WIFE STANDS NEAR BODY

Of Husband Whom She Had Shot Dead with Pistol

HENRY H. FOLSOM, LAWYER, THE VICTIM

"Because I Loved Him," the Police Declare the Woman Told Them Was Reason

Exeter, N. H., June 22.—Henry H. Folsom, a Boston lawyer, was found dead with a bullet in his head on the road between here and Newmarket Saturday. His wife was standing over the body with a revolver in her hand, according to the police. She was arrested and the police say she admitted she fired the shot that killed him.

"I did it because I loved him," she is alleged to have told the police, who also say that she declared she was jealous of him.

The Folsoms have a summer home at Newmarket, eight miles from here. Mrs. Folsom has been there several weeks. She came to Exeter Saturday and met her husband, who arrived on a late afternoon train from Boston. It is believed they were driving to Newmarket when the shooting occurred.

A party of men in an automobile came upon the body with the woman standing beside it, and after questioning her they hurried here and notified the police.

When Chief Andrew Y. Davis and Dr. John G. Knowlton, the medical referee, reached the scene they say they found Mrs. Folsom still standing over the body by the roadside and clutching a revolver. She made no resistance to arrest and handed the weapon over to Chief Davis.

"Is he dead?" she asked the chief. "The chief told her that he was.

"I don't think he is," she said. "Feel his pulse."

The medical referee made another examination of the body, finding no sign of life, and Mrs. Folsom stepped into the chief's automobile, saying simply: "All right."

She was locked up and when asked if she wanted an attorney, she mentioned first Dwight Hall, former mayor of Dover, N. H., and afterward Edward G. Eastman, a former state attorney-general.

Mrs. Folsom is about forty years of age, and her husband was a little older. After a hearing before Judge Edward D. Maher, Mrs. Folsom was held for the grand jury. She pleaded guilty and said the court would not understand if she told her reasons for the shooting. "I have no case," she added.

On the suggestion of County Solicitor Ernest L. Guptil that she should be represented by counsel, the court appointed Stewart E. Rowe of Exeter, who entered a plea of not guilty. Afterward the woman was taken to the Portsmouth jail.

Chief of Police Davis testified that when he asked Mrs. Folsom why she shot her husband, she answered: "So he would not marry another woman."

The Folsoms were in a two-seated car when the shooting occurred. It is believed that Mr. Folsom was in the front driving and his wife was in the rear seat. Five shots were fired, all taking effect. One struck Folsom in the back of the neck, two entered the front of his head, and two the side of his head.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES—RESINOL CURED

Atlanta, Ga., April 24, 1913.—"My face was covered with pimples which defied creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me, coming in contact with many strangers as I do, as a business woman.

"By the time I had finished a can of Resinol Soap and half a jar of Resinol Ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were stunned, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed it, for the transformation was simply wonderful.

"Since then I have been using Resinol Soap and shall never be without it again, for I have learned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that may be attained by its constant use." ### MAN SOUGHT AS WOMAN'S SLAYER

Stranger Who Hired Boat Had Bag Like That in Which Torso Was Found.

Schenectady, N. Y., June 22.—A well-dressed man, who, on May 20, rented a boat of Claude Hanlon, is being sought by the police in the belief that he can clear the mystery connected with the finding of a woman's torso in the stream here Friday.

The stranger loaded a burlap bag and a piece of concrete into the boat just before starting. The torso was wrapped in such a sack and weighted down with concrete. A section of rope which was tied around the bag is declared to have been cut from the boat.

Hanlon recalls the appearance of the man distinctly. He was about 25 years old, dark, and weighed possibly 180 pounds. Hanlon thinks the man was not a resident of Schenectady.

For several hours before renting the boat, the stranger sat on a bench near the river, carefully guarding the burlap bag, which he had placed on the bench beside him. Finally he approached Hanlon and declared he desired to rent a boat to go fishing. As it was a cold day and no one fishing Hanlon remarked on this, but the man made no reply. He was not provided with poles or tackle.

Just before leaving the dock, the man deposited the burlap bag and a piece of concrete in the bottom of the boat.

It was still daylight then, and, as the stranger said he would return in a short time, Hanlon waited for him. When, at midnight, he had not returned, Hanlon went home. The following morning the boat was found at the dock. Nothing about it indicated that it had been used on a fishing excursion.

It developed Saturday night that Sarah Meader, 25 years old, has been missing from the home of her uncle, Thomas McDowell, here, for about a month.

Police are investigating her absence.

THE LETTERS ARE SHOWN

President Wilson Comes Back at "Big Business"

FIGHT OVER NEGRO RECORDER

Southern Men Demand a White Appointee for Recorder

Washington, June 22.—President Wilson Saturday contributed another chapter to the prosperity issue. There were given out at the White House numerous letters received since the president's return, early in the week, about circuit riders to business men requesting them to inform Washington regarding industrial depression being aggravated by the continued session of Congress. These letters emphasize efforts to "chastise the administration." A Tennessee correspondent wrote that his firm had been requested by a large corporation to "wire the senators and representatives asking for an adjournment of Congress without trust legislation."

Representative Reilly of Connecticut took to the White House a letter he received recently from New Haven declaring that clock factories there are charging shorter hours of employment to importation of foreign clocks. Mr. Reilly has obtained figures from the department of commerce showing that for the first three months of this year imports of clocks were $2000 less than for the first three months of 1913.

The president is giving much attention to patronage, many places remaining to be filled. A number of western nominees went in Saturday. An announcement from the White House of more than local interest is that the president will select a colored man for recorder of deeds in the District of Columbia. This office has been bestowed on colored men since reconstruction times. Southern senators want it given to a white man and propose to fight the president's nominee as they did recently without success, his nomination of a colored man for municipal judge in Washington City. The Senate is in the throes of a profound discussion over water rights on Fishland and other Indian lands in Montana. There is a western effort to take these rights from Indians, when not used, and sell them to settlers. With this question out of the way and the Indiana appropriation bill passed, Senator Newlands said Saturday he would attempt Monday to bring up his federal trade commission bill. The judiciary commission gave the day for further consideration of the Clayton anti-trust bill without particularly definite results. The House had a hot and heavy debate Saturday afternoon over the commissary at soldiers' homes. It was claimed by Representative Anthony of Kansas and Stafford of Wisconsin, both of whom have branches of the national homes for volunteers in their districts, that the veterans were not well fed. This was stoutly denied by Chairman Fitzgerald.

Attorney-General McReynolds received a communication from Gov. Walsh of Massachusetts Saturday expressing confidence that the legislature would find a way to dispose of the New Haven bills. In private conversations the attorney-general tells of his deep concern over the railroad situation in New England. He expresses his sympathy for innocent persons who have suffered from the mismanagement of the New Haven railroad properties and is hopeful that he will not be compelled to file the dissolution suit.

The conference committee on the agricultural appropriation is understood to have agreed from approximately $400,000 for farm extension work. This is the appropriation which the chamber of

SUFFRAGETTES IN AN UTTER ROUT

London Crowds, Give Many Innocent Women Rough Treatment in Baiting Suffragettes.

London, June 22.—Suffragette baiting has become a regular Sunday amusement to London crowds. The police were kept busy yesterday afternoon in Hyde park protecting women and escorting them to places of safety. Several suffragette meetings were broken up and the speakers hustled from the platform, with threats of ducking in the Serpentine and little discrimination was shown. Several innocent women spectators were subjected to rough treatment. The disorders became so serious that the police were obliged to use truncheons to disperse the rioters.

Boston, June 22.—Governor Walsh Saturday signed a bill to widen and deepen the Merrimack river for the purpose of navigation. The governor also signed the New Bedford harbor development bill, appropriating $350,000. The bill contains the provision that the city of New Bedford must turn over to the state water-front property valued at about $100,000.

Perfectly Simple.

Teacher—In what year was the battle of Waterloo fought?
Pupil—I don't know.

Teacher—It's simple enough if you only would learn to cultivate artificial memory. Remember the twelve apostles. Add half that number to them. That's eighteen. Multiply that by 100. That's 1,800. Take the twelve apostles again. Add a quarter of their number to them. That's fifteen. Add what you've got. That's 1,815. That's the date. Quite simple, you see, to remember dates if you will only adopt my system.

HANDS BAD WITH SALT RHEUM

Small Water Pimples on Fingers, Itched and Burned. Painful and Sore Cracks. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in a Month.

Brookline, Me.—"A few years ago my hands were very badly afflicted with salt rheum. At first there was an eruption of small water pimples on the inside of the fingers, and by not paying any attention to the humor my hands gradually became worse and began to itch and burn and one after another cracks appeared around the nails, on the inside of the fingers and on the bend of the joints until I was discouraged, as they were very painful and sore. I had to omit work that required putting my hands in water and could hardly work at all on account of the bleeding cracks.

"I finally procured some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I found by washing my hands in quite warm water and Cuticura Soap that they were improving. I began wrapping my fingers nightly in pieces of soft linen, after a good application of Cuticura Ointment which was very soothing. In a month my hands were completely cured and I have never been afflicted with the trouble since." (Signed) Mrs. C. L. Parker, Nov. 22, 1912.

LOS ANGELES SELECTED.

For Northern Baptist Convention, of 1915, New Meeting at Hub.

Boston, June 22.—The Northern Baptist convention voted to hold its 1915 sessions at Los Angeles, Cal. The appointment of general, state and foreign population evangelists and the establishment of a school for evangelism, recommended in the report of the commission on evangelism, were decided upon unanimously. The report also recommended the appointment of a permanent commission to co-operate with the home mission society in the evangelistic work, and advised that the new commission, in consultation with the home mission society, outline plans standardizing the work, so as to guard the churches against imposture, and at the same time facilitate intercourse between the evangelists and the churches that need their help. The commission on city missions recommended in its report that the Baptist publication society be instructed to consider the advisability of a more systematic development of the daily vacation Bible schools.

A STOMACH TONIC

There is a form of indigestion called "atonic" dyspepsia. Atonic means "lack of tone." It is probably the most common form of indigestion but not much is heard about it because people are inclined to group all forms of dyspepsia as "stomach trouble" and the doctors let it go at that.

Lack of tone in the digestive organs means that the stomach is no longer able to do its work as nature intended. The nerves that control it are weak, the glands that supply the digestive fluids are not working properly. Gas on the stomach, sour risings in the throat and constipation result. The cause of the trouble is thin blood. Stomach, nerves and glands are all dependent on the blood and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and the first response from the stomach is a better appetite, freedom from distress after eating and an increase in ambition and energy generally. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a stomach tonic and see how your general health improves.

A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Every druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.
