A. H. GROUT OF NEWPORT RUNS FOR SPEAKER

Representative-Elect of Newport City Gives Plans

In a statement issued today, Aaron H. Groat, recently elected to represent the City of Newport in the House of Representatives at Montpelier, announces his candidacy for the position of speaker of that legislative body. "I am wholly free," says Mr. Groat, "from any entangling alliances." His statement follows: "Now that I have successfully passed the final obstacle and been elected a member of the next House of Representatives, I announce my candidacy for speaker of that body, which I am led to do because of the larger number of assurances of support which have voluntarily come to me from all parts of the state since my name was first mentioned in connection with that office."

"I have had an experience which gives me a thorough knowledge of legislative procedure, having been two sessions a messenger in the House, and three sessions employed in the Executive Department, advancing to the office of secretary of civil and military affairs where I was compelled to know intimately the inside workings of both branches of the general assembly."

"I am wholly free from entangling alliances with special interests and, if elected, shall be guided in the discharge of my duties solely by what may appear to be the best interests of all the people of the State of Vermont, and to this end I pledge all the energy and ability I possess."

SEARCHLIGHT'S ANNUAL SALE AND SUPPER

South Church Club Adds Large Amount to Treasury

The Searchlight's annual sale and cafeteria Thursday afternoon and evening attracted crowds to the South Congregational church and enriched the treasury of the club by several hundred dollars. For months committees have been at work preparing for the annual event and the success of the undertaking was in every way in keeping with the well-worked-out plans. The dining room and parlors were decorated with mountain ash and the various tables were most attractively set with their wares appealingly displayed.

One of the most popular tables was that devoted to children's and baby's articles. This was in charge of Mrs. George Newell with Miss Florence Day, Mrs. Morrill C. Barnes and Mrs. Arthur L. Stevens assisting.

The utility table in charge of Miss Helen Stevens carried a variety of useful articles that met with a ready sale. Miss Stevens' assistants were Mrs. Charles W. Ruter, Mrs. H. W. Blodgett, Mrs. W. J. Fair and Mrs. Harold Hollister.

Another attractive table was that devoted to confections and presided over by Mrs. Luther S. Jewett, Miss Alice Hall and Miss Mary Jewett.

Aprons of every variety were displayed and quickly sold by Mrs. Preston E. Mag. Mrs. A. M. Lang.

DR. CRAWFORD CHOSEN NEWPORT LEGION HEAD

Announce Future Plans at Meeting and Feed

The annual meeting of the American Legion Newport Post, No. 21 was held Thursday night at I. O. O. F. hall, Newport with a good attendance. Officers elected for the year were Dr. Fred B. Crawford, commander; vice commander, R. T. Gray; adjutant, Charles Lyster; treasurer, Aphonse Asselin. Abraham Shindell, Arthur Mooney, Charles Borella and Reginald Buzzell were elected as an executive committee.

The retiring officers reports were read and accepted. Major Reginald Buzzell made a motion that the Commander convey by letter the Post's appreciation to the merchants and business men of the city in closing their places of business on Armistice Day.

After the meeting the company adjourned to the Lakeside Restaurant where they enjoyed some mighty good eats provided by the famous chef, Earle W. Davis. Dr. H. E. Somers acted as toastmaster and called on several for impromptu speeches and an hour was spent in talking over the many topics of vital importance to every member.

Dr. H. E. Somers gave a brief account of the state convention at St. Johnsbury which had been given in the National weekly. He said "I believe we should have a state publication that would create a livelier interest."

"Everybody has high hopes of what the legion might and may accomplish. The Literary Digest claims over three million are eligible to become members but, we are unable to claim a membership as large as the Grand Army was in 1890."

ALLIES HAND SHARP NOTE TO TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 10.—The allied high commission this afternoon handed a note to the Ankara government representative here demanding the repeal of all measures relating to the customs, the public debt and the sanitary and other services which conflict with the capitulations and the stipulations of the Madras armistice agreement of 1918. Ismet Pasha, Turkish national foreign minister, left here this afternoon for Lausanne scheduled to begin there next Monday. The foreign minister told the Associated Press he was sincerely anxious for peace and was confident of achieving it if the allies adopted a reasonable attitude.

IT LOOKS LIKE AN OPERATION AND GERMANY FEELS ALL CUT UP ABOUT IT.

CASH CROPS TO PLANT URGED AT PEACHAM

Farm Bureau Officers Hold Profitable Meeting

Peacham is one of our best agricultural towns. It has the disadvantage, or advantage, of not being a railroad town, but it has many good things to offset this. Peacham has a successful creamery and that means that it has many prosperous dairy farms. Peacham has less foreigners, less democrats and less mortgages than any other town of its size in the state of Vermont.

Urges Democratic Party To Be Militantly Liberal In Policy

MR. DAVIES EXPLAINS TO FARMERS

Wants to Make Plymouth Creamery Paying Proposition

A meeting of the patrons of the Plymouth Creamery and other farmers who have been or may be patrons of the plant was held in the Town hall Thursday afternoon and several hundred farmers attended. The meeting was called by J. W. Davies of Boston who explained to the people what he wanted to do with the plant of which he is again the manager.

It will be remembered that Mr. Davies built the Plymouth Creamery about five years ago and under its management it had a large patronage. Later he decided to sell out most of his holdings to the farmers so that today there are 1,431 preferred and common stockholders. The company has had rather hard sledding under cooperative ownership.

By means of charts Mr. Davies explained what the Plymouth Creamery was doing and what it might do if more patrons brought their milk into the plant. He said there wasn't a better equipped plant in the country and that he wanted to make it pay. This could not be done unless the people patronized it. There is enough milk around here within a circle of 10 miles to run the plant 24 hours a day. The plant did a business in ice cream of over $40,000 last summer. They had 198 customers, including the Profile House, the Lake Larkton Club and other prominent White Mountain hotels. The ice cream is shipped all over northern Vermont. This, Mr. Davies said, was the most profitable way to use milk products.

The next most profitable way to use milk products was in condensed milk. On three cars of condensed milk which he recently bought outside, if he had been able to condense this milk in our plant here at St. Johnsbury we could have made nearly $1,500 on these three cars.

Even if we had paid the farmers 2.45 per hundred instead of 2.25 which we did last summer, Mr. Davies said it was his ambition to make the plant pay a reasonable return on the investment to both the common and preferred stockholders and pay the patrons more for their milk than they ever have received.

Rev. E. E. Grant of East St. Johnsbury said that Mr. Davies had returned as manager of the Plymouth Creamery without any salary and that he would not take a cent until the preferred stock paid the back dividends and the stockholders got a fair return on their investment.

Robert Armstrong said that when Mr. Davies ran the creamery the patrons got their checks the 20th of every month, but that under the new management they got a raw deal.

Replying to this assertion Mr. Davies said he had perfect confidence in the officer of the company and had any kick he wanted them to make all their complaints to him. He said he proposed to have everybody kept busy a week which was greeted with considerable laughter.

John Lenton of Passumpsic asked Mr. Davies how he got around the vote of the stockholders that no one could patronize the creamery unless he was a stockholder.

Mr. Davies replied that by vote of the directors he was given full authority to manage this plant as he saw fit, and he knew that he could never build up the creamery

"Curley" Burns to Arrive Saturday

A telegram from "Curley" Burns at Troy, N. Y., to E. J. Lyndes chairman of the Company D baseball committee, states that he will be here Saturday evening. With his arrival the real work for the local team will begin and the plans that have been hanging in the balance for the past few weeks because of incomplete details will be speedily developed.

The manager has already received letters from many of the leading teams in New York and New England stating their desire to play the locals; which shows that the American Legion-Company D team of last year composed of the same men who will play on this year's team, gained an enviable reputation during the season last winter.

Voters Rebuked "Stand-pat and Retroactive Forces" He Asserts

(By the Associated Press) CLINTON, Mass., Nov. 10.—Senator David I. Walsh, chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, said today the Democratic party must become militantly liberal and must be something more than a party of negation.

ACADEMY AND VOCATIONAL IN FINAL CLASH

Rival Elevens Line-Up for Big Contest on Armistice Day

St. Johnsbury Academy and the Fairbanks Vocational school meet on the Campus tomorrow afternoon for the third game of the series between that two schools. The first game resulted in a win for the Academy by a score of 6-0. The next game was more even, neither team being able to get a lead, and the game was ended with a tie score of 6-6.

Both teams have broken nearly even on the number of games won and lost, with the Academy slightly the favorite. But from the way the Vocational "leather pushers" smashed into the Lyndon Institute team the first part of the game here last Saturday and later held, and from point of weight and experience, outplayed the heavy experienced regulars of that school, would cause one to believe that the Academy steam roller will have to roll to nose out even a small defeat.

Below is a table showing how the respective teams measure up as regards height, weight and age, which shows the Vocational to favor by a six pound majority.

CHARGE HE SHOT TO KILL NEIGHBOR

MIDDLEBURY, Nov. 10.—The case is State vs. Wallace Cox, who is charged with an assault with intent to kill Arthur Dussault in Granville, August 18, was resumed today in an extraordinary term of county court. Cox is a farmer in Granville and workmen employed upon an adjoining farm testified that at a distance of 25 or 30 rods they saw Cox and Dussault apparently quarrelling on the Cox premises, that they saw Dussault grab something from Cox and throw it toward the Cox house; that Dussault's team ran away from the vicinity and Dussault followed after it. Then Cox, they said, went into the house and came out with a gun, which he fired down the road in the general direction which Dussault had taken.

CAPTURED 200 POUND BUCK WITH JACKKNIFE

Hunters Hunt In Vain While Men Get Deer Near Main Street

While hunters with expensive outfits, guides, and housed in camps at $10 a day are seeking the elusive deer in vain, a handsome buck weighing over 200 pounds walked nearly into the center of St. Johnsbury yesterday and today was allowing the table of a North Danville farmer. The deer was killed with a jack knife in the hands of Harley Higgins of St. Johnsbury.

Higgins and a North Danville farmer whose name Higgins didn't get, were coming along the North Danville road just before dusk last night and spied the big buck coming down the hill in back of Underlyffe and saw it cross Sleepers river. The buck became entangled up in a wire fence close to the river bank.

Mr. Higgins and the farmer found the buck so securely fastened that the farmer passed the buck by the antlers and held it while Higgins proceeded to end its life with one stroke of a jackknife.

Higgins was on his way home from a woodlot in North Danville. The farmer who was driving a team agreed to take the buck home and to send Higgins his share of the deer meat.

The Caledonian-Record called the office of Fish and Game Commissioner Sheldon at Montpelier by telephone today to see if this was a legal way to take a deer. Commissioner Sheldon was not in his office but his secretary said she could not see that it was illegal. The law, she explained, does not state that a deer must be shot. It states that deer "can be taken" between certain dates fixed by law.

As this is the open season for "taking deer" it is evident that the capture of the deer yesterday was within the law. The buck had those pointed antlers and was evidently a legal deer to capture.

WOODHOUSE ALIENATION SUIT
