leave the iron. If it should happen to fall downhill some day there would be a terrible story to tell.

Gov. Haines' chief point in his first inaugural address was first aid to the agricultural development of Maine; and it was well taken. Therein Gov. Haines showed that he had caught the spirit of recent times.

The four Bridgeport, Conn., newspapers simultaneously raised their selling price from one to two cents each, one of them declaring that the cost of the white paper alone is greater than the price paid by the newspaper dealers and, therefore, the newspaper owners could not afford to sell for one cent each.

Such a little, little thing as a typographical error caused the St. Johnsbury Caledonian to assert that Senator Dillingham's friends did not expect him to be a candidate for the position after the expiration of his present term.

It is a noteworthy fact that while the late Oscar G. Barron gained his distinction as a hotel keeper by his pioneer activity in the White mountains of New Hampshire he nevertheless was a Vermontor and gained his first hotel experience at White River Junction, not far from his native village, Quechee.

Vermont history was repeated in the New Hampshire legislature Thursday night, only a Democrat was elected governor instead of a Republican.

THE VERMONT WINTER THUS FAR. Forecaster Shaw of the United States weather bureau at Northfield furnishes us some interesting statistics concerning the weather of the month of December, in that the average temperature for the month was six degrees higher than the normal temperature, the lowest temperature was just zero, the highest was 61 and that the month maintained a remarkably even temperature barring the swift change from the warmest day on the sixth to the coldest day on the ninth.

An object of interest now is our Overcoat Department.

This store is not controlled by any manufacturer. We see all the best clothing and buy the best values.

Some manufacturers spend fortunes every year in magazine advertising and every man who buys one of their garments is paying something on the advertising expense.

Here are Overcoats from $10 to $40, made by manufacturers who put the full money's worth into the coat.

this time could do so without suffering discomfort from the rigor of the traditional Vermont winter, for we really haven't had any winter as yet. However, there are three months to be reckoned with, and the story which Forecaster Shaw shall furnish us at the close of each of the months of January, February and March is likely to re-establish one's faith that the old-fashioned winter is not a thing of the past although perhaps somewhat delayed in arrival.

CURRENT COMMENT

A Political Correction.

A typographical error last week made The Caledonian say just what it did not intend to say in the editorial headed "Political Talk." The editorial as printed said "Sen. Dillingham's closest friends understood he is not to be a candidate for re-election."

JINGLES AND JESTS

An Equal Chance.

"A Chicago man is discouraged because his name is Sassage and he has asked the legislature to change it."

The 1913 Model.

"What's the trouble?" "There's a tramp at the door with a rickety automobile. Wants to know if we can give him an old set of tires."

MANY RESPONDENTS SENTENCED.

By Judge Waterman in Caledonia County Court.

St. Johnsbury, Jan. 4.—Pending a trial by jury the county court was occupied a greater part of Thursday in disposing of criminal matters.

Two boys about the ages of nineteen and twenty years, John Brown of Ryegate and Albert Colby of Lyndon, were informed against by the state's attorney for having broken into the store of Frank Brown of Ryegate and taken some articles. It appeared that the boys broke in to secure some mileage to get on to another place. They were sentenced to a term in state's prison for not less than one nor more than two years.

Antoine Sullivan, William Druce and Joseph Jennings were arraigned on the charge of having burglarized the cigar store of Robert Cobb and the drug store of Flint brothers of St. Johnsbury last November. It appeared that Druce had already served a prison sentence in Connecticut. He is twenty-four years of age, Sullivan is twenty-one and Jennings seventeen. Although these parties were known to be somewhat under the influence of liquor at that time, the plan had a semblance of well-worked out design and that the end sought was money. A few pipes were taken from Cobb's when it was found that there was no money and comparatively little damage done. The Flint Brothers break was not completed, the parties having been scared away.

The respondents were arrested at Fairbanks village next morning and have been in jail awaiting hearing. James B. Campbell appeared for the respondents. They pleaded guilty and were sentenced to a term in state's prison for not less than two nor more than three years. These fellows came to St. Johnsbury from New Britain, Connecticut, last July.

George L. Granger of St. Johnsbury was arraigned on the charge of statutory rape. The object of his crime was his wife's daughter, a young girl fifteen years of age. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to state prison for a term of not less than four years nor more than five years. Granger is forty years of age.

George Woodman of St. Johnsbury Center was arraigned on the charge of stealing scrap brass from the Fairbanks company. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars.

May Irons, who was arrested at the Montpelier house in Montpelier, three weeks ago on the charge of grand larceny, having stolen wearing apparel from Lorna Weston of Lyndon, was sentenced to state prison for a term of not less than nine months nor more than one year. It was learned that she has children in Massachusetts. Judge Waterman suggested the hope that she will return to her children at the close of this sentence.

In speaking of the other state matters Judge Waterman said that there was a large number of young men charged with burglary and larceny and that he hoped that their sentences would not be too long but sufficient to correct their ways, that they would finally profit by it.

WEBSTERVILLE.

Annual Banquet of Donside Club Was Held New Year's Eve.

The sixth annual supper and ball under the auspices of the Donside club, was held in Miles' hall on Dec. 31, when the members, with their wives, families and friends, met to the number of 230. The president, John Donald, set the ball a-rolling with a few fitting remarks, in which he explained the origin and purposes of the club. The dancing was then started with the grand march and Scotch reel, to the stirring strains of the bagpipes, played by Forbes Christie. At intervals, during the evening, the company were entertained with songs and recitation, including "Scotland Yet," by Mr. McLeod of Barre, while George Moir of Granville gave a good rendering of the "Bonnie Blue Lasse frae Gourock" and others of Harry Lauder's famous songs. Thomas Brew and Alex. Imlack also gave a good account of themselves with songs and recitation. At midnight the entire company sang "Auld New Year tae Ans and a'" after which supper was served. The feeling of "On with the Dance, Let Joy be Unconfined," seemed to pervade the whole company until 4 o'clock in the morning, when everyone went home tired but happy. The committee in charge were: Music, Ernest Bell and James Wood; provisions, James Lawson and John Adams; door, Sam McCreadie and Andrew Thompson; floor, James Degan and George Moir; refreshments, Wm. Laird, George Roy and John McPherson.

SOUTH CABOT.

Will Durkee of Barre is stopping at Eugene Putnam's for a time. L. J. Eastman was in North Danville Monday and Tuesday.

Byron Eastman had the misfortune to cut his foot Monday while spitting wood.

W. J. Houghton and family spent Christmas in Peacham.

William Tibbetts and family and Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Lamberton, with Mr. and Mrs. John Tibbetts, spent Christmas at Don Tibbetts' in Marshfield.

Mr. and Mrs. James Needham of Peacham were at Will Houghton's on New Year's day.

A number from here attended the New Year's ball at Marshfield and reported a fine time.

Mrs. C. E. Scribner and Mrs. W. O. Southwick's brother at Heaton hospital Thursday. Her brother is very low. The school here is closed for the usual holiday vacation.

Why the Lingerie Dresses Did Not Sell.

The following story is taken from an article in the January Woman's Home Companion entitled "Behind the Scenes at the Bargain Sale." "An official in one of Chicago's biggest stores, high up in the councils of his firm, conceived the idea one day of eliminating all reference to comparative values in the ensuing week's advertising of stores.
