Clarence Simpson, the young son of Leonard H. Simpson of Waterford has sent into this office an apple which is quite a curiosity. One-third of the skin is a dark red and the other two-thirds is a bright yellow. The line of demarcation is very marked. The boy picked the apple from the tree and thinks that luck is still with him as soon after that he caught a handsome red fox in one of his traps.

"Square Deal Sanderson" the Art-craft Photoplay which features Wm. S. Hart is without doubt one of the strongest pictures Mr. Hart has thus far been seen in. Those who care for action piled on action, true love and the code of honor of the far west, who revel in scenes which show the everlasting hills and the deserts that stretch into miles in every direction, where men live and die hard, will find it all in "Square Deal Sanderson". They will find in Hart a wonderful mixture. Wild and inflexible in his fight for the right, but tender and cowed by the presence of the woman he loves, he goes to the limit—and over—for her. And beautiful Ann Little is the woman, a sterling actress, which insures a wonderful combination. At the Please U today
