SUNNY SQUIBLETTS

A candidate who won't agree to reduce the taxes and at the same time put in a lot of costly improvements, might as well retire right now.

But Republicans say "O Jim-in-y Crickets" when they look at Brother Cox.

Colleges getting ready to open up for work of the fall term, by repairing the pump under which they duck the freshmen.

The college professors are not all engaged yet, but you can be sure that the football coaches are all booked.

There aren't houses enough for people to dwell in, but perhaps some of 'em could find shelter in the garages being built all the time.

Gov. Cantu is reported revoluting in Mexico, but latest reports are that the Gov. Can't u-surp power.

Lotta these candidates that are roaming over the country, will be joining a Home Seekers Excursion November 2.

VICTORY AT LAST

After working and waiting for half a century equal suffrage has come in the United States by the vote of the Tennessee Legislature on Wednesday.

We welcome the advent of women into public life and are confident that the day of prejudice at their participation in public affairs has passed away.

That Vermont could not have the honor of being the perfect 36th is the only sad feature of a great victory.

Gov. Clement missed the opportunity of a life time to make history and his refusal to call an extra session was a deliberate attempt to thwart the will of the people.

Not having had the advantage of first-hand information about the great occasion, The Herald vouches not for the veracity of the chucklers, but they do say that Candidate "Curt" Emery challenged his opponents to get up like little men and

THE DEPRECIATED DOLLAR

Twenty-four years ago the country was stirred by a campaign dealing with the currency question. It was claimed that free coinage of silver would depreciate the dollar standard, that every dollar would be worth 50 cents only.

Now precisely the same thing has happened. The dollar has depreciated, but from other sources. Every man who has manifested thrift and laid away money in a bank, finds that his savings are only worth half what they were.

This has a most discouraging effect. It tends to deter people from thrift. There are many people who would be willing to go back to the half of their present wages that they formerly earned, if the prices then prevailing could be restored.

The change has been unevenly distributed. Many people are getting much more than double their former pay, while many others are getting much less than that.

Everyone is going to protest against having his pay cut, at least until the cost of living has gone down a corresponding amount. And it can't come down while the wage levels remain high.

Some one element has got to make the move first to get prices back at least part way toward normal. The first element to yield should be the people who are making liberal profits. They could cut their prices without suffering for it.

Not having had the advantage of first-hand information about the great occasion, The Herald vouches not for the veracity of the chucklers, but they do say that Candidate "Curt" Emery challenged his opponents to get up like little men and state what they had spent to date for campaign expenses, whereupon Candidate "Jim" Hartness sprang to his feet and wagged his fist—or his fingers, or his fingers crossed—under Emery's nose and said:

"Mr. Emery, I want you to understand I'm a gentleman," meaning by that, perhaps, that when he spent money he spent it like a gentleman.

Also, that Candidate "Fred" Bahbitt waved his arms protestingly aloft and declared that he "not spent a dollar except for personal expenses," which would be strictly according to law if he said it and if it were true.

But all was healed and sealed afterwards when the happy party and their women-folk "met up" at the hotel and amicably broke bread together.

Hartness was expounding some theory of government—about which he knows fully as much as he does about dairy farming—and one of his honorable but outrageous opponents suggested:

"But, Mr. Hartness, isn't that diametrically opposed to your theory as set forth in Bulletin No. 2?"

"By jove," it is said Hartness with a jovial grin, "I guess I didn't read that one."

All of which is not particularly important, even if true, but merely adds a faint tabasco tang to an otherwise boiled-mush campaign.

It is evident that the people who laid out the cemeteries never foresaw automobiles. Only sparse protection yet discovered against automobile thieves, is to own a car they won't steal.

Dr. J. D. Bachand of St. Johnsbury has the following letter in the Morrisville Messenger in reply to a recent editorial in that paper:

Editor of the Messenger—I read with interest your comment about my candidacy as "County Senator" for Caledonia county.

You state exactly the whole truth when you say that I am not a big man. I am only a very modest citizen and I will remain such whether elected or not, believe me.

When you state that there is no steam roller against me—you err. You have no conception of the situation.

Truly yours, J. D. Bachand.

The writer realizes the seriousness of the print paper shortage and for that reason he isn't submitting the menus for every day we have been in camp. However, these menus may be seen at anytime by any member of the St. Johnsbury organization at the Company L barracks.

Today was one of the first real pleasant days the First Vermont Regiment has had since its arrival in camp and the officers in command made the most of it by giving the soldiers some good stiff drilling. This was the last day of drill and as a result there was a good full schedule of maneuvers.

Monday was a big day for the troops in the field. Company L had orders to take a strong point on Engineer's Hill about a mile from their starting point.

Today the soldiers were given practically a repetition of the drill they were given yesterday, which consisted of skirmishing, deploying of troops and the taking of a strong point.

"Dry Bridge" on Danville Road Being Rebuilt The St. Johnsbury and Lake Champlain railroad are rebuilding the "dry bridge" on the Danville road just above Fairbanks village and the west-bound freight began unloading the timbers Thursday morning.

They will be erecting by P. Baldasaro, a Bellows Falls contractor, and will be ready for use by the first of October if not before.

These motorists that knock people down and then run away, are very likely soon to get a knock-down to the turnkey.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Harold C. Abbott and Mildred A. Smith Married at the Latter's Home

One of the prettiest of mid-summer weddings took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith when their only daughter, Mildred Arlene, was married to Harold Cedric Abbott. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. F. B. Richards, the double ring service being used.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white embroidered crepe metoo, with tulle veil caught with orange blossoms, and she carried bride's roses. Mrs. David Harriman of Springfield, Mass., a sister of the groom, played the wedding march and Mrs. Frank H. Philburt of Essex Junction, another sister of the groom, was the maid of honor.

The bride and groom left in an automobile for Wells Beach, Me., amid a shower of confetti and on their return will be at home after Sept. 1 at No. 14 Main street.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Wilson of Skinner, Me., Miss Marion King of Worcester, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Williams of Craftsbury, Miss Elizabeth McKenzie and Mrs. Charlotte Whittier of Cambridge, Mass., Chester Somers and family of Barnet, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Drew of Lyndonville, Mr. and Mrs. Allen and daughter and Mrs. Lane of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Beeman and Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Philburt and daughter, of Essex Junction, Mr. and Mrs. David Harriman and son of Springfield, Mass.

The bride has been the secretary in Supt. W. H. Young's office and the groom has a responsible position with the Cary Maple Sugar Company.

They have the heartiest congratulations of their many friends here and elsewhere.

"CORNS" Lift Right Off Without Pain

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting. Then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the cal-luses, without soreness or irritation.

Climate and Longevity. The general death rate is found to increase with rising temperature and to diminish with a falling thermometer.

LEAKY RADIATORS permanently repaired by Duzit, a powder compound. Positively will not clog the tubes or pump.
