TALK OF THE TOWN

New couch covers at Abbott's. Constable George L. Morris of Averill street returned this morning from a stay of several days in Boston.

P. G. Lamson of Cambridge, Mass., arrived in the city this morning for a stay of several days in the Barre granite belt.

Come and hear how the ladies' quartet of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music can entertain. Watch for the date and place.

Mrs. Fred Millan of Elm street has returned to Barre, after spending several days with relatives in Boston and vicinity.

Jesse Reed of Somerville, Mass., a former employee of the Barre Electric Co., arrived in the city yesterday for a visit of several days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Marin and Miss Eva Seveigny of North Seminary street have returned home from a visit with friends in Burlington and Shelburne.

Peter Bainbridge, who has been employed at the Watkins billiard academy in the Morse block for the past year, began work this morning in the Marriot restaurant.

Charles Cady returned yesterday to his home in Woodbury, after spending several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wheeler of the Merchant street extension.

Miss Katherine R. Mathieson and Miss Ruth Parker of the Aldrich public library left this morning for Proctor, where they are attending a convention of state librarians.

Miss Emma Seveigny of North Main street, who is taking a 10-days' vacation from her duties in New York Bargain House, left last night for Providence, R. I., where she will visit relatives for a week.

Mrs. William Corti, who accompanied her husband to New York while the latter was en route to his former home in Italy, returned to Barre last evening. Mr. Corti sailed from New York Saturday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Barre Golf club, which was to have been held in the clubhouse to-morrow evening, has been postponed. It is proposed to have the meeting on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 4, although definite information will be supplied the members on postcard notices.

Mr. and Mrs. George Birnie and Elia B. Grene, who have been passing a few weeks at the home of George L. Morris on Averill street, left this morning for Woodsville, N. H., to make a short visit before going to St. Johnsbury for a more extended stay.

G. I. Beckley returned this morning from Bethel, where he attended yesterday the 41st annual reunion of the eight regiment association. The reunion was made the occasion for the dedication of a marker on the spot where General Stephen Thomas, a Civil war veteran, was born. At the dedicatory exercises Joseph A. DeBoer of Montpelier was the principal speaker. Fittingly enough, the reunion and the unveiling of the marker took place on the anniversary of the battle of Cedar Creek, in which General Thomas and the old eighth Vermont regiment took such a prominent part. A large number of veterans were present to participate in the observance.

Like a Mongul Engine

Like a powerful locomotive booming up the track with every ounce of steam directed on the piston head, using every ounce of energy to reach the topmost grade, we are now putting every ounce of our accumulated strength and energy into our season's business.

Unlike the huge mogul which has the whole load to pull, we are nearing the summit and now have the past two months of accumulated products to help us make the grade. Many have seen the handsome coat and suit models which we have had this season. Those who have seen the line and made their selections are now helping us to pull the load. We have now a full line of the season's best coat and suit models, and for the next four weeks nearly every express will bring some new models into the department. Let us show you the line, and if you do not find what you want, we will get it for you.

New Millinery Values

We have just received by express a large shipment of new Hats and Hat Shapes. Our season's large millinery business has proven to us that we have had the right merchandise and at the price we are putting out the extra Hat values makes the department as popular as any department in the store.

As the season advances the demand is getting stronger for the larger Hat Shape. These you will find among our new shapes, which we have had coming in in the last two weeks.

As the Hat Shapes begin to get a little larger the tendency seems to be more for the Colored Shapes, such as Greens, Browns and Blues. These seem to be very strong in matching up suits and coats.

This has been an unusually large millinery season, owing to everything being Black. It has been hard to work over the old shape and then at the very low price that you have to pay for a good Hat there is nothing gained in using the old hat.

The Coat Season

We are now in the midst of our season's busiest Coat business. While the season has been warm, people realize that when the cold weather comes they will need the warm garments, and then it is sometimes hard to get just what they want.

Our stock of the season's best Coat models is complete in every detail, and while we now have the largest assortment of Coats and Suits that we will have at any time in the season, we are constantly having new models coming into the department. If you cannot find just what you want and have in mind the cloth and style you would like, we will be more than pleased to get it for you.

We have an unusually large display of the Wooltex models. These are a Coat that are known everywhere and are recognized as authority on styles and then, every garment is guaranteed for two seasons, both as to the linings and materials. See this unusually large line of the season's best values.

The Best Is the Cheapest in the End

When you buy Munsing Underwear you are not taking a whack at what we are telling you. You are taking the experience of thousands of the best people in this country.

Over 8,000,000 Munsing Garments were used last year. Someone can tell you what they are like. Someone has tried and found them better than any other make.

Munsing Wear has a patent, perfectly flat seam. It is fitted different. The fullness in a Munsing is where it belongs. They cost no more than common kinds and are times better.

Munsing Wear this week in our window. This showing will interest you. Its the kind of Underwear that you want, for it will please you. You will have more underwear comfort than you have ever known. You will be glad that we told you so.

Munsing Wear for children in wool vests and pants at 50c each.

Munsing Union Suits in children's, boys' and misses' sizes at 50c and $1.00. One dollar buys the Wool Suit.

Ladies' Vests and Pants 50c and $1.00. One dollar buys the Wool.

Ladies' Union Suits for $1.00, $2.00 and $3.00 each. The two-dollar and three-dollar suits are Wool.

You can see by these prices that you could not buy what you have been using for any less.

We pay Parcel Post on this Underwear.

This is the time when the housewife is cleaning and getting ready for winter, and some room will need a new lace or muslin curtain. We are now cleaning up our department and find many odd pairs of good curtain values, which we are putting prices on to clean them up at once. At one-half price is a lot of odd curtains where there is only one pair left. There are other lots of from two to three pairs that we are to close at much under the regular prices.

Fred Millan of the Vermont Tire & Rubber Co. has gone to New York for a few days' business visit.

Regular meeting of L. A. to C. G. Tuesday evening, Oct. 20, at 7:30. All committees will meet directly after this meeting.

Dr. F. M. Lynde of Wellington street returned yesterday from a few days' visit in Boston, where he attended the dentists' convention.

From Williamstown to Berlin on the hilly ridge to the west of the city, farmers are on the lookout for a mother bear and a lone cub, who have been seen stalking about since last Thursday. People who have seen Mrs. Bruin and her daughter speak of the former in broken syllables for she is described as a vicious creature and of those who have glimpsed her there are few who do not openly avow their fright. Two or three times small possums have been organized to hunt the pair, but no one with a gun has ever encountered the bears, it is said. The bear and her offspring have been known to frequent farm buildings and barnyards at night and the fear of attack has kept women from going out of doors after dark. Folks along the ridge tell of getting within calling distance of the bears while driving home at night. Invariably the horses take fright and are not to be quieted until safe within their own stalls.

There is plenty of interscholastic football in prospect for the present week. At the seminary campus in Montpelier to-morrow Spaulding high school meets Montpelier seminary for the first time this season. The game begins at 3 o'clock and supporters of both elevens are looking forward to a warmly contested battle, although on paper Spaulding looks to be the better team. A large delegation of football fans from Spaulding will be on hand to cheer. The second Goddard-Spaulding "classic" is due to come off at the seminary campus here next Saturday afternoon. Fans who saw Spaulding come back from the Goddard defeat of a few weeks ago and make such a strong showing against Montpelier high school look to see the high school boys make things more interesting for the seminarians on the occasion of their second meeting.

Pity the Women of Europe.

In the October American Magazine Mollie Best, an American contributor now in Europe, writes the following letter showing how the women of Europe are the ones who are suffering most:

"You imagine a war as a state of great excitement; I believe it was more or less picturesque in London. But here in Belfast war means absolute desolation. The streets are thronged with people because all industry is paralyzed for lack of men. All night long, for two nights, thousands of white men, soon to be converted into fertilizer, have been loaded into boats and sailed away across the channel. Both the channel boats of any size have been impressed by the government. If I hadn't caught this boat it is unlikely that I would have another chance to leave Ireland. And I simply couldn't stand it. To-night on my corner were six lovely cow-eyed creatures, each with child, and weeping bitterly. One of the men had been well 'treated' by his companions and was hardly able to stand. His pretty wife was very patient with him. The men were all rather exhilarated. But these sturdy, laughing women who were walking the streets a few days ago with their heads thrown back, they laugh no more. There isn't as much weeping as you would expect. They are a very proud people. One looks up dry-eyed and says, 'I have six children and my husband has gone.' One says, 'My brother has been well treated' by his companions and was hardly able to stand. I doubt they have as much as one pound put by.' Sugar doubled in price as soon as war was declared and all provisions soared.

"I stopped and spoke to a handsome man who had just received notice to report. He said by Friday there would not be a single able-bodied man left in Belfast. He said I was as safe here as anywhere, but he thought I might have a better chance to get in touch with my own government across the channel, which is what I think myself. Besides, he said if I didn't leave to-night he was afraid I wouldn't have another chance.

The prospect of living in dirt, discomfort, and misery was too much. It's pathetic to see the men trying to comfort the women. War is exciting, an unknown adventure for the men; new scenes, new life, new conditions, certain excitement. For the women—well, just imagine women who could hardly make ends meet and never saw a penny. Just imagine them now with a household of little, hungry babies to feed and no money anywhere."

The New Spirit in Business.

In the leading food stuff factories the effort is to make cleanliness radiant. A large soup plant in Camden, N. J., exercises the most scrupulous supervision over every one of its employees that is in any way connected with the preparation of the soups. Hygiene and personal cleanliness are strictly enforced, but help is given by wise counselors (older women engaged for that purpose) and by regular medical observation. Manufacturing these things are also done, and Christmas presents for all, premiums for good work and model workrooms are among the other items that instance the thought given to the people. A member of this firm said to me: "We begin by believing that men and women are entitled to something more than wages and by that end aimed to make them as comfortable in their work as possible." The compensation has been found in happy and contented workers and in better work.

The big telephone companies prefer to call their activities efficiency work; they go in for most of the welfare ideas and add others, including lectures on hygiene, charity at Christmas, prizes for drawings and other excursions in talent and culture. A life insurance company with 3,000 clerks has a welfare scheme in a savings fund to which it contributes half as much as the individual depositor saves; this fund now amounts to over a million dollars.—Editorial, in Woman's World for November.
